LENGTHY RAIL WAGE BATTLE THOUGHT NEAR

Executives Meet Today in Atlantic City to Reply on Pool.

WASHINGTON SESSION, NOV. 2, ALSO SLATED

Agreement, It Is Believed, Would Add $100,000,000 to Annual Revenue.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Wall street tried valiantly yesterday to be happy over the Interstate Commerce Commission's emergency-rate pooling plan, but speculative sentiment clung doggedly to the view that the final effect of the scheme still is to be determined. Rail securities closed uniformly lower, and the opinion took hold in influential quarters that an involved and protracted wage controversy is just around the corner.

The American Association of Railway Executives will meet at Atlantic City today to formulate the carriers' answer to the rate pooling plan, and until that decision is published all other projects for rehabilitating railroad credit are at a standstill. The next move, official opinion goes, must be from the railroads.

Meanwhile, railway labor officials have been summoned to meet in Washington on November 2—"for a general discussion of general matters," as one craft chieftain put it last night. Pending this conference the labor spokesmen decline to discuss the prospect of wage negotiations. It was learned, however, that hurried long-distance telephone conversations between Washington headquarters of the railway labor organizations and the Cleveland executives of the brotherhoods followed closely publication of the I. C. C.'s decision Tuesday afternoon. Although the November 2 meeting was said to have been arranged far in advance, it was generally acknowledged that wage policies will be considered.

Jewell Is Silent.

B. M. Jewell, president of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor, whose headquarters are in Chicago, conferred here yesterday with officials of the rail brotherhoods, but declined last night to indicate the purpose of his Washington conversations. Labor spokesmen, for the most part, take the position that they are not involved in the railroad situation, since they have indeterminate wage contracts which can be changed only by negotiations after 30-day notice. Thus, the initiative for wage reductions—should the executives decide at Atlantic City that they can not be escaped—must come from the railroads.

Although there appears little doubt that the railway executives will accept the I. C. C. plan "in principle" this week, the practical difficulties of administering the surcharge pool offer serious obstacles to its effective operation, in the view of many rail officials. Moreover, several legal authorities have cited the possible necessity of court action to empower executives of the more affluent lines to turn over part of their earnings to the pool for the alleviation of the weaker roads.

Hope that all these difficulties might be dealt with in Atlantic City, or worked out quickly by a special committee of rail executives, is the foundation of the confidence expressed in official circles yesterday that the plan will become operative before the first of the year.

Additional Revenues.

Those who take this view emphasize that with complete acceptance of the pool by the carriers, additional revenues to the extent of $100,000,000 or $125,000,000 annually will be immediately in prospect. The resultant increase in railroad security values might then serve as a basis for further emergency credits, through the operation of the National Credit Corporation, or some special agency set up for the railroads. Refusal of the rail executives to perfect the pooling arrangement, on the other hand, would close the door to all

Polite Man Robs Couple in Garage

Takes $51, but Woman Saves Rings by Tossing Them Into Auto.

A "polite but determined" robber last night held up Mr. and Mrs. William D. Willcoxon, of 1305 Quincy street northwest, as they were parking their automobile in a garage near their home. Mr. Willcoxon is a special agent of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice.

Mrs. Willcoxon said she was driving the car and had just entered the garage. Mr. Willcoxon had gotten out when a man entered the doorway and commanded him to "Give me your money!"

The robber enforced his command with a pistol. The man then approached Mrs. Willcoxon and demanded her rings, but she refused to give them up. Just then Mr. Willcoxon made a movement and the holdup man told him, "Buddy, if you make another move, I'll shoot you."

While the man's attention was turned, Mrs. Willcoxon pulled her rings from her fingers and threw them in the back of the car. Evidently fearing the approach of some passerby, the holdup man abandoned the argument over the rings and fled.

New Fighting in China; League Is Pessimistic

Japanese Garrison at Tiehling Attacked by 2,000 Chinese.

Tokyo, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—News of fresh fighting in Manchuria reached Tokyo tonight just as officials were expressing hope that settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute was near.

Mukden dispatches said reinforcements had been rushed northward to Tiehling, 45 miles away, where a hard-fought battle between the Japanese garrison and 2,000 previously defeated Chinese soldiers had halted traffic on the South Mancurian Railway line.

Five fundamental conditions for ending the Manchurian difficulty had been presented at Geneva to the council of the League of Nations.

Although the Chinese press accorded the move a most frigid reception, the optimistic attitude taken by the French foreign minister, Aristide Briand, a leader in the negotiations, had led to the hope here that the five points would provide a satisfactory basis for direct parleys with China.

A clash near Mukden more than a month ago between Japanese railway guards and Chinese soldiers led to Geneva Fearful U. S. Support Will Not Be Accorded.

Geneva, Switzerland, Oct. 21 (A.P.). Shaken by doubt of American support and confronted by Japan's stoutly maintained refusal to withdraw her Manchusian troops until her terms have been met, the Council of the League of Nations faltered today in its efforts to establish peace between China and Japan.

Pessimism was so complete that a proposal to adjourn the council's special session for three weeks, without concrete action to arrest the Manchurian conflict, was debated.

Observers feared that the crisis, now five weeks old, would continue unchecked. The fate of the February disarmament conference and the life of the league itself were declared to be hanging in the balance because of the turn of events in Manchuria.

It was admitted that the council sized the situation up thus: After giving the league cordial assurances of Washington's support in its efforts at pacification, and after accepting the invitation to sit with the council

TRIBUTE PAID EDISON AS BODY IS LOWERED

Inventor Rests Under Giant Oak Beside Assistant Who Died of Grief.

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Thomas A. Edison was buried after dusk today in Rosedale Cemetery. The funeral cortege, which left the Edison home soon after 4 p. m., following a simple ceremony, wound slowly about the Edison estate, plant and laboratory. The body was lowered into the grave at 5:40 p. m.

The body was placed under a giant oak near that of Mr. Edison's assistant, John Ott, who died Monday of shock and grief over the passing of the inventor.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover accompanied the Edison family as far as the grave and then left immediately to catch a train for Washington.

Dr. Herben read a brief ritual. The members of the family, Mr. and Mrs. Ford and Mr. and Mrs. Firestone dropped white roses on the casket.

Mrs. Edison leaned on the arm of her son, Theodore, and stood silently at the brink of the grave. The coffin went gently down into the earth. The sun sank. The mourners went back to their cars and the motors whirred softly in departure.

Soft light of the three-quarter moon drifted down with the falling autumn leaves to illuminate the mound of freshly turned earth. Beside it was left a magnolia wreath from President Hoover, a plain wreath of orchids from Mrs. Hoover, a wreath of heather, gardenias and bonvardin from Harvey Firestone, a spray of goldenrod from Henry Ford.

Six State troopers in light blue coats and dark blue breeches stood at

150 Oakland Policemen To Face Bribe Charges

Oakland, Calif., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—District Attorney Earl Warren declared today he had obtained evidence which probably would result in the dismissal of more than 150 Oakland policemen suspected of accepting bribes from bootleggers.

Warren said 200 to 250 protected bootleggers in Oakland had been paying policemen $40,000 to $50,000 a month for about four years and that the aggregate amount of their payoff thus far might amount to as much as $3,000,000. Speakeasies paid $125 to $200 a month for protection.

NEW SLUMP-RELIEF HEARING SET TODAY

La Follette Plans Creation of Economic Council; Conditions Improving.

An effort to supplement Government machinery designed to relieve the existing economic depression and to guard against future similar difficulties was announced yesterday by Senator Robert M. La Follette, jr. (Republican), of Wisconsin, chairman of the Senate committee on manufactures and one of the Western independents in the Senate.

Hearings preliminary to the development of a national economic council, which would be charged with advising private industry and Congress with facts to forestall future depressions, will be begun at 10 o'clock this morning, Senator La Follette announced.

The economic council hearing will supplement that already under way by another Senate committee considering possibly desirable legislation dealing with unemployment insurance.

Neither hearing will interfere with the functioning of President Hoover's unemployment relief organization, which yesterday received reports from more than 30 cities of improving business conditions.

In the realm of unofficial reports was the assertion that the railroads of the Nation, having been denied the 15 per cent rate increase they asked, are contemplating a reduction of the wages of their employes, an action against which there appeared to be no adequate defense in the functioning governmental executive and legislative agencies.

Senator Henry D. Hatfield (Republican), of West Virginia, and Senator Morris Sheppard (Democrat), of Texas, with Senator La Follette, comprise the subcommittee of the Senate committee on manufactures which will begin hearings this morning on

Edge and Wife Leave Paris on Way Home

Paris, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Ambassador Walter E. Edge and Mrs. Edge left this morning for Cherbourg on the way home.

The ambassador plans to spend part of his vacation at Atlantic City, N. J., but also will be in Washington frequently. He plans to return to Paris early in December.

Iowa Farmers Preparing To Battle National Guard

Sheriff Reports Throng Numbering Between 500 and 1,000, Some Armed, at Burlington to Resist Tuberculin Tests on Cattle.

Burlington, Iowa, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Determined opposition to the State testing of cattle for tuberculosis, which has been almost continuous since March, tonight broke out in a new sector in southeastern Iowa.

The farm of Jake Everstman, just north of here, became the camp ground of a group of men, women and children estimated to number between 500 and 1,000, who gathered avowedly to resist indefinitely further testing of cattle by State veterinarians.

Many of the farmers rallied about their leader before dawn. Determined and grim, they indicated they would resort to open fighting to gain their end. They barred entrances to the farm of the county president of the Farmers Protective Association and admitted no one except those they know to be opposed to the statute and the presence of troopers.

In the camp 5 miles away 250 veterans of similar but less bitter demonstrations in three other counties prepared for the arrival late today of reinforcements of 150 Cavalrymen from Iowa City, Des Moines and Washington, Iowa, and a platoon of liaison workers. In addition, 1,300 other National Guardsmen were ordered mobilized by Adjt. Gen. W. H. Bailey after it became apparent that previous rebellions would be repeated in Des Moines County. Brig. Gen. Park A. Findley, commandant of the guards, said no testing would be attempted until after arrival of reinforcements. This was taken to mean late tomorrow or Friday.

Everstman talked to newspapermen over the telephone. He said his followers would stay with him until State veterinarians and their military protectors attempted to continue the testing.

In Des Moines officials seemed to be apprehensive of conditions and to regard the gathering at the farm as of a distinctly threatening nature. Sheriff Delbert Murray, of Des Moines County, reported to Gen. Bailey that some of the farmers were armed.

Des Moines, Iowa, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Twenty-three additional Iowa National Guard companies, comprising 1,300 men, were ordered to mobilize today and proceed to Burlington to assist in testing cattle for tuberculosis.

HOOVER ORDERS BETTER SYSTEM FOR PERSONNEL

Finds U. S. Hiring by One Hand as It Fires by Other.

NEW POOL CREATED TO TRANSFER HELP

Wood Continues Work Upon Graduated Scale of Pay Cuts in Service.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

President Hoover has made it clear that he wants more efficiency in the handling of the Government personnel.

Tired of one Government department firing experienced employes on the same day that another department hires inexperienced employes certified by the Civil Service Commission in response to a call for additional workers, President Hoover has ordered the creation of a superdepartmental organization to take up the slack in Government personnel.

Rear Admiral T. T. Craven, retired, head of the Government Coordinating Bureau, has been placed in charge of a "personnel pool," created in response to an order of President Hoover, which is in line with his thought and the policies of the interdepartmental personnel board he created some time ago, headed by Commissioner Thomas Campbell, president of the Civil Service Commission.

Transfer System Sought.

The Government, President Hoover believes, should get the full advantage of the brains and brawn on its pay roll before it takes on new employes. When one department has a dull period and another has a rush of work, he contends, the proper thing is to shift employes from one to another to meet changing conditions, thereby saving in actual expenditures thousands of dollars, to say nothing of the additional sums, which may be only guessed at, indirectly expended due to inexperienced workers.

Why, the President wants to know, should the Census Bureau, for example, dismiss thousands of employes, at the same time that the Civil Service Commision is advertising examinations for Government clerks, and is deluged with thousands on thousands of applications for the privilege of taking the examination? Mr. Hoover isn't accustomed to that kind of management and he can't understand why the Government should suffer under it.

Sharp Order Issued.

That he desires action in the matter was made clear in his latest very emphatic order. That order didn't order cutting personnel nor hint at reducing salaries. But it did make clear that the badgered Chief Executive, fighting against the maneuverings of many bureaucrats, wanted quick obedience and intend-

Oil "Czar" Report Denied by Curtis

Tulsa Paper Claims Direct Information, Despite His Statement.

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—A report that Vice President Charles Curtis might resign to become czar of the American oil industry was reiterated tonight by the Tulsa World, despite a Curtis statement at Washington that the story was "pure nonsense."

The World said it had "direct and reliable" information that the Vice President would resign "before Christmas" if the American Petroleum Institute approved the plan at its annual meeting next month. Informed of the Curtis denial, N. G. Henthorne, editorial director of the paper, said, "We have nothing to change in our story."

Professing speculation as to how the plan will work out, the World said it undoubtedly "has at least a sound beginning, and leaders of the oil industry have been working to bring out some such arrangement to stabilize the industry."

New Action Begun On Walker's Agent

2 Lawyers Hope to Force Aid to Face Probers in New York.

Mexico City, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—A new effort to force Russell T. Sherwood, personal accountant for Mayor James J. Walker of New York, to return and testify before the Hofstadter investigating committee in New York City was begun tonight, after the committee's lawyers had consulted with American Ambassador Reuben Clark.

The two lawyers, Sidney Handler and Philip Haberman, who served a subpena on Sherwood but were informed that he refused to recognize the service as valid, said the ambassador gave them several "exceedingly helpful suggestions."

"We are going to work on them immediately," Handler said. "We hope we may be able to force Mr. Sherwood to return to New York."

GREAT MERGER OF U. S. OCEAN LINES FORMED

Dollar Announces Plan Agreed Upon by Magnates.

SHIPPING INVOLVED SAILS IN BOTH SEAS

Dollar-Chapman-Dawson to Get Half Ownership in Roosevelt Group.

San Francisco, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—A gigantic merchant marine combine of Pacific and Atlantic Coast shipping companies was announced tonight by R. Stanley Dollar, vice president of the Dollar Steamship Lines. The announcement followed recent conferences here between the interests represented.

Mr. Dollar eliminated all speculation concerning the shipping conferences when he announced five major essentials of the program agreed upon by the Eastern and Western shipping magnates. The five points were:

Acquisition by the Dollar-Chapman-Dawson group, backed by the interests of Herbert Fleishhacker, Pacific Coast financier, of half ownership in the Roosevelt Steamship Co., which is interlocked with the International Merchant Marine.

Taking over by the United States Lines Co., a Nevada holding corporation, of the United States Lines fleet.

U. S. Lines Ownership.

The United States Lines Co. to be owned jointly by the Dollar-Chapman-Dawson group of the Pacific Coast, and the Roosevelt Steamship Co., of the Atlantic Coast.

Intercoastal service of the Dollar steamship lines and the Panama-Pacific Lines to be continued, with nonconflicting schedules to be worked out to avert overlapping.

The fleet of the United States Lines to be kept in Atlantic waters.

Ratification of the program by Eastern interests has been delayed because of the absence of P. A. S. Franklin, president of the International Merchant Marine, in Europe, Dollar said.

Dollar asserted he was informed by long distance telephone from New York today that the Shipping Board has virtually consented to further extension of the time within which signatures to the contract for taking over the United States Lines may be affixed.

He expected the Shipping Board to make an announcement tomorrow.

Participating Magnates.

The conferences which brought about the combine were between Dollar, Kenneth R. Dawson, Portland, Oreg., shipping magnate; Paul M. Chapman, head of the United States Lines, and Herbert Fleishhacker, representing the Pacific Coast group, and Kermit Roosevelt, head of the company bearing his name, and John M. Franklin, son of the president of the International Merchant Marine.

Dollar confirmed earlier reports a general agreement reached calls for effective cooperation between Pacific and Atlantic shippers for general protection and strengthening of the American merchant marine throughout the world.

Dollar also stated the Eastern group's demand for withdrawal of the Dollar intercoastal service in favor of the Panama-Pacific service more than once threatened to break up the conference. He said it would have been impossible for the Dollar company to withdraw its eastbound service, which shippers are generously supporting.

Regarding the holding company, Dollar stated the shares, preferred and common, would be equally distributed between Western and Eastern interests.

"The arrangement is on a fifty-fifty basis," he said, "just as it is in the acquisition by the Western group of half of the Roosevelt Steamship Co.

Rubio Completes Mexican Cabinet

Minister of Interior's Post Goes to M. C. Tellez.

Mexico City, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—President Pascual Ortiz Rubio tonight announced formation of a new cabinet designed to concentrate the government's strength against recent manifestations of unrest in Mexico.

In addition to the previously announced appointment of former President Plutarco Elias Calles as minister of war, the president said the important cabinet post of minister of interior had been given to Manuel C. Tellez, former Ambassador to Washington.

Other cabinet members included Francisco Elias, minister of agriculture; Luis Montes de Oca, minister of treasury; Narciso Bassols, minister of education; Aaron Saenz, minister of commerce; Gustavo Serrano, minister of communication; Genaro Estrada, minister of foreign affairs, and Lorenzo Hernadez, chief of the federal district.

$50,000,000 Is Added Cotton Value in 10 Days

New Orleans, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Statisticians estimate today that $50,000,000 had been added to the value of cotton in the last ten days.

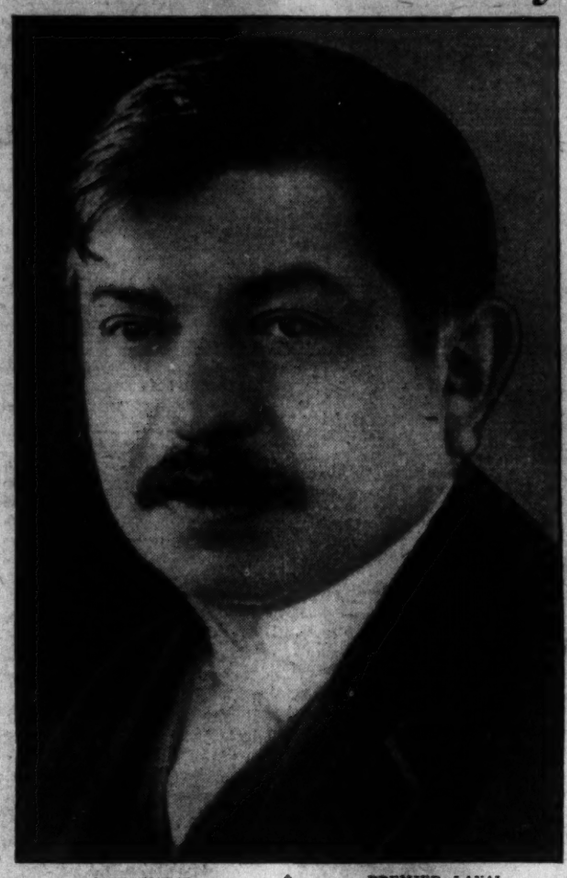
Washington to Greet Premier Laval Today



PREMIER LAVAL,
France's president of Ministers' Council, who arrives in Capital this afternoon to visit President Hoover.

Government Will Accord French Leader Welcome of Nation.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

The City of Washington—a city laid out by one of his own countrymen, Maj. Pierre Charles L'Enfant—awaits the arrival of Pierre Laval, Premier of France, today.

A republic such as this can't go in very much for brilliant pomp. To the extent that it can indulge itself, however, the United States Government will accord the French leader all the honors that are due his exalted rank.

When he steps from his train at 3:15 this afternoon, he will walk through an aisle formed by Marines. Outside Union Station, he will hear the strains of his beloved Marseillaise, played by a military band. High dignitaries of the American Government will greet him, and then 15 motorcycle policemen will spreadeagle traffic for him as he starts for the mansion that is to be his home.

Here, however, the traditional program will vary. Ordinarily, a distinguished visitor is taken on a swing around the United States Capitol be-

SEARCH IS FAILURE FOR TRUNK SLAYER

Husband of Mrs. Judd Is Nabbed When He Gets Mystery Note.

Los Angeles, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—An aura of strange friendships, drugs and liquor permeated Los Angeles' trunk murder mystery tonight.

Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, suspect in the killing of Miss Hedvig M. Samuelson and Mrs. Agnes Ann Leroi, had vanished.

Authorities feared she committed suicide soon after the bodies of Miss Samuelson and Mrs. Leroi had been shipped in trunks from Phoenix, Ariz., to Los Angeles.

In pushing their search for Mrs. Judd, police of two States unearthed letters which passed between the three women, hinting of unusual relationships in their Phoenix apartment, of flirtations with tradesmen, of the use of drugs, and of liquor parties.

Citizens in widely separated regions volunteered the information that they "thought they had seen" Mrs. Judd, frail, 27-year-old doctor's wife. Investigation in each case revealed the informants were mistaken.

Dr. William C. Judd, middle-aged physician, who married the fugitive

Many more policemen will be eased out of the department than the scope of the shake-up thus far has indicated, if the District Commissioners take action consistent with the findings of the Department of Justice in its recent investigation, according to opinions heard in Federal circles yesterday.

While it is pointed out that the reports submitted to the Commissioners by the Department of Justice make no recommendations whatever, it became known yesterday that the reports contain many names, dates, places and other facts not revealed in any action thus far.

The reports, it has been stated, will not be made public until after the eighteen policemen now under indictment for brutal treatment of prisoners have been tried in the Police Court, and officials of the Department of Justice and of the Dis-

Strike Mob of 15,000 Is Disbanded by Police

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—A demonstration of 15,000 striking textile workers outside the Arlington mills tonight ended without disorder after every available policemen in the city had been rushed to the scene.

The massing of the strikers followed upon a parade of 500 workers from the woods to the Arlington mills. Both, however, had been closed earlier in the day, when, for the third successive day since they reopened, an insufficient number of workers had returned to operate the plants.

Baron Von Mumm, Former Wine Magnate, Shoots Self

New York, Oct. 21, (U.P.).—Baron Walter Von Mumm, one time millionaire manufacturer of the famous champagne sold under his name, was in North Shore Community Hospital on Long Island tonight with a possible chance of recovery from a self-inflicted bullet wound near the heart.

Von Mumm's attempt to kill himself, made at the home of his wealthy friend, William H. Vom Rath, at Glen Head, Long Island, was attributed to his reduced circumstances. The former multimillionaire, it was learned, rented a $9-a-week room in Manhattan Monday. Several notes were found by police. One, addressed to Vom Rath, had $100 enclosed for payment of a debt, and said: "I did this because I did not wish to live any longer."

Von Mumm's champagne business was wrecked by the World War and adoption of prohibition in the United States. For some time past he has been a customers' man in Wall Street brokerage houses, with a daughter, Mary, in school in the South. He was married in London before the war to Francis Scoville, daughter of a Kansas banker.

Before his marriage he had figured in a romance with Mrs. Marie Van Reinsemer Brown-Creel, an American woman, in Paris. This ended when Von Mumm was shot twice, supposedly because of his interest in the woman.

HOOVER-LAVAL TALKS TO OPEN ON GOLD BASIS

Metal Standard Seen as Only Present Point of Agreement.

DIFFERENCES GREAT ON OTHER SUBJECTS

War Debts and Armaments Are Expected to Prove Most Difficult.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Conversations between President Hoover and Premier Laval will mark beginning of a new epoch of Franco-American understanding. Results of their discussions will, however, go far beyond their own two countries and will have a profound influence on political and economic destinies of every country of Europe, and particularly Germany, Italy and Great Britain.

At the present time there seems to be but one point on which the president and the premier see eye to eye. This is maintenance of the gold standard. The great bulk of the world's gold, coffered as it is in the Bank of France and the Federal Reserve Banks of this country, has created a common interest between the two nations even before their eminent statesmen met.

This is to be but a phase of the general economic discussion which will in all probability be inaugurated tomorrow night when the premier spends the evening at the White House as a guest of the President.

Differ On All Other Points.

The French and American theses are known to differ very considerably on every other point of the program. Both statesmen have to take into account action of their respective legislatures and if Premier Laval has the sad fates of M. Briand and M. Caillaux, under similar circumstances, to look back on, President Hoover can also recall what happened to President Woodrow Wilson when he tried to "sell" the League of Nations to the Senate.

Greatest possible pains have been taken to assure the French statesman that he will be presented with no cut and dried formula for solving international difficulties. On the contrary, he will be invited to take the initiative for discussing with President Hoover every problem which, in his opinion, comes within their common scope of interest.

Secretary Stimson declared "the sky will be the limit."

World Crisis Is First.

Paramount consideration for both statesmen will be the economic condition of the world and the best efforts they can make to remedy it. On this score the position of Premier Laval will undoubtedly be general adherence of the French government to any reduction of war debts, but cleavage will come when President Hoover suggests that France undertake to remit to Germany anything beyond what France will receive from the United States.

France has always insisted on continuance of unconditional payments of 500,000,000 gold marks annually from Germany and although this payment was temporarily halted for this year by President Hoover's moratorium, the payments will have to be made by Germany beginning with 1933, and then with interest.

President Hoover has announced that any further discussion of intergovernmental debts between him and any other statesman will be conditioned on the principle of "ability of the debtor to pay." This is the same principle which was considered by the United States in arriving at the total of French, Italian and British indebtedness in the postwar debt settlements.

Debts Involve Armaments.

The Hoover debt proposal has, however, a codicil which is eminently as important as the proposal itself: Armaments. In his various speeches throughout the last year the President has stressed necessity for gradual reduction of armed forces. He has followed this doctrine himself by slashing the budget of the Navy after the London treaty had very nearly reached the "irreducible minimum" of

AKRON WILL REACH HOME DOCK TODAY

Leaves Birthplace for Lakehurst After Formal Acceptance by U. S.

Akron, Ohio, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Riding lights twinkling out of the dusk, the U. S. S. Akron bid a last farewell tonight to Akron as it cruised eastward on its flight to Lakehurst, N. J., where it joins the Navy's air fleet.

Weighing-off at 5:43 p. m. (Eastern standard time), the Akron did not set its course until 6:25, after circling twice over the city in last salute to its birthplace. At 7:50 it passed over Pittsburgh.

The Navy Department was advised that the dirigible Akron would point its course out of the Pennsylvania mountains to the eastern part of the State and thence to Lakehurst. It expected to reach its moorings about sunrise.

Only about 100 persons were permitted on the field to witness the Akron's final take-off.

Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, inspector for the Navy Bureau of Inspection and Survey, signed final acceptance papers and turned them over to P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Aboard the ship, under command of Lieut. Comdr. Charles E. Rosendahl, were Dr. Carl Arnstein, dirigible expert for the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation; W. C. Youn:, manager of the aeronautics department of Goodyear; J. C. Hunsaker, vice president of Goodyear; W. H. Collins, general superintendent of the Zeppelin works, and Carl Bohrer, Maybach expert.

Lewistown, Pa., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The U. S. S. Akron, newest Navy dirigible, passed over Reedsville, 4 miles northeast of here and in the heart of the Pennsylvania mountains, at 10 o'clock tonight.

(United Press.)

The Navy Department yesterday issued orders for the dirigible Los Angeles to make a Southern cruise that will take it over Atlanta, Ga., on Navy Day, next Tuesday.

Weather permitting, the Los Angeles will leave her base at Lakehurst, N. J., Monday. The orders call for her to cruise Tuesday over Columbus, Fort Benning and Athens, Ga., as well as Atlanta.

Either on the way South or on the return trip the dirigible will stop at the Parris Island, S. C., naval base, where there is a mooring mast.

Court Upholds Search In Wine Brick Charges

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—United States Commissioner Francis A. O'Neill dismissed today a motion to set aside the search warrant under which the premises of Vino Sano Distributors, Inc., wine brick makers, were raided July 12. Three officers and employes were arrested at the time for allegedly violating the Federal prohibition law.

O'Neill did not pass on the question of whether the sale of wine or grape concentrate bricks is in itself illegal. The decision was based on his belief that Federal agents testified truthfully when they said they had been instructed by employes how to make "good wine" from the bricks.

There followed a meeting of executives of various departments and the "personnel pool" idea was carried into the preliminary stages of actuality, details of which Admiral Craven would not discuss, putting questioners off with an admission that though the conference had been held in his office he had never been interviewed and still had nothing to say.

Representative Will R. Wood (Republican), of Indiana, chairman of the House appropriations committee of the last Congress, was anything but Hoover-like in his discussion of the subject of Federal economy yesterday. Mr. Wood suggested a graduated scale of reductions in the pay of Government employes. Although protesting his friendliness for the worker and his appreciation of the fine work done for them by the unions, Mr. Wood has prepared a graduated scale of reductions in pay for Government workers. It is only fair, he believes, that Government salaries should be reduced in view of what States and cities and private industry has done, and, besides, every Government worker should be grateful that he or she has a job instead of having to walk the streets looking for work, as do some of the former employes of private industry.

Yes! We Have No Words For the Right Vocabulary

By JOHN J. DALY

WILL wonders never cease? Dr. Parker Day, president of Union College, finds that the human race has five vocabularies. One is the simple vocabulary of old friends; another is used by the immediate family; the third—a little stilted—when the speaker wishes to be formal and dignified; the fourth belongs to writers, and the fifth is seldom used because the words seem unseemly and unworthy.

Then, there is the sixth vocabulary, easily recalled as the vocabulary of love. Like a verdant meadow, it sprouts in the spring, with a young man's fancy and a young woman's, too; indeed, the female of the species is usually fancier than the male.

THE seventh vocabulary comprises the language of outdoor sports, of the ball park, the golf links, the bull-fight arena, the tennis courts, the hockey field, the cricket garden, the hand-ball alley, and all those places where high-blood pressure is prevalent with the glorious descriptions that excitement gives to the game. No ordinary vocabularly is this, in whatever language it breaks forth—French, Spanish, English or Czechoslovakian. In fact, the more flexible the vowel construction the more picturesque the flow of oratory. This is no ordinary vocabulary.

A good vocabularly is really elastic. It ought to stretch each way—left and right—to meet all manner of circumstances and with no halting stanzas. Practice, they say, makes perfect, and vocabularies grow by the use of dramatic dialogues, though the higher and more intellectual element of the art is the choice of words. One good word aptly applied is worth a column of stragglers.

There is the vocabulary, for instance, that enables the high school girl to talk baby-talk, and her male consort on the other side of the room to simulate the antics and activities of "a tough," all for the glorification of gangdom.

OFFHAND, there are about eight vocabularies, without counting the vocabulary used in traffic; but there must be many more, unheralded and unsung.

What of the vocabulary of the sea, and of the seashore, where people become acquainted with the murmur of the mermaids and hear what the wild waves are saying?

Time and place usually shape the vocabulary, and there is, consequently, the vocabulary of the theater, the prize-ring, the parlor, bedroom and bath; the vocabulary of church and state; which is to say, after all, that the vocabulary is reduced to two planes: sacred and profane.

AS there are really two languages—written and oral—the whole fabric is woven of only two vocabularies, with one extra held in reserve, a sort of spare tire vocabulary; mental words that are formed but never uttered or put on paper.

Marshalled together, these make the mightiest army of words in the world; but Conscience, the sentry, always on guard, seldom permits them to pass in any language, including the Scandinavian.

FRENCH NOTABLES SEE L'ENFANT CITY

Inspect Beauties of Capital Designed by Fellow Countryman.

In a round of semiofficial amenities, France's delegation to the Yorktown celebration spent a busy day yesterday viewing the sights of this city which was planned by Pierre Charles L'Enfant, a fellow countryman. The entire group, including Marshal Petain, its head, will go to Annapolis this afternoon, but will return in time for the dinner to be given them by President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House tonight.

Bright and early yesterday the party began its day with a visit to Vice President Curtis in his office at the Capitol. After this the group was escorted to Bolling Field by Maj. Howard C. Davidson, commandant at the field, where they inspected the Army aircraft there, including the new autogiro of the Army. A visit was then paid to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, where a wreath was placed by the group.

Secretary of State Stimson entertained Marshal Petain and his associated descendants of Frenchmen who fought with this country in its war for independence at a luncheon in the Pan-American Building during the early afternoon. Late in the afternoon the delegation visited the headquarters of the Sons of the American Revolution, exchanging felicitations with the officials of that organization.

All the time between their engagements was put in by the French group in admiring the sights of the city which was dreamed by L'Enfant, and which they saw for him has become an actuality. They were particularly laudatory of the wide tree-lined streets of the Capital and of the flower-dotted circles which L'Enfant laid out with an eye to both beauty and military strategy.

Farm Board Wheat Will Be Surveyed

Chairman Stone Announces That Holdings Will Be Made Public.

(Associated Press.)

The public is going to have a peek into the Farm Board's wheat storehouse to see just how much grain is there. Chairman Stone said yesterday the board's holding will be announced soon after his return from Chicago Saturday. Efforts heretofore to obtain this information have always met with refusal.

Private estimates, with which the board has never seriously quarreled, have placed the board's total purchases in nearly two years at between 250,000,000 and 275,000,000 bushels. Recent sales and trades have cut this to about 185,000,000. The latter statement will disclose the board's cotton operations, loans to cooperatives and its financial position as of July 1.

A month ago the board had approximately $100,000,000 in its treasury from the original $500,000,000 fund. Of this about 50 per cent was committed in loans to cooperatives.

PANARETOFF'S WILL HAS MANY BEQUESTS

Institutions in Bulgaria Are Numbered Among Beneficiaries.

Many bequests to persons and institutions in Bulgaria were provided for in the will of Stephen Panaretoff, Bulgarian diplomat, who died October 19, it was shown yesterday when his will was filed for probate.

The Bulgarian Academy of Sciences at Sofia is given $25,000 with which it is to establish a library, and the academy is also given a number of smaller trusts for scholarships in Bulgarian philology. Small trust funds were also provided for the boys' and girls' gymnasiums at Sofia.

Her highness, Princess Evdokia of Bulgaria, is given $1,000 as patroness of the "Yasli," to be used in her discretion for the benefit of "the Manger." All money in Panaretoff's name in Bulgarian banks also goes to the academy. The Bulgarian Red Cross receives $2,000; the Community Chest of Washington, $500, and Mount Holyoke College, in Massachusaas, receives $500 for the purchase of books for its library.

Books of the diplomat go to the American College at Simeonovo, Bulgaria, and establishes funds for students who show proficiency in Bulgarian competition.

Other bequests are: $1,000 to the club Zora Sliven, Bulgaria; $1,500 to the trustees of Robert College at Istanbul, Turkey, for a library; a like amount for the trustees of Constantinople Woman's College at Istanbul, Turkey; $1,000 for a benevolent society known as "Maternal Duty," in Sliven, and bequests of $500 are made to his cousins, Mihal G. Aranoudoff, Shtilyana Georgieva and Kouton Yanakieff, of Sofia. Charles S. Baer, of Washington, is to get all pictures, rugs, bric-a-brac and the like. The remaining estate is to go to the Bulgarian Academy. Value has not been placed on the estate by Frank L. Peckham, named as executor.

Herndon and Pangborn Visit President Hoover

(Associated Press.)

Two nonstop fliers—Hugh Herndon and Clyde Pangborn—stopped yesterday at the White House.

The Pacific fliers stayed long enough to shake hands with President Hoover and pose with him for pictures. They were accompanied by Mrs. Herndon and Assistant Secretary Young of the Commerce Department.

After a call on Ambassador Debuchi of Japan and a visit to the State Department, Herndon and Pangborn planned to return to New York. They expected to receive there today the $25,000 check offered by a Japanese newspaper for their flight.

Former Priest Is Loser Of Jilt Suit for $50,000

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Betty Randolph, former Follies actress, won the $50,000 breach of promise suit brought against her by Benjamin Chudacek, former Czechoslovakian priest, when a jury reported a verdict in her favor late today.

The jurors, who returned before noon with verbal pictures of Chudacek as a "religious gigolo and fortune hunter" and as "the heart-broken victim of a publicity-seeking actress," deliberated nearly four hours.

Miss Randolph thanked the jurors for their verdict and told them:

"American men are superior to foreigners in matters of justice."

Chudacek was not in court. His attorney's motion to have the verdict set aside was denied.

Contending he had twice been jilted by the attractive actress, Chudacek, through his lawyer, had asked that the "woman be made to pay."

The thrice-divorced actress was pictured as the victim of a "thick-skinned person who continued to bother a woman even though he had been turned down," and as a woman "who knew what she was doing when she accepted $600 in gifts from Chudacek and signed a marriage license with him."

After declaring the plaintiff had given up an independent church he started in Johnstown, N. Y., in order to be able to marry the actress, his counsel said:

"Miss Randolph promised to marry him when she signed the marriage license. Of course, she was in the habit of signing such licenses and might have signed this one in her sleep."

During the trial, which lasted for more than two days, Miss Randolph wearing a brilliant red coat over a long flowing gown, sat smiling while Chudacek testified she had told him she was "all alone in this great big world," and wanted some one to "save me from night life."

He admitted corresponding with many other women, but said they generally wrote to him first.

He said he knew Miss Randolph's income was $62,000 a year, "but with me it was all love."

When the actress took the stand, she said she promised to marry the minister on one occasion because "he tried to throw me out the window."

"I thought if you can't trust a minister, who can you trust?" she told the jury.

Once he asked her for $100,000, she testified.

PORTO RICO POLITICS BEFORE U. S. COURT

Jurisdiction in Island Party Factional Dispute Is Questioned.

Boston, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The right of certain former members of the once powerful Unionist party of Porto Rico to break the alliance with the Republican party which was entered into in 1924 was debated before the United States Circuit Court of Appeals today.

Col. William C. Rigby, of the United States Army advocate general's office, representing Eduardo J. Saldana, executive secretary of the island government, defended the decision of the Porto Rican Supreme Court which denied the existence of the Unionist party but said that, right or wrong, the question was not within the jurisdiction of the Federal court.

On behalf of Antonio R. Barcelo, for many years president of the Unionist party, and his coappellant, Miguel Martorell, O. B. Frazer, of New York City, chief of counsel for the plaintiffs, argued the act of the Porto Rican Legislature of May, 1927, was in violation of the organic law and therefore unconstitutional.

Barcelo is a candidate for the office of resident commissioner at Washington and Martorell for a place on the board of equalization and review.

The court took no action on Col. Rigby's motion to dismiss the appeal because of lack of jurisdiction. Frazer will continue his argument tomorrow.

Six Men Are Injured In Tennessee Blaze

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Six men were injured, one perhaps fatally, here tonight while fighting a fire in the National Furniture Co.'s three-story building.

The fire, one of the most spectacular in the city's history, brought response from all equipment in the city. The building, on a principal street, was engulfed in flames when the first apparatus arrived. A policeman was believed dying from injuries received in his attempts to fight the flames.

HEARINGS TO BEGIN ON NEW IDLE RELIEF

Senator La Follette's proposal for a national economic council.

E. A. Goldenweiser, of Washington, director of the division of research and statistics of the Federal Reserve Board, and Laurence H. Sloan, of New York, vice president of the Standard Statistics Co., are the first two witnesses who are to appear before the La Follette subcommittee, which will hold its hearings in room 412 of the Senate Office Building.

The hearing is held under authority of a resolution introduced in the last Congress by Senator La Follette. The resolution was supplemental to a bill introduced by him providing for appointment by the President, with the approval of the Senate, of a national economic council of fifteen members embracing representatives of the various fields of the Nation's economic structure. Senator La Follette is not determined to fight for the exact provisions of his bill, details of which may be changed as a result of the hearing. The hearing is expected to last a week or ten days.

Dangers Apprehended.

Apparently fearful of what might happen if the Government undertook to prescribe and regulate unemployment insurance as a guarantee against business slumps in the future, witnesses before the Hebert-Wagner unemployment insurance committee yesterday stressed the advantages of putting the burden of what was to be done on private industry.

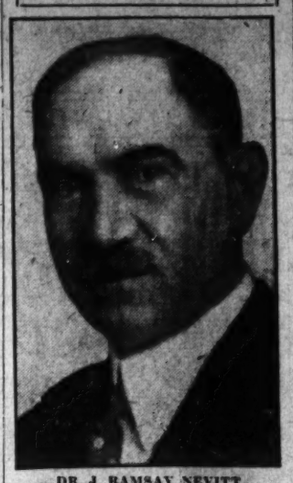
"The principal aim," M. B. Folsom, assistant treasurer of the Eastman Kodak Co., of Rochester, N. Y., told the committee, "should be to reduce unemployment rather than to provide benefits for employes out of work."

If the entire cost of such unemployment insurance is borne by the employer, Mr. Folsom said, there would be greater incentive to the employer to guard against heavy lay-offs of employes. The plan recommended by Mr. Folsom, described as the Rochester plan, differed in that respect from the proposal of the General Electric Co., and he found fault also with the latter plan because workers would receive only 60 per cent of their normal wages for a maximum of thirteen weeks.

He opposed a Government system of insurance, but suggested that Government aid might be extended through taxation exemptions and through advisory activities and setting up efficient employment exchanges.

Insurance can not solve the problem, James D. Craig, an actuary of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., told the committee, because the exigencies of a business depression can not be forecast.

WOULD RETIRE



DR. J. RAMSAY NEVITT.

CORONER 31 YEARS, NEVITT TO RETIRE

Physician Gives Reason as Disability in His Petition.

Application for retirement because of physical disability has been filed with the District Commissioners by Dr. J. Ramsay Nevitt, District Coroner. His application, received yesterday has been referred to the Civil Service Commission for action. Coroner Nevitt asked to be retired because of physical disability and because he has not reached the retirement age of 70 years.

Dr. Nevitt has been in the service of the District Government as coroner since August 16, 1900. Born in Richmond County, Va., on June 25, 1867, he graduated from Columbia University in 1889, and received his medical degree from that school.

He began his service with the District in 1890 a sa member of the Engineer Department and in 1892 was placed in charge of the District Hospital for Contagious Diseases. In 1894 he was appointed to the Board of Police Surgeons, becoming president of that board in 1895.

Excused Juryman Explains to Court

H. L. Johnson Says He Did Not Understand Question on U. S. Pension Pay.

Henry L. Johnson, Spanish-American war pensioner, who was excused from grand jury duty after it was found that he was a Government pensioner, in his answer to a citation that he be adjudged in contempt for his failure to make known that fact, yesterday said that he did not understand the clerk of the court to refer to pensions when he asked about "pay from either the District or Federal Government."

Mr. Johnson also said, in his formal written reply, that he suffers various physical ailments, and that he was dizzy and tired by standing a long time in the courtroom at the time, and that he therefore, did not hear the direct question which is usually asked about pensions.

He denied that he wilfully refrained from making known his pension pay, and he also denied that such a pension would unfit him for grand jury service. Johnson was calendared to appear to answer the charge yesterday, but his written reply, filed through S. McComas Hawken, had the effect of throwing the case into the calendar class for which a time will have to be set.

GLASSFORD PLEDGES DUTY TO TRADE BODY

Whalen and Rover Are Also Speakers at Session of 1,000 Members.

In the brief space of less than two hours, more than 1,000 members of the Washington Board of Trade last night heard a cure for the business situation expounded by Grover Whalen, former police commissioner of New York City, the first public speech by the Capital's newly appointed superintendent of police, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, and a defense of the grand jury system from the United States district attorney in this city, Leo A. Rover.

Rarely in the history of the trade organization has a more varied program been presented.

Gen. Glassford was introduced by George W. Offutt, president of the trade body. His first words of greeting proved almost too powerful for the loud speaker apparatus. A chuckle rippled through the crowd as the mechanism squeaked under the barracks-like blast of the soldier. The new chief of police laughed and then rapped out a brief but forceful message.

Gives Pledge to City.

First, he observed, that efficiency of such an important unit in a city as the Police Department depends on the man who heads it.

"Perhaps there are many in Washington who have cause for anxiety over their new chief of police," he went on, "because of my lack of experience in municipal affairs. However, the District Commissioners have shown sufficient confidence in me to handle the police situation as it exists in Washington today.

"As an acknowledgement to them, I can best paraphrase the pledge I took at West Point when I became an Army officer. That pledge was to 'duty, honor and county.' My new pledge as chief of police will be to 'duty, honor and the City of Washington.'"

Renewal of confidence and a business plan for the Nation were described as the greatest needs in the country today by Mr. Whalen, who is now general manager of Wanamaker's department store in New York.

Home Plan Needed First.

He declared that before the United States attempts to aid in formulating a curative plan for Europe, it should work out an adequate one for itself. However, he sounded a warning note against an attitude of aloofness to the situation abroad, reminding his audience that the world is quickly becoming a unit, and should be treated as one.

Failure of trade organizations in guiding industry in production and in helping to manage industrial problems was described by Mr. Whalen as "an outstanding cause of the present business depression."

"Our industrial leaders have always felt snug and confident," he declared. "They did not realize that we had the same problems yesterday as we have today. What we should do now is to encourage those who have money to discontinue economizing and spend while prices are low. The primary duty for each one of us is to win our own way and contribute toward the building of a sounder business structure.

Rover Defends Jury System.

Mr. Rover defended the grand jury system as a protection for citizens against "possible overzealous prosecutors" and as the fairest means of bringing an accused man to trial. He advocated adequate salaries for jury commission members. He said that a recurrence of the snag struck by a grand jury recently when a member was disqualified can be prevented only by the "intelligence of lawyers and laymen."

Walter Bruce Howe asked the organization for support of the National Symphony Orchestra of Washington. Archibald Shipe told of events planned for the Halloween celebration. Fred East and William Raymond offered entertainment. At conclusion of the meeting, lights were lowered and the audience stood in tribute to Thomas Edison.

RAIL WAGE BATTLE LOOMS; REPLY ON POOL DUE TODAY

hope of other relief measures by the Government. Any attempt by the railroads to condition their acceptance of the pool on a wage adjustment will constitute rejection of the commission's plan, it was pointed out, for Tuesday's formal decision explicitly disjoined the two phases of the existing railway problem.

Preparing for Answer.

Despite the view of the labor leaders that wage discussions are not imminent, statisticians in labor headquarters here have been digging for several weeks for material which answer such a demand from the rail executives. Their findings point to the argument that the railroad pay roll of approximately $2,500,000,000 a year represents one of the largest items in the national income and that any curtailment of this purchasing power would tend only to delay the general economic recovery so essential to the permanent improvement of the railroad's financial position.

Average wages of train operative crafts now are about 65 cents an hour, which the labor organizations contend is not out of line with the general industrial wage level.

Moreover, due to the decline in traffic during the last 18 months, railroad workers as a group are now averaging only about four days a week. The relief funds of the various unions are nearing exhaustion, according to these studies, and in many cases labor treasuries are greviously pinched by the inability of the members to pay dues.

Speculators Are Losers When Tip on Rails Fails

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Stock market speculators who thought they had inside information on the Interstate Commerce Commission's freight rate decision were nursing burned fingers today.

Rail stocks were bid up $2 to $6 a share early yesterday, as a "hot tip" was passed around in some brokerage quarters that the Interstate Commerce Commission would announce freight rate increases of $3 to $6 a car after the close of the market.

This tip, it was learned in Washington later, was based on the fact that part of one page of the decision had leaked out in advance. The specuulators did not learn, however, that the commission proposed that all increased revenues should be pooled to aid weaker roads. Apparently, also, they were too enthusiastic in their calculations as to how large, in the aggregate, the increase was.

At any rate, the railroad shares fell back precipitantly today, after the full decision had become a matter of public knowledge. Losses during the morning amounted to $4 to $8 a share in issues that had been bid up $2 to $6 yesterday. These losses were partly regained later, however.

Banking and brokerage quarters generally had not paid much attention to the "hot tip" yesterday, for there had been so many premature rumors during the past fortnight that a decision was imminent, and mentioning terms, that a tendency had developed to regard the gossip on the forthcoming decisions as mere guesswork.

Potter Is Given Credit For Rail Pooling Plan

(Associated Press.)

To Mark W. Potter, former member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, goes the credit for having first proposed the surcharge pooling scheme suggested Tuesday by the commission to the railroads as a means of lifting railroad credit.

Seven or eight years ago, Potter suggested that railroads pool a portion of their earnings to better the situation. First official notice of the plan was taken by the commission in a study of revenues of railroads in the Western District in 1926.

"There is some reference in the testimony, briefs and oral argument to the so-called Potter plan," said the opinion in that case. "Under that plan the revenue derived from any necessary increase in freight rates in the Western District would be pooled and distributed to the participating roads in the proportion in which they failed to earn a return of 5.75 per cent. No party to the proceedings pressed its adoption and in view of the conclusion hereinafter reached there appears to be no occasion at this time to discuss it further."

The commission in the Western case refused the railroads an increase.

Long forgotten by many, the plan was revived by Potter on November 14, 1930, in a letter to the commission written when it became apparent that the railroads were approaching financing difficulties.

GLASSFORD MAKES ADDRESS TO POLICE

His Talk Before V. F. W. Post Outlines Ideas on New Job.

Contacting for the first time some of the men that he will command, Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, in a brief address at the meeting of the Police and Firemen's Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, asked the cooperation and support of the policemen in the order when he assumes the duties of police chief.

Responding, the organization, led by Commander James E. Bennett, Traffic Bureau policeman, unanimously pledged its aid and loyalty.

Saying that he was intensely interested in the prospects of his new job, the general admitted that he had "no knowledge of the present police situation," and that he carried no preconceived ideas for a revolution of the system. Although he believes that his military experience will be invaluable and that there is an analogy between police and military service, he said that he realized that in applying the military idea many modifications would be necessary.

Judge Robert E. Mattingly, who recently fined Gen. Glassford in Traffic Court for driving past a stop sign, also addressed the post. Commenting on his sentence of the future chief of police, the judge said that if he came before him again on a similar charge he would "soak him more than $2."

Other speakers who congratulated the members on the formation of the post were Inspector E. W. Brown and Lieut. M. D. Smith, of the Traffic Bureau, and Judge Isaac Hitt, of Police Court.

Formal installation of the post's officers was effected.

STEPS FOR POLICE OUSTER ON WIDE SCALE ARE SEEN

trict alike are extremely reticent about discussing the reports.

It is known, however, that although one investigation concerned itself exclusively with charges of mistreatment of prisoners by policemen, the other was much broader in its scope and uncovered a great many evidences of police inefficiency as a result of which, if consistent action is taken, a large number of vacancies will need to be filled in police ranks from private up.

To avoid publicity, it is the intention of the District Commissioners to ease the offenders out of the department gently, using physical disability as an alibi for dismissal wherever possible. This is the course already being put into practice.

This policy is meeting with little if any favor in the department, principally for the reason that at the same time a substantial number of policemen are being called before the board of police and fire surgeons for examination whose records are flawless and against whom no possible complaint cpuld be raised without a "frame up."

Being retired because of physical disability just at this time is not a pleasant prospect for those members of the department whose work is above reproach, inasmuch as it places them in the same class with those being ousted for inefficiency, or more serious offenses, and draws no line of distinction.

Members of the department who pass the physical examination, on the other hand, are in an enviable position as standing above suspicion of becoming involved in the shakeup. In this group, it is pointed out, is Inspector T. R. Bean, head of the liquor and vice squad. Inspector Bean was called before the board and examined, but passed, as did also several others of the score or more examined this week.

107 Summoned to Appear.

In all, 107 members of the department, up to and including Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of the department, have been summoned to appear before the board for physical examination. Maj. Pratt failed to pass, and his retirement has been set for November 1.

How many of the 85 men still to be examined when the board resumes its duties today after a one-day layoff are involved in the shakeup proceedings as a result of the Department of Justice investigation is a secret which is closely guarded both by officials of the Federal agency and of the District.

When the board reconvenes today, it will examine 42 members of the department, and 43 more will be examined tomorrow. That will complete the schedule as far as it has been prepared.

Meanwhile, after postponing his examination and analysis of the Federal reports while the retirement of Maj. Pratt and his first assistant, Inspector William S. Shelby, was claiming the spotlight of official attention, as soon as this task is completed, it is expected that a large additional number of policemen, ranging in rank from private to inspector, will be called before the Board of Police and Fire Surgeons for examination.

The retirement board, meanwhile, will not meet again until Saturday, when it will act upon recommendations of the surgeons covering their examinations up to that time.

In its investigation of conditions in general, the Department of Justice retraced happenings in the Police Department over a period of years, in which was studied in minute detail not only the various charges of police inefficiency and corruption which have been made during the course of various actions and investigations in the past, but also in many instances which were not uncovered until divulged in camera to the Federal investigators by witnesses whose identities have been kept carefully concealed.

One thing which will become apparent to District officials as they analyze the report is that, unlike other cities such as New York and Chicago, where most of the police corruption is to be found in the upper ranks, the root of trouble in the District department springs from the lower ranks, while the higher officials are not, on the whole, deeply involved.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, who will take office November 16 as Maj. Pratt's successor, called at the District Building yesterday for a conference with the Commissioners, after which he was introduced to a number of District officials and newspapermen. He was silent as to his plans for conducting the department, however.

The attitude of Maj. Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Commissioner in charge of the Police Department, is that Brig. Gen. Glassford is to have quite a free reign in reorganizing the department after he assumes command.

Broad Reorganization.

Almost complete reorganization will, of course, be necessary as a result of the shakeup, coupled with the additional retirements which will be made on bona fide grounds of old age or physical disability. At the same time, Gen. Glassford is known to have ideas about the conduct of a police department which parallel those held by Gen. Crosby, so that the two probably will be able to follow each other's suggestions in quite general harmony.

General comment about the appointment of Brig. Gen. Glassford was in expression of satisfaction yesterday.

H. NESBIT IS KILLED AND DAUGHTER HURT

Banker's Car Strikes Halted Truck at Muirkirk on Way to Laurel.

Harrison Nesbit, former resident of Washington and president of a Pittsburgh (Pa.) bank which recently failed, was killed yesterday, and his youngest daughter, Elizabeth, was critically injured when the car she was driving smashed into a heavy truck parked on the Baltimore boulevard at Muirkirk, Md.

The two, who are well-known among horsemen in Washington and Warrenton, Va., their summer home, were en route to the Laurel races when the crash occurred. After their light coupe struck the truck it rebounded into a guard rail between the road and the railroad tracks at this point.

According to an officer of the closed bank Mr. Nesbit carried a large life insurance policy in favor of the institution. The policy was reported to have been issued for $1,000,000.

Miss Nesbit, who is 18, was taken to Casualty Hospital and was still unconscious six hours after the accident. She is reported to be suffering from a possible fractured skull and possible internal injuries. She is youngest of the three Nesbit children.

Judge H. M. Scott, of Laurel, a personal friend of the family, identified the two. Judge Scott, who acts as coroner, said there would probably be no inquest, although he will conduct an investigation to learn how the death car struck the truck, which was parked partially off the road. He said that season passes to the Laurel races were found in the possession of the father and daughter.

Mr. Nesbit, who was 56, was president of the Bank of Pittsburgh, N. A., when it failed several weeks ago. Affairs of the institution are now being wound up. He was also president of the Highland National Bank of Pittsburgh, and was a director of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., the Weirton Steel Co., and Four States Coal Co., and other firms. In 1922 he was chairman of the finance committee of the Democratic national committee.

Mr. Nesbit was a native of Missouri, but was graduated from the National University Law School in 1900. He also atended Episcopal High School in Alexandria, the Berkeley School in Washington, and Massachusetts Institute of Technology. In 1896 he married Edith Herron, of Washington.

The parked truck which figured in the crash was being driven by John E. Pfeiffer, of Baltimore, who was in a barbecue stand across the road at the time. The truck, of six tons capacity, belongs to the National Lead Co., of Baltimore.

In addition to his daughter, Elizabeth, Mr. Nesbit is survived by his wife, another daughter, Edith Carolyn, and a son, Scott Herron. Funeral arrangements have not been made, but relatives have decided to have the body returned to Warrenton.

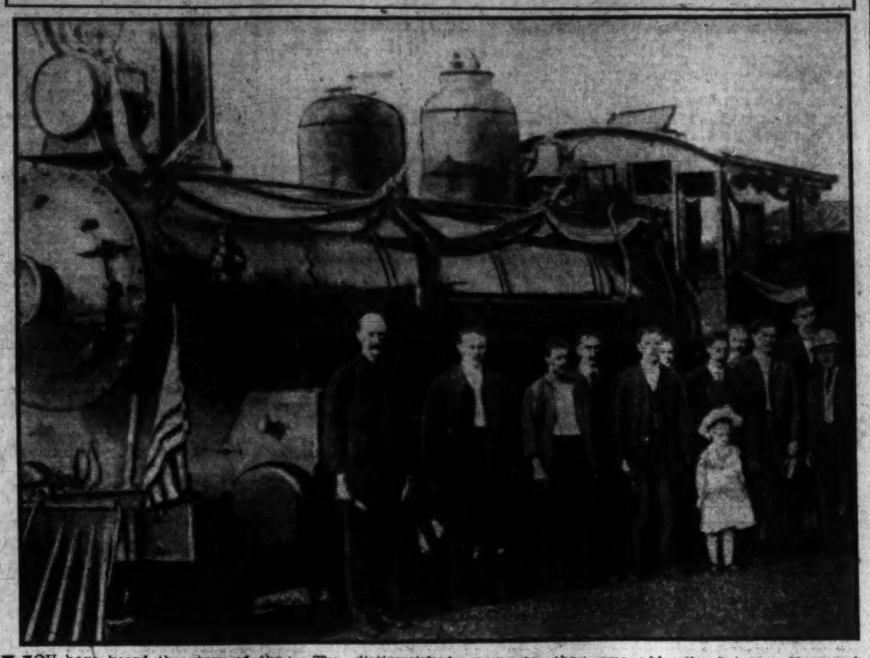
When Washington Was Younger—No. 82



YOU have heard the story of the street car motorman who goes for a tram ride whenever he gets a day off.

Well, way back in October, 1906, it was quite the thing to do. Witness the above photo of the Chesapeake Beach Railway trainmen, on their annual outing to Chesapeake Beach, 25 years ago!

The distinguished group in the foreground is made up of officials of the railroad company, employes and their families. The gentleman on the left with the Groucho Marx moustache probably is the engineer, going for a little train trip on his day off.

As for the locomotive, all decked out in American flags, and especially shined up for the occasion—it is "Old 98," which used to knock off the 30 some odd miles between Chesapeake Beach Junction and the beach in record time.

The railroad still is an institution closely tied up with the life of the Capital and of "the beach," though "Old 98" in all probability has made its last run over the hills and valleys that used to reverberate to the noise of its driving wheels and the shrill tones of its whistle.

TREE-HANGED BODY MAY BE CRATER'S

Found Near Maine Summer Home of Vanished New York Judge.

Stark, Me., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—The body of a man was found hanging from a hemlock tree in deep woods here today. It had been there apparently more than a year.

The spot where it was found is less than fifteen miles from Belgrade Lakes, where Joseph Force Crater, missing New York Supreme Court justice, made a summer home.

Dr. Warren G. Sawyer, Madison medical examiner, said an adequate description of the body was impossible because of the length of time it had been exposed to the harsh climate of the Maine woods.

He said the man appeared to have been about 6 feet tall, had a rough beard and probably was somewhere near 60 years old. On the limb of a nearby tree were hung a soft gray hat, a coat, a vest and a necktie. The coat bore the label of a Massachusetts clothing store, but Sheriff Elton H. Markham refused to divulge its name.

The man had hanged himself, Dr. Sawyer said, by using two fence rails to climb the tree and had then walked out on a limb with a trace chain about his neck. Trace chains are used to harness horses to the whiffletree of a cart or wagon. With the trace chain dangling from his neck he had stepped out into space.

A DAY WITH EDISON

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN

AT 10 o'clock in the morning of October 21, 1929, the President's Special rolled to a smooth, gentle stop at Dearborn Transfer, Mich. On the unsheltered platform Thomas A. Edison and Henry Ford stood smiling in the chill autumn rain. The Golden Jubilee of Light, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the incandescent bulb, was Ford's party and Edison was the honored guest. President and Mrs. Hoover had journeyed from Washington to lead the Nation, as Mr. Hoover put it, in "that tribute and that honor which lies in every heart."

On the opposite side of the narrow wooden platform stood a replica of the fragile Grand Trunk train on which, during the Civil War, Edison had launched his career as news vender. Belching pungent smoke from her roaring wood fire, the toy bell of the "Sam Hill" clattered an impatient dissonance as the presidential party climbed aboard for a venturesome 2-mile run to Smiths Creek station, where Edison had learned telegraphy.

* * * *

IN one corner of the old baggage car stood the improvised chemical laboratory in which Edison had begun his first experiments. An explosion of chemicals here, which set fire to the train, had cost the newsboy his job in the late '60's. At the opposite side of the car was mounted the tiny hand press on which Edison had printed The Weekly Herald, "published by the newsboy on the mixed train."

As the President and Mrs. Hoover and Mr. and Mrs. Ford seated themselves on the long, rough-hewn wooden benches which extended the length of the car, Edison, his eyes glowing with childish ecstasy, took up the old hand roller and began running off copies of his paper.

The type which had been set in the form for this surprise party reproduced an authentic copy of the Herald for June, 1864.

"The Emperor Napoleon is attending the Paris spring races," one item informed.

"It is officially notified that Queen Victoria will this year hold no levee or drawing room," said another.

And literally sandwiched between such momentous intelligence of the monarchs of Europe stood the item:

"Just received at the Fort Gratiot store, a choice lot of new butter."

* * * *

HAVING distributed his paper to the presidential party, Edison, almost exhausted, dropped into the seat beside Mrs. Hoover and began to peruse the sheet. As he traced out each line with a gnarled finger, one could see his whole countenance brighten as he came upon the items clearly recalled. But the others left him rather pinching his forehead, in a futile effort to reconstruct the full-blown picture of 15-year-old Thomas Edison.

While the inventor thus lived again those crowded days of the Mount Clemens run, Mrs. Edison leaned over gently from his left and fastened the top button of his overcoat, pulled his shaggy woolen muffler close around his throat and flecked a rain drop from his shoulder.

* * * *

AROUSED from his reverie, the inventor left the party again to trudge unsteadily to the front of the car. The frightful roll of the train as it swept over the rails at about 8 miles an hour, was a real test for a man of his years. Lifting the fruit basket from the chemical table, he passed through the car in the role of peddler; and when Mrs. Hoover extended her hand graciously for one of the proffered apples Edison doffed his soggy black derby and bowed, far more gallantly than was prudent under the circumstances. Ford laughed heartily, clapping his hands on his knees. The President of the United States touched the brim of his hat in a gesture of sincere tribute. An aged benefactor of mankind was having a day. Genius was, in a manner of speaking, on the loose, enjoying boyish abandon.

* * * *

BY 7 o'clock in the evening the morning drizzle had become a nasty downpour. After a stately dinner in the Independence Hall of Mr. Ford's Early American Village, Edison rode to his reestablished Menlo Park Laboratory, nearby. There he found a complete restoration of the workshop in which, 50 years before, he had perfected his epochal invention. So thorough had been Mr. Ford's restoration of the historic structure that he had shipped seven carloads of the original New Jersey sod to Dearborn, so that Edison might walk the very ground of 1879.

Making his way feebly to the second floor Edison reenacted the experiment which gave the world the electric light. Less than a dozen people, including the President and Mrs. Hoover and Mr. and Mrs. Ford, witnessed this dramatic scene. No pictures were made of the event.

Exhausted from climbing the rickety stairs, Edison sank feebly into a chair in front of the lamp rigging. Francis Jehl, who had been his laboratory assistant when the first filament glowed 50 years before, nervously arranged the wires from the batteries. Edison's whole frame trembled with emotion as he watched the preparations, and when all was in readiness he attempted to lift himself from the chair to lend a hand. But he was unable to make it.

"Light 'er up, Francis!" he attempted to shout as he sank back into the chair, "Light 'er up!" But he had not the voice for his mood. The command came forth in a shaky falsetto which was barely audible ten feet away.

"I want you to do it," Jehl responded in the same excited voice.

Ford assisted Edison from the chair—and Mrs. Edison stepped forward quietly to take off the inventor's dripping derby, which up to this moment had been overlooked by every one.

Edison lifted the thin copper wire with tremulous hand, and at the same instant Jehl sealed the vacuum bulb with a blow torch. Placing the bulb in the improvised socket, he signaled Edison to set the wire to the lamp stub. Amid tense and dramatic silence Edison stepped forward, his movement silhouetted in grotesque distortion by the feeble, sputtering oil lamp on the far wall. Carefully, tensely, he placed the wire to the lamp, and after perhaps 20 seconds there came the first weak glow which signalized man's triumph over darkness. Broadway was born!

* * * *

AT the same instant a button was pressed, downstairs, which lighted for the first time a tower erected on the site of the original laboratory in New Jersey. Mounted on a pedestal at the base of this 100-foot memorial a filament bulb burns constantly to light the inscription—"The light once lit shall never dim. But through all time shall honor him."

Beyond question it was the greatest day in the last phase of Edison's life. The whole world stood in homage to his genius. Yet after all the stirring pageantry of the day I saw him stand before the microphone and say humbly—

"If I have spurred men to greater efforts, and if our work has widened the horizon of thousands of men and given a little measure of happiness to this world, then I am content."

CUT-OFF LIGHTS PAY TRIBUTES TO EDISON

White House Leads Nation in Minute of Darkness to Honor Inventor.

(Associated Press.)

For one minute last night lights were put out at the White House, as the tribute led President Hoover's effort to erect a momentary monument of darkness to the inventor of the electric lamp—Thomas A. Edison.

Instead of the usual brilliance, only the lunar glow lighted the executive mansion and grounds. Promptly at 10 o'clock, Eastern standard time, as President Hoover had ordered, the big globes that line the sidewalks around the block on which the White House sets were darkened.

Inside, all necessarily was quiet. The inhabitants of the big house sat or stood still for a minute; they couldn't have moved about safely without the benefit of one of the inventor's greatest gifts to the world, even if they had wanted to.

Hoover Leads Nation.

Thus President Hoover carried out at his home the recommendation he made to the Nation: That all individuals turn off their electric lamps for 1 minute. The fact that power houses could not be shut down for even that period, he said, "is in itself a monument to Mr. Edison's genius."

Similar scenes were enacted in thousands of homes. The farmer, the suburbanite and the city dweller alike thought of the man who gave them daylight at night.

In New York Harbor, the light of freedom that burns steadily in the hand of the Statue of Liberty, went off; her torch was darkened. In many States, governors had asked their citizens to join in the observance. Some of the ceremonies began during the afternoon while the body of the genius was being taken to the grave.

Capital Cars Stop.

In the afternoon, street cars stopped in Washington at 3 p. m. At Milan, Ohio, where the inventor was born, business stopped for an hour at 3 p. m. Memorial services were conducted in the schools.

At Detroit, lights blazed for a time, illuminating the Edison Memorial Foundation. In Denver, also, electric lamps cast their light into the day during the hour of the funeral.

The plants of Henry Ford, friend of Mr. Edison, had been closed all afternoon. In Hollywood, where the inventor's motion picture camera holds sway, activities ceased for three minutes at noon. In Chicago, most electricity was shut off for a brief period at 2 p. m., and schools were closed a half day. In Florida, where Mr. Edison spent much of his time, a gubernatorial proclamation caused cessation of all activities that could be stopped.

CAPONE'S PROPERTY TO BE SEIZED SOON

Government Will Act in Income Tax Probably Tomorrow.

Chicago, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Al Capone's property probably will be seized by the Government tomorrow in satisfaction of the gang leader's overdue income taxes, it was announced tonight by Robert E. Neely, collector of internal revenue.

Neely said he expects to receive a letter from Washington tomorrow authorizing him to obtain tax levies against Capone in Federal court. Any property owned by the gang chief, from real estate to his $135 suits, may be seized on the liens, Neely said.

Capone will be sentenced Friday for income tax law violations, of which he has been convicted by a Federal court jury. He is liable to a maximum sentence of seventeen years' imprisonment and $50,000 in fines.

The tax liability charged in the criminal action was $215,000, but the Government is expected to attempt collection of about $500,000. Penalties and evidence of additional income brought out at Capone's trial account for the increase.

Prosecutors have indicated they will begin a legal battle Friday to have Capone sent immediately to Leavenworth Penitentiary.

Bank Robbery Suspect Linked to Capone Man

Lincoln, Nebr., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The Lincoln Journal said today that August Winkler, one of the men charged with the $2,500,000 robbery of the Lincoln National Bank & Trust Co., was visited several weeks ago by Philip d'Andrea, Al Capone's companion and bodyguard, who now faces contempt of court charges for carrying a pistol into the courtroom during the Chicago gangster's recent income tax evasion trial.

The newspaper said D'Andrea appeared with Winkler when the latter was arraigned on the bank robbery charge. D'Andrea was also identified by newspaper photographs recently as the man who visited the notorious killer, Fred Burke, in the latter's cell in a Michigan prison. Burke and Winkler were supposed to have been members of the same gang.

200,000 Visited Yorktown.

Norfolk, Va., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Approximately 200,000 persons passed through Yorktown and vicinity during the Sesquicentennial Celebration there October 16 to 19, T. McCall Frazier, State motor vehicle commissioner, who was in charge of all the traffic forces, stated today. Nearly 100,000 automobiles passed through the celebration area during the four days, he said.

WORLD BOWS TO PAY TRIBUTE AS NOTED INVENTOR IS BURIED

attention on either side, there to remain as a guard of honor until relieved, the watch to cease after 48 hours.

In the drawing room of the spacious Victorian mansion, where he had lived for many years, a simple and moving tribute had been paid today to Mr. Edison.

There assembled his family and his friends to bid him farewell, with the music, the poetry and the flowers that he loved.

The service opened with two of Mr Edison's favorite songs—"Little Grey Home In the West" and "I'll Take You Home Again, Kathleen"—played on the violin by his old friend and business associate, Arthur L. Walsh.

There was more of his favorite music, from Bach and Beethoven, a reading of the Twenty-third Psalm, a tribute from Arthur J. Palmer, one of Edison's old associates in the laboratory, and a prayer.

Following the prayer by Dr. Herben, Dr. Lewis Perry, head master of Phillips Exeter Academy, read a tribute from Arthur I. Palmer, one of Mr. Edison's old associates.

"He has led no armies into battle," the tribute read. "He has conquered no countries. He has enslaved no peoples. Yet he wields a power the magnitude of which no warrior ever dreamed.

"He commands a devotion more sweeping in scope, more world-wide than any other living man—a devotion rooted deep in human gratitude; and untinged by bias of race, color, religion or politics.

"This democratic, kindly, modest being has bestowed upon the human race blessings instead of bondage, service instead of serfdom, construction instead of conquest.

"Possessed of an immeasurable breadth of vision, his world aspect comprehends peoples rather than people, masses rather than men. That great restless, surging tide of creatures—that mighty human glacier pressing irresistibly toward an ever-widening horizon of civilization.

"In the passionate pursuit of material truths and their conversion into practical, usable, beneficent forms, civilization has never seen his equal.

"And of this man, this superbeing who defies classification, what more can be said? What greater tribute paid than this—he is humanity's friend?"

Edison Praised by Nations Of All Sections of World

(Associated Press).

Nations in all parts of the world have expressed to the American Government their sorrow at the passing of Thomas Edison.

Messages of condolence made public yesterday at the State Department came from France, Italy, Venezuela, Nicaragua, Brazil, Chile, China, Egypt, Norway and Bolivia. The Italian communication transmitted the text of a telegram sent by Premier Mussolini to Mrs. Edison.

"Half a century of immense program in the field of physical sciences is bound for all succeeding generations to the name of Edison," Mussolini said.

Nicaragua referred to Edison's death as an "irreparable and universal loss."

Venezuela described him as a "benefactor of humanity."

France paid tribute to his contributions "to the development of science and to the progres of civilization."

From Chile came an expression of "great sorrow" at the death of the illustrious sage" and of appreciation of his "creative genius."

"Chinese industrial world mourns with you in your bereavement," said mesage.

Far away Egypt added its "deep-felt grief" at the death of one who brought light to all corners of the world.

Mrs. Hoover Nearly Cut By Exploding Bulb

West Orange, N. J., Oct. 21 (A.P.). Representing her husband, the President of the United States, Mrs. Herbert Hoover today brought the condolences of a Nation to the bier of Thomas A. Edison.

With her party, she attended the services at Glenmont, the Edison home, and then went with the funeral cortege to the cemetery.

She left Newark for Washington afterward, aboard a regular passenger train. The approaches to the station were crowded with men an women, some of whom waited almost two hours to see the First Lady of the Land.

Arrangements had been made for Mrs. Hoover to pose for photographers when she arrived at Newark at 1:08 p. m., and she had paused smilingly when several photographers rushed forward. The crowd surged and a flash bulb broke. Mrs. Hoover raised her pocketbook to shield her face, police thrust aside cameramen and reporters and hurried Mrs. Hoover to the elevator. She narrowly escaped a piece of glass flying from the flash bulb.

Crowds were at the gates of Llewellyn Park to catch a glimpse of Mrs. Hoover. Neither at the station nor in West Orange, was there any demonstration.

CHINA BEGINS MOVE TO WELD ITS POWER

Shanghai Pivot of Attempt to Unite Nanking and Canton Forces.

Shanghai, China, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—China tonight began a determined attempt to unite her hostile military and political leaders against the threat of Japanese forces in Manchuria.

Inaugurating one of the most significant unification movements since the revolution, the leaders of the National government at Nanking received the representatives of the rival Canton government in an effort to end the unsettled condition which has existed between the northern and southern factions.

The Cantonese representatives arrived on the liner President Madison and were cheered by thousands of Chinese, including labor leaders, members of the National People's party and government officials. The visitors included Sun Fo, son of the late Sun Yat Sen, first president of China; Wu Chao-Chu, former minister to the United States, and Wang Ching-Wei, who was once Chinese representative on the world court.

They were authorized to open peace negotiations, continuing parleys begun recently at Canton, and later will go to Nanking to talk with Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the National government.

The arrival of the Cantonese gave rise to many wild rumors, including reports that Chiang Kai-Shek and Chang Hsueth-Liang, the Manchurian ruler, would resign.

Meanwhile, the Nanking government replied to the notes received from France, Britain, Germany, Norway, Jugoslavia, Italy and Poland, reminding China of her obligations to maintain peace under the antiwar treaty. China pledged assistance to the League of Nations in solving the Manchurian crisis.

The opening sessions of the fourth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations added to the atmosphere of peace and understanding when both Chinese and Japanese delegates participated in round table discussions. Australia, Canada, the United States, Britain, New Zealand also were represented.

Jerome D. Greene, of New York, addressed the council, stressing the fact that a meeting of unofficial representatives of the various nations on a basis of mutual understanding and open-mindedness would go far toward settling such problems as the Manchurian conflict.

Small Bank Aid Urged by Bowman

West Virginia Representative Criticizes Lack of Plans of Credit Group.

(Associated Press.)

Representative Bowman (Republican), West Virginia, yesterday condemned the National Credit Corporation for its failure to plan "some method of relieving small community banks of the Nation which have recently been closed by heavy withdrawals of deposits."

The plan for operation as outlined by officials does not contemplate any relief for closed solvent banks, he said.

"Many of these institutions closed when they were in good financial condition, and with an opportunity to rediscount notes secured by deeds of trust and mortgages sufficient cash would be obtained for reopening many of them."

In describing the credit corporation's program, Mr. Bowman said it is organized primarily to assist member banks in the same manner which the Federal Reserve assists its member banks.

MORE MANCHURIAN FIGHTING REPORTED

Japanese military occupation of strategic centers in the southern third of Manchuria, displacing the Chinese administrators.

Officials here felt Chinese acknowledgment of Japanese treaty rights in Manchuria and Chinese admission that Japan has a legitimate protest against the present anti-Japanese movement in China would do much to clear the way for opening direct negotiations.

Although press dispatches from Nanking, Chinese capital, said Chinese vernacular newspapers referred to the five fundamental conditions as "another 21 demands" similar to the famous terms laid down by Japan in 1915, which aroused such keen resentment in China, reports from Geneva indicated China might accept the five points in whole or part.

Treaty Comes First.

Officials said recognition of the existing treaty commitments came first, and that as soon as China extended that recognition Tokyo would be prepared to send delegates to a conference table with Chinese representatives, to discuss conditions for Japanese evacuation of vital points in Manchuria outside of the South Manchurian Railway zone, in which Japan is permitted by treaty to station troops.

1,200 Disbanded Chinese Attack Railway's Guard

Mukden, Manchuria (Thursday), Oct. 22 (U.P.).—A force of 1,200 disbanded Chinese soldiers clashed with Japanese railroad guards in the Ransi Shi-han district today.

Japanese officials at Mukden dispatched an armored train with reinforcements to the scene of the fighting, 32 miles north of here. The Chinese soldiers had attempted to cross the South Manchuria Railway, guarded by Japanese troops, when the fighting began. The Chinese were said to have cut telegraph and telephone lines.

Relations Institute Opens Group Parley

Shanghai, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The fourth biennial conference of the Institute of Pacific Relations, nonofficial group, for the discussion of international problems, opened here today.

It is the first such conference in China, the first two having been held in Hawaii and the third in Kyoto, Japan. Despite the Sino-Japanese difficulties in Manchuria, complete delegations for both Japan and China were present.

NEW FIGHTING IN MANCHURIA; LEAGUE PESSIMISM GROWING

under the terms of the Briand-Kellogg pact, the American Government now has evidenced unwillingness to support the move to insist on complete withdrawal of Japanese troops by a definite date nor has America supported the proposal for a commission of neutral observers on the spot.

Deep regret was expressed over reports from Washington that Secretary of State Stimson has assured Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi the United States has no intention of participating in any program of economic pressure.

Deny U. S. Changed.

Authoritative American quarters in Geneva privately repudiated the suggestion that the United States has altered its opinion since coming to the council table and declared the Government stood exactly where it did before.

After several group discussions by council principals, their secretaries were set to work drafting a conciliation suggestion to be presented at a public session tomorrow or Friday.

It was authoritatively stated this suggestion probably would provide for three weeks adjournment, would call on the Japanese to accomplish evacuation in Manchuria without fixing a time limit, and would urge China and Japan to get together for direct negotiations to settle their dispute.

Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese spokesman, and his colleagues, who have trusted their case wholly to the league, were represented as being astonished and dismayed at the prospect opened by this suggestion, and the word "betrayal" was being used privately to describe their view of the developments in the league council.

China's Stand Stated.

Dr. Sze today communicated to his council colleagues the position that his nation is upholding. It may be summarized thus:

(1) In asking quick withdrawal of the Japanese troops within an early fixed time limit, China is merely acting on lines the league has laid down as the only proper procedure for a loyal league member.

(2) As soon as the withdrawal has been completed China wishes a neutral investigation under league auspices to determine responsibility and damages.

(3) After the evacuation has been completed, Japan has no right "to make its unlawful acts of force the occasion for pressing for solution of other questions."

(4) China desires the establishment of a "permanent board of conciliation and arbitration" between China and Japan; the council and the United States can hardly fail to welcome this request.

(5) "The Chinese attitude is based wholly on the covenant (of the league) and the (Briand-Kellogg) peace pact and is inspired throughout by a spirit of utmost conciliation, and China considers its claim entitled to moral support by members of the league and signatories to the peace pact."

Stimson Still Confident.

The State Department refused to be affected yesterday by the reports of a prolonged impasse in the Geneva negotiations for securing peace in Manchuria between China and Japan. Secretary Stimson, it is understood, is still confident that the difficulty is in the process of adjustment.

The cumulative effect of a world-wide appeal to the two countries to refrain from the use of arms has not yet been felt, as all the telegrams to the various signatories of the Kellogg-Briand Pact have not yet been sent. The great conciliator, M. Aristide Briand, has not ceased to urge the representatives of both countries to a reconsideration of their attitude. To the force of the Kellogg-Briand Pact for peace has virtually been added the prestige of the Council of the League of Nations, since the members of the one have also been signatories of the other, with the exception of Prentiss G. Gilbert, representative of the United States, who sits in a purely "observing" capacity whenever the council deliberates as the league.

A report from Geneva that Secretary Stimson had informed Ambassador Debuchi of Japan the United States would not engage in economic pressure against his country was emphatically denied.

Officials pointed out that the United States as a nonmember of the league has no right to engage in any action under the league's covenant which provides for exerting economic pressure upon nations which engage in war.

Officials here feel, however, that much of the valuable pacification work done in the last week might easily be undone by resumption of hostilities.

Only Tuesday the United States, following the example of other great nations, urged both Japan and China to remember their pledge under the Kellogg-Briand pact to renounce war.

Three in Wedding Party Killed in Motor Crash

Benton, Ark., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Three members of a wedding party, including the bridegroom-to-be, his sister and another young woman, were killed, and the bride-to-be was seriously injured in an automobile accident near here.

Marion Haskins, 29, his sister, Vela, 20, and Lois Allison, 19, were fatally injured when the motor car which Haskins was driving overturned at a sharp curve. Lell Allison, 20, sister of Lois, was seriously hurt.

Shooting Hushed, Collector Says

News of Beer-Runner Being Wounded, He Avers, Kept Quiet.

Detroit, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Col. Heinrich A. Pickert, collector of customs, today said that a customs border patrol inspector shot a man found with five cases of beer on Grosse Isle September 20, but that the entire affair was withheld from the public.

Col. Pickert's statement was the result of a letter from Representative Robert H. Clancy demanding that the officer affirm or deny the report that such an incident occurred. Representative Clancy made public the letter today. He said the man's name was Frank Ramsay, of Ecorse.

Col. Pickert said he had forgotten the name of the man. He refused to give the name of the inspector who figured in the shooting and said that while the shooting was in violation of orders the inspector had not been punished.

Court Sees Film Shown To Refute Injury Claim

Leavenworth, Kans., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The Federal courtroom was darkened here today while motion pictures were shown in an attempt to refute the claim of Fred H. Butcher, Kansas City, for $100,000 damages for personal injuries allegedly received in an automobile-bus crash.

Butcher was shown playing ball, painting a house and engaged in other work. He alleged in his suit against the Kansas Light & Power Co. that his neck and back were injured permanently when his automobile was struck by the defendant's bus. Vain efforts were made to exclude the pictures, taken without the plaintiff's knowledge.

NAVY BAND ABOLITION OPPOSED BY HOOVER

President Also Disapproves of Scrapping Constitution in Budget Program.

(Associated Press.)

Whatever slashes may be made in the naval budget, President Hoover does not look with favor upon proposals to lay up the frigate Constitution or to abolish the Navy bands.

Both of these suggestions were mentioned prominently after the Chief executive received from the Navy Department a new Navy budget, revised downward by more than $50,000,000.

Mr. Hoover passed close under the rail of the Constitution, its ropes and spars outlined in the early morning sunlight, during his week-end trip to Yorktown. During the same trip the music of one naval band or another seldom was absent from his ears, either aboard the U. S. S. Arkansas or ashore at Annapolis and Yorktown.

The President was described as opposed to taking away the inspiration given by public view of the old Constitution and as seeing no need of doing away with the joy given by a Navy band. He feels that the amounts saved by laying aside either of these institutions would be inconsequential.

All the other proposed cuts are being considered by the Budget Bureau.

Louis K. Liggett, Republican national committeeman for Massachusetts, conferred with President Hoover yesterday on the proposal to close the Boston Navy Yard.

Upon leaving, he expressed belief that the yard would not be closed.

"I shall bend every effort to see that the navy yard is kept open," Mr. Liggett said. "Considering the matter from the standpoint of cold figures, closing of the yard would do little toward the cut of $60,000,000 called for by the President, but would mean unemployment for some of the people of Boston. I do not believe the yard will be closed."

The Navy Department recommended that the Boston and Charleston yards be closed as a part of its curtailment program designed to bring its budget within the scope outlined by President Hoover blonde nine years ago, said he was certain she was dead.

He was pale and shaken when police insisted that he view the bodies of the victims at the Los Angeles morgue. Since he and his wife once had lived in the same apartment with them in Phoenix, said officers, he was the logical man to complete their identification.

He was arrested again late today when a detective reported seeing him obtain a letter at the Los Angeles postoffice. Police searched him, but could not find it.

Police Hint Shadow.

The police talked of a "sinister shadow" which somehow came between the three women when they lived together in their Phoenix apartment.

Mrs. Judd apparently used narcotics, said officers attempting to read between the lines in the letters she had written her husband. Miss Samuelson, a tubercular patient, flirted with the icemen and other tradesmen, other letters revealed. All of them drank "rum," still further letters said.

While so living, according to the story which police pieced together, jealousies among them caused Mrs. Judd to move from the apartment to a nearby house about two weeks ago.

Darlington, Ind., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The Rev. H. J. McKinnell, retired Free Methodist minister, today expressed complete faith in the innocence of his daughter, Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, who is sought in California and surrounding States as the slayer of two women.

"Say for us," the 71-year-old minister stated at his home here, "that the parents of Mrs. Judd are confident of her innocence.

"Our first word about Ruth came from the newspapers," the Rev. Mr. McKinnell said. "It struck us like a thunderbolt, as we know Ruth, there was never a discord in her life. While we have no way of knowing what later developments in her life have been and circumstantial evidence seems strongly against her, it is hard to believe she can be guilty."

Resigned Pastorate.

Mr. McKinnell's last pastorate was in Olney, Ill., where he was born, and he came here seven years ago to begin his retirement.

"The last word we had from Ruth was just about two weeks ago," the Rev. Mr. McKinnell said. She didn't have much to say, merely that she was "awfully busy." She has wanted us to come out and live with them.

San Bernardino, Calif., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. Inez Gillum, 25, arrested here early this morning after she and a car containing two men endeavored to outrace a deputy sheriff's car and when it was found she fitted the description of Mrs. Winnie Ruth Judd, was released two hours later.

It developed that Mrs. Gillum had been questioned by police at San Pedro before she left there. The two men in the car were B. N. Gillum, her husband, and O. A. Guess. They were en route to Las Vegas, Nev., after a short visit in San Pedro.

San Diego, Calif., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Officers tonight arrested a woman hitchhiker, sought because she resembled Mrs. Winnie Judd, suspected Phoenix, Ariz., trunk murderer, but later said they were convinced she was not the fugitive and would be released tomorrow.

The hitchhiker gave her name as Mrs. Rhea Eisenhauer, Columbus, Ohio, and said she had "bummed" her way to Seattle in an attempt to locate her father, but had failed. After leaving Seattle she headed for Texas, seeking work, she said.

WASHINGTON WILL WELCOME PREMIER OF FRANCE TODAY

fore starting up Pennsylvania avenue. Today this will be impossible. In extending the Capitol Grounds to Union Station, and thus creating the most beautiful city gateway in the world, the Federal Government has asked the street car companies to move their tracks from the area. This is now being done, with the result that the streets from the depot to the Capitol are in chaos.

So, in escorting Premier Laval today, the motorcycle men will cross the Union Station Plaza, travel out E street to First, then down First to Pennsylvania avenue.

When Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, of Great Britain, came here in October, 1929, he was escorted by a troop of Fort Myer cavalry. In the last year or so, however, the practice of using cavalry as an escort has been abandoned.

The cavalrymen slowed up traffic, and besides it was found that the hard asphalt damaged the hoofs of the horses. There has been a suggestion that tanks and pursuit cars be used as an escort when the Cavalry is motorized, but this lies in the future.

At any rate, Premier Laval will travel up Pennsylvania avenue this afternoon with only a motorcycle escort. Reaching Fifteenth street, the caravan will pass in back of the Treasury, move north on East Executive avenue until it again reaches Pennsylvania avenue, and then west on the Avenue until it comes to Seventeenth street. It will move north on Seventeenth street until it comes to Connecticut avenue, and then out Connecticut avenue to Eighteenth street.

Home in Washington.

Premier Laval's home while he is in Washington will be the mansion of Randolph Hitt, on Eighteenth street between P and Q streets. This place is being leased by Walter Edge, American Ambassador to Paris, and he has offered it to Premier Laval during his stay here.

Leaving Union Station at about 3:20, Premier Laval is expected to arrive at the Hitt mansion about 3:45 o'clock. Outside the mansion will be drawn up a troop of cavalry and another band. The cavalrymen will flash their sabers and the band will play the French anthem as the distinguished visitor arrives. Anticipating a crowd, Capt. L. I. H. Edwards has detailed a large force of policemen to patrol the area.

Premier Laval—or "His Excellency, the President of the Council of Ministers of France," as the State Department designates him—will remain at the Hitt house until shortly before 6 o'clock, when he will journey to the White House to pay his respects to President Hoover.

At 8 o'clock, Premier Laval will attend the dinner given in honor of the guests of the Yorktown sesquicentennial celebration.

Stimson to Meet Laval.

Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson left here yesterday for New York to greet Premier Laval. With him were Pierre Boal, youthful chief of the division of Western affairs, who probably will act as interpreter for President Hoover and Premier Laval, and Watren Delano Robbins, chief of protocol, the man who greets all important visitors and decrees how people shall be seated at White House dinners.

These three men will come down with Premier Laval from New York.

The party will be met at Union Station here by William R. Castle, Jr., Undersecretary of State; Lawrence Richey, secretary to President Hoover; Lieut. Col. Campbell B. Hodges, military aid to the President; Capt. Charles R. Train, naval aid to the President; the Assistant Secretaries of State, Wilbur J. Carr, Francis White, James G. Rogers and H. H. Bundy; Brig. Gen. Edward T. Collins, who commands the Sixteenth Brigade, and members of the French Embassy staff.

Like Prime Minister MacDonald, Premier Laval is bringing his daughter with him. Her name is Josette, and she is a law student. Although Washington is talking principally about the social aspect of her stay here, the fact is that she will act as both secretary and interpreter for her father.

Party Will Be Large.

Taken as a whole, the Laval party will be considerably larger than the MacDonald party. The French leader is bringing along eight expert advisers, a man who is both buffer and public relations counsel, and 25 newspaper correspondents, including the celebrated Pertinax, of the Echo de Paris.

The "buffer" or public relations counsel is one of the most interesting men in the party. His name is Louis Aubert, and he is a wealthy retired advertising man, with a keen desire to take a part in international affairs.

He first came to Washington in 1918 with Andre Tardieu, then the French high commissioner. It was on that occasion that he took up earnestly the study of the English language.

Job After War.

After the war he was appointed publicity contact man for the French ministry of commerce, and his job was to boom the tourist trade.

His coming over with Premier Laval was first suggested by the late Senator Dwight M. Morrow, of New Jersey. When Mr. Morrow heard that M. Laval would visit this country, he told Secretary Stimson that the success of Laval would be greatly helped if Aubert came along. Secretary Stimson sent the suggestion to Ambassador Edge in Paris, who passed it along to the French government.

Although Aubert belongs to a different political party from Premier Laval, it was decided to have him come over.

Aubert's Task Here.

While he is here, Aubert will have the delicate task of facing scores of newspapermen and answering their questions as to what is transpiring in the conversations between Premier Laval and President Hoover.

Tomorrow Premier Laval will visit the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier, call upon Vice President Curtis, Chief Justice Hughes and Secretary of State Stimson.

After luncheon at the French Embassy, Premier Laval, accompanied by his daughter, will go to the White House, where, after an informal dinner with President and Mrs. Hoover, they will spend the night.

Kann's Memorial Unveiled in Store

Personnel and Members of Family Observe the Ceremonies.

A memorial tablet to Sigmund Kann, late president of the S. Kann Sons Co., was unveiled at the store last night in the presence of the entire personnel of the store and members of Mr. Kann's family. The memorial services took place on the main floor of the building.

The tablet was unveiled by B. Bernei Burgunder, Jr., 11-year-old grandson of Mr. Kann, and the dedicatory address was delivered by George S. DeNeal, former superintendent and employe of the firm for more than 35 years. A brief address of acceptance by Sol Kann, son of the firm's late president, concluded the ceremony.

The plaque, of bronze, shows the head of Mr. Kann, and is superimposed on a marble tablet. It was the work of J. Maxwell Miller. The tablet is a gift to the store from its employes and takes its place beside those previously placed in remembrance of his father, Solomon Kann, and his brother, Louis Kann.

District Body Approves Dismissal of Mrs. Jett

The dismissal of Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Jett, telephone operator at Police Headquarters, was approved yesterday by the District Commissioners upon recommendation of Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police.

Mrs. Jett and her husband, Franklin Jay Jett, were arrested October 10 on a charge of manufacturing liquor. Together with John Tyler Gill, who was also taken in the raid, they were held for the grand jury under $500 bond each at a Police Court hearing.

Saks Bequest Starts Jewish Welfare Fund

First bequest to the Jewish Welfare Federation has reached the organization through Judge Milton Strausberger, executor of the estate of Clara Saks. The $200 left to the federation will go toward starting an endowment fund, which has been under consideration.

Arthur J. Sundlum, president of the federation, stated that while the amount is small it is appreciated because it is the nucleus for the fund.

INTEREST OF BRITAIN IN LAVAL VISIT SEEN

Ambassador Makes Second Call at State Offices Within 48 Hours.

Evidence of the keen interest with which the British Foreign Office regards the forthcoming Hoover-Laval conversations was seen in the second visit of Sir Ronald Lindsay yesterday to the State Department in forty-eight hours.

The Ambassador called on Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, Jr., and remained with him more than a half-hour. On leaving the Ambassador pleasantly passed the time of day with correspondents but would not reveal the object of his visit.

It is believed, however, that Sir Ronald was communicating to the State Department the result of conversations between Lord Reading and Premier Laval, immediately before departure of the premier for the United States.

Despite unsettled political conditions in England, the problem of Britain's return to the gold standard or the alternative, stabilization, will have to be settled in consultation with the two countries possessing the bulk of the world's gold, the United States and France.

A secondary object of the ambassador's visit was believed to be the matter of war debts. Under the heartening inspiration of President Hoover's announcement that the United States would adjust all debts on the principle of the debtor's capacity to pay, Great Britain may take advantage of this offer to bring about a reduction of her huge annuities to the United States.

The British debt funding settlement was made at the least advantageous figure of all the continental countries, the portion of Great Britain to be versed to the Treasury being approximately $180,000,000 a year. France pays only one quarter of this figure and Italy received the most indulgent treatment, her payments being the smallest of any debtor nation.

The pressure of economic difficulty makes an adjustment of the British position on her American indebtedness all the more necessary. President Hoover has indicated the desirability of finding a sympathetic movement for reduction of armaments in the budgets of those countries that would benefit by debt concession. These two subjects are believed to have figured most prominently in Sir Ronald's two visits.

The State Department will not take any special means of informing the various embassies and legations of the nature of the Hoover-Laval discussions, since it is believed these reports will be communicated to the diplomats directly by their foreign offices.

Pastor Restored Amid Disorders

Dismissal of Injunction Is Sought as Colored Cleric Returns.

At the meeting featured by mild disorders, the Rev. James L. Pinn, discharged pastor of the First Colored Baptist Church, Inc., of Georgetown, located at Twenty-seventh street and Dumbarton avenue, was restored to his position as pastor, it was disclosed yesterday in a formal motion filed in the District Supreme Court.

The motion asked that an injunction granted on August 14, to prevent Mr. Pinn from exercising his rights as pastor of the church pending a settlement of a dispute, be dismissed. The record disclosed that since he had been restored to duty at a regular business meeting of the church, there was no longer any reason for the injunction, which had been granted by Justice Cox.

The meeting, at which his restoration was acomplished, was productive of some disorder in that someone snatched from the hands of a reader, a letter from Mr. Pinn asking a rehearing. At that point, the lights were turned off, turned on by someone else, and then totally disabled through the taking away of the fuses. While a hymn was being sung, candles were procured, the meeting was organized and 150 members voted to restore Mr. Pinn.

Borah Visits President On Eve of Laval Arrival

(Associated Press.)

That student of and authority on international affairs—Senator Borah—dropped in on President Hoover last night for a chat.

The Idahoan has been unusually interested in the visit of Premier Laval of France, who will reach Washington today, but there was no indication from the White House that that had been the subject the President and the senator discussed.

Hoover Sends Welcome As Laval Nears Shore

The following telegram has been sent by President Hoover to his excellency, Pierre Laval, President of the Council of Ministers of France:

"His Excellency, Pierre Laval, President of the Council of Ministers of France, S. S. Ile de France:

"As you near the shores of the United States I take great pleasure in extending to you a most cordial welcome in my own name and in that of my fellow countrymen.

"HERBERT HOOVER."

Premier Laval replied with another message to the American people and to the President as follows:

"I am happy to salute the people of a country very dear to mine. It is in an effort toward consolidation of peace and relief of the world crisis that I quit my home. I am confident that Mr. Hoover and I will understand each other."

what could be lopped off Navy appropriations without impairing service efficiency.

The United States, it is believed, will be unable to offer any war debt relief to France unless there is definite and tangible evidence that such a financial windfall will not be devoted to further armaments and unless an appreciable reduction in French land armaments is made.

Both the President and the premier will have many bargaining points. France still builds her foreign policy on the following three points: Security, arbitration and disarmament. The first two points must be well established before any consideration of the third point can be begun. France would be disposed to make many concessions if Premier Laval could bring back to the French people the assurance of some kind of American guarantee of French security, however this security might be called.

Trading to Be Expected.

But then again President Hoover has already received ample warning from Senator Borah and his group in the Senate that they will never tolerate any such agreement.

Final result of the discussions will have to be based on the delicate play of quid pro quo. The principle of conciliation will be brought into the negotiations and what President Hoover concedes on one point will have to be met by similar and equivalent concessions from M. Laval. But in any outcome the direct result to the world can not fail to be of help in ending the economic slough into which almost every country of the world has fallen.

Virginia Shows Surplus.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—State Comptroller E. R. Combs, in his annual report submitted to Gov. Pollard today, showed that in spite of the depresion, the State closed the fiscal year ended June 30, 1931, with an unappropriated surplus of $1,382,135 in the general funds.

FIGHT OVER TRACKS LOST BY COMPANY

Adkins Holds Government Can Not Be Sued Without Its Consent.

The Mount Vernon, Alexandria & Washington Railway yesterday lost its fight to stop the Government from tearing up its tracks and terminal in the area bounded by Twelfth and Fourteenth streets and B street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

A ruling by Justice Jesse C. Adkins held that the company could not sue the Government, which should have been made a party defendant, without the consent of the Government, which had not been obtained. As to the terminal, the court said that it belonged to the Government, through purchase, and that proper notice had been served upon the tenant to move.

At the same time, Justice Adkins noted that it was not the intention of the Government to take up the tracks and not reimburse the company. He said a suit in the Court of Claims would give the company its due. The justice also showed that the railway company would not be barred from the District, and that another terminal in the Southwest could be built.

The decision pointed out that the closing of streets was vested in the Secretary of the Treasury in the building program, and public streets could be closed without any other special sanction. Congress, he said, having granted a franchise, could certainly curtail a portion of it at will.

Going into the inconvenience of the public using the car line, Justice Adkins "deplored" the fact that 2,000,000 riders a year would be forced to face such a thing, but he said the question was decided by Congress and that the court was bound by that decision.

Therapy Work Shown At Red Cross Meeting

Products of the occupational therapy wards of Walter Reed and St. Elizabeths hospitals will be on display at the seventh annual industrial exposition of the Washington Chamber of Commerce at the Washington Auditorium next week as a feature of the exhibit of the District Chapter of the American Red Cross, it was announced yesterday.

The products will include woven basket work, metal work and carpets. Forms for enrollment in the 1932 roll call of the American Red Cross will be available at the booth, it was announced by Mrs. William S. Spencer. Mrs. Spencer announced that the Red Cross is celebrating concurrently with its roll call its fiftieth anniversary.

NEW RAIL LAW IN ORDER.

Interest in the emergency measure proposed by the Interstate Commerce Commission for the relief of the railroads should not overcloud its recommendation that the theory on which existing rates were made should be overhauled. By suggesting that increases be granted on certain commodities and that the proceeds be used to sustain the credit of the weaker roads the commission aims to assist the carriers through the present emergency. Its plans for amendment of the transportation act are designed to protect the railroads against similar conditions in the future.

The commission urged repeal of that section of the law which provides that rates shall be based on a fair return upon the aggregate value of railroad property in any territory. Under this provision one-half of a carrier's earnings above 6 per cent is subject to recapture, which provokes litigation and entails heavy expenditures for both the railroads and the Government. The recapture provision encourages extravagance and unwarranted development of new lines in times of prosperity. Furthermore, the commission contends that there is no effective way of using the captured funds to public advantage.

The commission has given up the elusive hope that "by mere changes in rates railroad earnings can be made stable regardless of economic conditions." In the heyday of prosperity the railroads might have earned much more than they did if they had been free to establish their own tariffs. Now when traffic and revenue have fallen off and they demand that their earnings be stabilized by rate changes the commission replies that falling commodity prices and the encroachment of competitors make higher freight rates impractical. It is clearly evident that some changes must be made to give the carriers security against times like the present.

The commission has suggested to Congress a substitute for this provision that would allow railway earnings to rise above normal in times of prosperity just as they sink below normal in times of depression. Failure of the commission to grant the carriers' petition for a 15 per cent increase will give impetus to this proposed legislation. The theory that Congress set up for the adjustment of rates on the basis of a fair return on aggregate earnings has broken down because it did not take into consideration the inevitable fluctuations of business and other factors that are not under control of the Interstate Commerce Commission. If provision is made that some portion of the carriers' surplus accumulations shall be held in liquid form for emergencies there seems to be no reason why Congress should not remove this handicap to railroad stability.

So far as the varying earnings of different roads are concerned, the commission believes that adjustments can be made more effectively through consolidations and pooling arrangements than through the recapture provision. Congress ought to give early attention to this advice. Together with measures for the regulation of trucks operating in interstate commerce, these proposed changes should go a long way toward stabilizing the railroads.

COPPER PROBLEMS.

Copper production has been curtailed to approximately 60 per cent of the 1929 output. Yet in spite of this decrease the industry finds itself faced with an acute problem of excess stocks. Inventories indicate that sufficient copper is now on hand to supply the world for nine months at normal consuming rates. A discussion of these problems will take place this week-end in New York at a meeting of representatives of the major producing interests from Canada, the United States, South America and Africa.

The diversified types of mines and working conditions throughout the world make the formulation of a general plan for limiting production extremely difficult. In Rhodesia and the Belgian Congo, for instance, the rich copper properties are just entering their era of large production after years of development. Their equipment and organization represent a large capital investment upon which the backers are now anxious to have a return. These mines are able to produce copper from 2 to 3 cents cheaper than it can be produced by American properties. Canadian mines were developed as a result of 18-cent copper in 1929, and now demand consideration, as do American-owned properties in South America.

Low production costs abroad are nearly offset by the expense of transportation, for the United States normally consumes 60 per cent or more of all the copper produced in the world. This country must be regarded as the principal outlet for many years to come. If foreign copper interests maintain an output larger than that of American groups there will doubtless result a tariff on copper imports to this country.

FAREWELL!

The spirit of Thomas A. Edison, who devoted his life to the welfare of mankind, was doubtless pleased at the farewell accorded him by his fellow citizens. Funeral services in his home at Llewellyn Park were private and unostentatious as he wished them to be; but that did not prevent millions of people the world over from paying him tribute. Humanity is aware of the contributions that Edison made to its welfare, and there is no dissenting voice among the millions that are raised to do him honor.

President Hoover's suggestion that all lights, which are the symbol of Edison's genius, be extinguished for one minute was particularly appropriate. In that instant of darkness came a flash of realization of how Edison has transformed the world. It was symbolic, too, of the distinguished inventor's passing. A great light has gone out of the world. The most brilliant inventive wizard of all time has finished his work and passed on. But with these thoughts the lights flash on again, leaving the people who mourn for Edison secure in the knowledge that what he accomplished will never be lost.

America is loath to part with the genius of Menlo Park. In the years of his devotion to science and invention the people learned to love Edison as they have loved few other men. To most people he assumes the proportions of a superman; in the words of Falconer, "a living ray of intellectural fire." But he never pretended to be more than a hard-working servant of humanity. Achievement rather than personal gain was the light of his life. Therefore, his spirit was never darkened by the clouds of selfishness. He worked for mankind, not for himself.

Edison's fame will live on along with that of other great Americans. History will write him down as one of those few "men with empires in their brains." Those who have felt the sting of his passing realize that an epoch of achievement has closed. With regret we say, "Farewell!" May the genius who lighted the world enjoy the sweet sleep that has culminated his labors.

RADIO IN SURGERY.

Rapid development of the radio has brought it into the homes of millions in the space of a few years. Virtually every family in the United States is familiar with it, yet the public is generally unaware of its benefits, except as a means of transmitting entertainment and messages. An important sidelight, however, is the use of radio in the sphere of medical treatment. Especially in surgery has this agency marked an advance. Cases which would have been considered beyond medical aid twelve years ago may now be cured by surgery as a matter of routine by apparatus made possible through the advent of radio.

High-frequency oscillators, belonging to the family of the broadcasting short wave, are used in the performance of bloodless surgery. A minute wire attached to an insulating handle releases sparks at from 5,000 to 35,000 volts and a frequency of 1,750,000 cycles. As this wire is drawn over the surface a bloodless incision is made. The high frequency of the spark oscillation is so great that the ordinary contraction of tissue to electrical shocks is not present.

The heat of the spark coagulates the tissue, seals small blood vessels and prevents a great amount of bleeding. This process of sealing is especially valuable in cancer operations, as formerly, during the removal of infected parts, cancer cells would escape frequently into the opened blood vessels and thus be conveyed to other parts of the body. The disease might spread in this way to a new area.

Another apparatus is used to treat internal disorders without operation. Heat therapy, which has long been used to combat various ailments, was applied by external rays which penetrated the tissue. Now the heating effects are obtained directly within the body at the required point. This stimulates the flow of blood and thus increases the supply of white cells to combat the infection. The forward march of mechanical invention carries with it benefits unseen by many, but which add materially to the well-being of mankind.

SIDESTEPPING THE TARIFF.

Senator Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, aspires to the position of spokesman for the Democratic party on tariff matters. A few months ago Senator Robinson tried to commit the party to a fight against the existing protective duties in the coming session of Congress, but he ran into stiff opposition from Senator George and other stalwarts of the party, who prefer to let the Tariff Commission make whatever adjustments are necessary to protect American interests. Now comes Senator Hull with a program of conciliation that would do credit to a drafter of party platforms.

It is Senator Hull's belief that there should be launched a three-fold policy "gradually to bring down tariff walls here and everywhere to a moderate and competitive level and to restore a healthy international trade." First, he wants "a permanent world economic conference" to eliminate unfair trade methods and inspire the nations with enthusiasm for lower tariffs. Secondly, he advocates reduction of duties through the negotiation of commercial treaties. Finally, he says, "The American Congress and legislative bodies of other countries, under our leadership, should, according to their own separate and independent judgment, proceed at once with the readjustment downward of rates unjustifiably high and even the repeal of others where there is no competition, with a level of moderate or competitive rates and liberal, fair and friendly commercial policy as the final and ultimate objective."

Here is a masterpiece of strategy that presages the approach of a national campaign. Mr. Hull dares not insult the intelligence of the American people by asking them to vote for a party that would sweep away protective duties in this hour of need. So he conceals the traditional Democratic policy in a sugar-coating of meaningless phrases, just as did the national convention at Houston in 1928.

To suggest that foreign producers be invited to compete in the American market at a time when factories are idle, millions are unemployed and agriculture is producing a tremendous surplus would be to invite disaster.

His plan to lead legislatures of foreign countries into the green pastures of unrestricted trade without interfering with their own separate and independent judgment is unusually nebulous. But it recognizes the absurdity of the Democratic claim that Uncle Sam is the villain in the tariff drama. It is considerate of Senator Hull to direct his antiprotection shafts at the whole world, but surely he doesn't hope to conceal the futility of such a stand from the electorate.

Senator Hull's pronouncement is particularly interesting because it forecasts a collapse of the tariff issue in the coming campaign. Neither Senator Hull nor any other Democrat dares to challenge the protective tariff. They dare not advocate free trade. But they are enemies of protection, and are trying by indirection to give foreigners a chance to take part of the American market from Americans. In all cases where foreigners can undersell Americans Democratic policy would favor the foreigner. Democratic policy as stated by Senator Hull contemplates that every American producer shall be forced to compete with a foreigner for trade in this country. The foreigner is to have equal rights with Americans. There is no protection in this. It is a betrayal of the right of Americans to enjoy their own market.

A whale in the Columbia River attracted 12,000 people. Huh, that many are lined up on Wisconsin avenue every morning to see the new traffic lights.

BUSINESS LOOKS UP

By RALPH B. WILSON, Vice President of Babson's Statistical Organization, in the Kiwanis Magazine.

Today we are standing up to our knees in the greatest business and investment opportunities that this country has known since 1893. Real estate, good stocks, low-priced bonds, commodities and business enterprises are for sale in the bargain basement today. Shrewd business men and investors are seizing these opportunities and are thereby laying the foundation for future fortunes. Others are permitting pernicious pessimism to blind them to the extraordinary money-making possibilities that today's conditions present. The tremendous advantage comes to those who act while the opportunity exists—the great majority always waits until prices are well on their way upward.

Two years ago the Dow-Jones industrial average stood at 381. Today the same industrial average is hovering around 111. In other words, investors can buy the stocks in this average today just 270 points lower than they could two years ago, with an outlook far more promising than it was then, yet it is almost impossible to arouse some people and interest them in the buying bargains. But let the industrial average advance 25 or 30 points and brokers' offices will be crowded with eager buyers.

Two years ago our commodity index of basic material stood 50 per cent above the prewar levels. Today it stands about 3 per cent below these prewar levels. That is, basic raw materials can be bought today at 3 per cent lower than they were before the World War. In some instances there are commodities that can be bought more cheaply today than ever before.

At these extremely low levels big industry is already beginning to buy basic raw materials in large quantities. This will enable manufacturers to produce finished products at the lowest cost in years. This activity will draw upon the existing stocks of raw materials. Depleted stocks of raw materials will have to be replaced. These combined activities will increase employment and the purchasing power of labor. The wheels of progress thereby will be set in motion and pull us up from the depth of this depression into an era of better business.

Statistics now indicate that over half of the excesses developed in our last period of overexpansion have already been paid for. Business indicators begin to show that the next major move is upward. Now is a time for optimism and opportunity. Money is plentiful. Inventories of finished products are at the lowest point in years. Many commodities are on the bargain counter and business in general has seen the worst. This is just the kind of foundation upon which to erect another period of prosperity.

The fundamental growth of the United States has been upward for years and it should continue to be upward for years to come. Every year there are 400,000 boys and girls graduated from our high schools who go into the various walks of life. Every year 1,250,000 brides establish new homes in the United States, creating demand for our products. Every year 2,500,000 babies are born in the United States. There is a net increase in the United States over death and emigration of one human being every 35 seconds. Projecting this figure, there are 7,000 new prospects for our goods and services in the United States every day. By 1970 it is estimated that we will have a population of 160,000,000 human souls. This is an increase of approximately 40,000,000 people in the next 40 years. That is the fundamental growth of this country.

This fundamental growth should thrill us with optimism for the future of America. The present readjustment is laying the foundation for the next period of prosperity. Business has seen its worst, the efficiency of management and labor has been greatly increased, commodity prices are at record lows, many good stocks and bonds are selling far below their value, real estate bargains abound, and Europe has turned her face toward recovery. The stage is set for better business. Extraordinary profit-making opportunities surround us. The maximum advantage comes to those who act while the opportunities exist. You can't build a fortune by thinking about it. Seize these opportunities, and lay the foundation for your future fortune. The millionaires of tomorrow are getting their start today. There are reasons for optimism.

"Not Down That Hole!"

POST HASTE.

Premier Laval arrives today for a frane talk.

It was a friendly gesture for Japan to notify China of the independence move in Manchuria.

Due to a curious astigmatism, Geneva really sees herself in the Manchurian picture.

Rather a chilly alternative for this season, the railroads think. Instead of getting a blanket raise they are offered opportunity to jump into a pool.

The three national capitals of North America have now all seen the same man on the same day. And his name is Doolittle. Jimmy is diminutive, but he is a big doer.

Gov. Pinchot visited the Capital and found that his constituent, Senator Brookhart, is still unanimously for him for President.

Thanksgiving promises to record a response to the unemployment fund that is going to be a severe blow to a few who hoped to make big politics out of demanding billions from Congress.

The British Labor party is fighting a 10 per cent cut in the dole, and if it wins at next week's election the pound sterling will fall another 20 per cent.

The scientific world has lost another leader in the passing of Samuel W. Stratton. He was the curator of the United States Bureau of Standards. Originally founded to maintain accuracy in weights and measures, he expanded its functions until it became the unquestioned arbiter of performance and quality for the business world.

Mr. Wrigley did more advertising this year and made people chew more gum than ever before, and he still threatens to increase advertising next year. There ought to be a law.

American credit would be improved immensely in world estimation if we called France's bluff for higher interest and told her to draw all the gold she has here.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE CORNER STORE.

Men don't settle any more
Problems in the grocery store,
As they did long years ago,
When about the stove aglow
Hiram Smith and Walter Brown
Drew up chairs and sat right down,
Arguing from three to six,
Tariff, business, politics.

Since the chain stores came in style
There's no place to rest awhile.
Not a box is left about
For a neighbor to drag out;
An' the crackers an' the cheese
Can't be nibbled as you please.
There's no comfort any more
In the corner grocery store.

Youngsters now can't hang around,
Gathering wisdom most profound
From their elders, as we did
When I was a wide-eyed kid.
The proprietor himself,
Like the goods upon his shelf,
Now is just a package prim,
An' you merely nod at him.

This may better be for trade,
But at times I'm half afraid,
Notwithstanding what it cost,
Something from our lives was lost
With the passing of the shop
Where the old men used to stop,
Sitting friendly-like about
Talking all their troubles out.

Any Defense of Private Banks Is a Defense of Toll Gates on the Highway

By ROBERT QUILLEN

Do you realize that a simple yet fundamental change in America's banking system would make all deposits safe, prevent panics, make the borrowing of money as simple and easy for the poor man as it is for the rich, and enable the Government to hinder and trap the multitude of swindlers?

Consider the nature and purpose of money. Is currency—paper money—worth its face value only because a reserve of gold guarantees its redemption? No. It has value because the people have confidence in it. Printed slips of paper are worth as much as gold because their value is guaranteed by the Government and the Government is trusted by the people who support it with their treasure and their lives.

The Government prints money for the convenience of the people. And if the Government is but an agent and servant of the people, doesn't it follow that the people own the money in the same sense that they own the presses with which it is printed?

If money, though rightfully possessed by those who earn it, still belongs to the whole people, why are private persons permitted to monopolize the traffic in money?

If money is made valuable by the confidence of the people, and is printed to serve them as a convenient medium of exchange, and if they own it as they own all public property, why isn't the Government the logical and rightful agency to handle all dealings in money?

Postoffices do a banking business now. They accept long-term deposits and pay interest; they accept money for transfer; they collect for merchandise shipped c. o. d., as banks collect sight drafts attached to bills of lading.

Why shouldn't they do all of the banking business?

If the Government did all of the banking business, there would be no loss of deposits and no money would be kept from circulation by timid hoarders. There would be no runs on the banks. No man with collateral would be denied a loan. Bankers wouldn't finance rogues or use depositors' money to help gamblers. The ability to get money wouldn't depend on friendship. The timidity of bankers never would cripple business, and depressions would affect the supply of money no more than they now affect the supply of postage stamps. Finally, but of greatest importance, there would be an end of bad competitive banking and the resulting losses that now cost the people untold millions each year.

Why tolerate a wasteful, dangerous, unfair and inefficient system when a reasonable change could mend all of its faults?

PRO AND CON

Press Comment Upon Acts and Actors in the Great American Show, "Politics."

America and the League.

San Francisco Chronicle.

As a people, Americans are very cautious about mixing in the affairs of nations beyond the seas. Of course the American people receive with mixed feelings the announcement that the United States will sit, though will not vote, with the league at Geneva to struggle for a fair deal for China. This country is not a member of the league and does not intend to be one. It seems anomalous for the United States to be acting as though, or nearly as though, it were a member.

The action gives the violent league haters, who are not content with the simple fact that we are outside and intend to stay there, a chance to beat their temtoms and dance their war dance. No others, it may be said with assurance, have any fear that this temporary cooperation for a single explicit purpose has or is going to "put us in the league."

A Salutary Lesson.

Baltimore Sun.

Though Mrs. Dwight Morrow seems wholly disinclined to accept the seat in the Senate made vacant by the death of her husband, the women of the State are urging her appointment upon the governor. If Mrs. Morrow persists in her disinclination to accept, she will aid in checking a growing disposition to dispose of important public positions on sentimental and emotional grounds.

With women entering public life in greater numbers year by year, objection to their doing so on the ground of sex is no longer tenable. But objection may be offered to appointment of widows to succeed to posts made vacant by the death of husbands without serious pretense that the selection is based on special fitness for the office. In filling such vacancies the power of appointment should be used to show the public the character, experience and ability needed in positions of public trust. It does the cause of good government ill service to permit other considerations to enter into the matter.

The Freight Rate Decision.

New York Herald Tribune.

Eloquently as the railroads' lawyers have argued in behalf of a flat 15 per cent increase of freight rates, there is probably as much relief as disappointment in railroad circles over the Interstate Commerce Commission's denial of their plea. In view of the pronounced sag in the general price level of commodities, to have added this extra burden to the back of commerce would probably have resulted in a sharp increase in truck competition, not to mention that from other forms of transportation.

The commission in its statement expresses the belief that the carriers have underrated the menace of such competition and hence that the increase requested would raise revenues only temporarily. "Its ultimate effect, not very long postponed," says the commission's report, "would be to harm rather than to help the railroads." No one can deny the cogency of this argument, however convinced he may be that the railroads face an emergency which requires prompt action.

Political Cooperation.

Hartford Courant.

What the country needs is not an exhibition of smart political tactics at Washington. Rather does it need disinterested action by both parties in the interest of business recovery. A coalition of the level heads in both parties working for sane legislation would redound greatly to the credit of both at a time when the public has little taste for the shenanigans of politics. England has set an example that might well be followed here. The chief function of any political party is to serve the ends of good government. When it forgets that function its usefulness is largely at an end.

Frigidity.

Atlanta Constitution.

If Premier Laval, of France, is coming to test the American debts cancellation atmosphere he will need a fuller wardrobe than Gandhi took to England.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Method of Selecting Policemen by the Civil Service Commission Explained by President Campbell.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Every little while there appears in a Washington paper comment on the degree of efficiency of policemen in Washington. Sometimes mention is made of possible improvement in the process of selection. The following is quoted from an editorial in The Post of October 21:

"The method of selecting recruits to the force should be improved, so that questionable characters shall not be placed in uniform."

Under the law, the Metropolitan Police Department of the District of Columbia is recruited through examinations under the Civil Service Commission. An examination has three stages. The first is a written mental test. This is not designed to test "book learning," but to demonstrate the degree of intelligence of the competitor. The second step is a physical examination, and this is rigid. The third is a character investigation, and this is conducted with utmost care.

There is elimination at each step. In the year ended June 30, 1931, 1,218 applicants were examined for the Metropolitan Police Department and for the Federal police force in the District of Columbia. Only 185 were declared eligible by the commission. Of those who survived to the point of the character investigation, 48 per cent were eliminated by that inquiry.

It is important to mention here that the character investigations for policemen were not conducted by the Civil Service Commission until July 1, 1930. Prior to that date such investigations were made by the Police Department itself.

President, United States Civil Service Commission.

Once a Dry—Now a Wet, Because He Believes That Prohibition Went Haywire.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The attitude of some people in regard to prohibition makes me think of the old proverb: "A wise man changes his mind, but a fool never does." Not that I think these good people are fools—fooled would be the better word to express it.

When the eighteenth amendment was voted into the Constitution, certain of our people believed they had succeeded in making America over into a second Garden of Eden. They honestly believed most of our troubles would soon be ended by reason of this remarkable piece of legislation. They expected our prisons would soon be emptied of occupants; that our Treasury would soon overflow with surplus money; that we could throw away the key to the city jail, and make the poor farm over into a beautiful new golf course.

Instead, what has happened? Believing as I did that prohibition was the goal of all our desires, I am ashamed to publish the list of our calamities. Suffice to say, everything went haywire.

Being in France, I didn't vote for prohibition—I only upheld it morally. Not being a drinking man, I have no interest in seeing a change in the eighteenth amendment, except in the hope that a change would better existing conditions.

If any one had told me that some day I would be willing to vote for light wines and beers, I couldn't have believed them. However, I must admit that I have changed my mind. Let every one believe according to his conscience, but any one who believes prohibition is a success must have let his conscience stop working.

Resident Complains of Unnecessary Noise From Street Car Bells.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to call your attention to a condition which exists at the intersection of Woodley road and Connecticut avenue. Under the new traffic regulations automobiles are allowed to pass to the left of the landing platforms unless otherwise specified.

When drivers take advantage of this concession and try to make a left-hand turn they are subject to continual heckling from street car motormen, who pound away at their bells like a slowed-down alarm clock, even though it is impossible for them to move against a red light or oncoming traffic.

Street car bells are essential for public safety, but it is very annoying to the residents of that section to have a man keep ringing the bell when it can do absolutely no good.

Truck Is Held Under Libel on Charges Against Dead Driver.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Referring to the letter in The Post October 16 from Laura B. Rithler, who was fined for fishing, let us show you that Laura got off easily. Recently a motor truck collided with a bus in Arlington County and the driver of the truck was killed. His wrecked truck was towed to the county courthouse and impounded. After a lapse of a week or two his brother appeared at the courthouse to reclaim the wrecked truck to salvage for what he could get toward meeting the funeral expenses. But behold, this brother was advised that the truck was being held under libel for careless driving, and should this brother wish the truck he must pay the figure of libel, which amounted to $17.50.

Colony on South Sea Atoll Descended From One Man

Auckland, New Zealand, Oct. 21 (A. P.).—A strange colony of 87 persons all descendants of a white man, William Marsters, has been revealed by the chance visit of the American freighter Golden Coast to Palmerston Island.

The Golden Coast, blown slightly off her course during a trip from the United States to Australia recently, passed close to the tiny coral atoll listed only on the larger charts of the South Pacific.

The skipper was surprised to see a small boat put off from the island.

The freighter stopped and lowered a gangway, up which clambered a withered but active old man attended by a number of half caste boys who called him "Dad." The latter explained that nearly seventy years previously his father had gone to the island and that all the present inhabitants were descendants of this original settler.

He said that all loved their island home with its flowers, abundance of tropical fruit and other foods. The boys dived for pearls to pass away the time. He pulled out a frayed piece of cotton cloth containing a handful of gems which he traded for a pile of old clothes. The wireless operator took the shirt off his back in payment for a pearl as big as a pea.

Most of the islanders have attractive olive skins and fair hair. The Golden Coast, which stopped for 6 hours, was the first ship they had seen in five years.

U. S. Postal Savings Rise in September

Total of $460,000,000 for Month Is Reported With Decrease in Florida.

(Associated Press.)

Postal savings in September advanced $45,000,000 to a total of $460,000,000 with increases everywhere except Florida.

Postal authorities are puzzling over withdrawal in Florida of $290,000 out of a total of $326,000 decreases in various sections of the country.

All the principal cities of the State except Jacksonville and Tampa showed decided withdrawals. Miami's withdrawals were $74,000, St. Petersburg $35,000 and West Palm Beach $47,000.

Assistant Postmaster General Tilton said yesterday that all funds received by the postal savings were promptly deposited in savings accounts in the banks of the districts in which they originated.

9th Reserve Bank Fixes Higher Rate

Philadelphia Unit Joins Raising of Rediscounts; Three Unchanged.

(Associated Press.)

The Federal Reserve Board announced yesterday that the Federal Reserve Bank of Philadelphia had increased its rediscount rate one-half of 1 per cent to 3½, and the St. Louis Bank had increased its rate 1 per cent to 3½ per cent, effective today.

The action of the two banks makes eleven increases in the rediscount rates of nine Federal Reserve Banks in the last two weeks. The increases have been at Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Cleveland, Richmond, Chicago, St. Louis, Dallas and San Francisco.

Only the bank at Atlanta, which has a rate of 3 per cent; Minneapolis, with a rate of 3½ per cent, and Kansas City, with a rate of 3 per cent, have not announced increases.

DOAK HITS PAY CUTS IN BOSTON ADDRESS

Secretary Tells Industries Cut-Throat Competitors Face Retribution.

Boston, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—William N. Doak, Secretary of Labor, today told the Associated Industries of Massachusetts that those who during the present economic situation resort to "cut-throat competition and promiscuous wage-cutting" will rue it in the future. Such actions are both unsound and unscientific, he said.

The relief of unemployment in times of economic distress can best be reached by conservative methods, rather than further paternalism on the part of the Government, Secretary Doak told those attending the sixteenth annual meeting of the Industries. He expressed doubt that the central government was ever intended "to be used as a charitable institution," or that it should set the pace in making allowances for promotion of schemes which involve matching of appropriations by individual States by the Federal Treasury.

The secretary gave the opinion it was hopeless for complete relief to be brought about until business stopped trying to get ahead by selling below production costs. He said capital, labor and management were entitled to proper returns for their participation in any productive enterprise and any system which denied such returns was unsound.

Junior League Planning Ball In December

Attempt Will Be Made to Restore Atmosphere of Former Fetes.

Reminiscent of the Junior League balls of several seasons ago, the Washington league hopes to recapture the atmosphere of the old fetes, always given with success, and this season will give a large ball in December at the Mayflower. With so many parties booked for that month in advance, no date has as yet been selected.

Cabaret entertainment presented under professional direction introduced a delightful air of informality to the balls given in the past, and while amateur skits will be offered at the fete this year, they will be presented in impromptu fashion, without professional management. Talent for the entertainment will be solicited, as usual, from the ranks of the younger set.

Mrs. Carl R. Kurtz is in charge of the arrangements for the ball and she is being assisted by a group of Junior League girls. Last year, the league "took over" the Willard for a day, instead of giving a ball. Girls invaded the hotel to act as waitresses, hat check girls, etc., and the league was given a percentage of the business done in one day. The year before, a cabaret was given on a large scale at the Mayflower and the season before that, the league presented a circus at the auditorium.

Four seasons ago, and prior to that, cabaret balls were held at the Willard. Under the guidance of Mrs. Benjamin Holcombe and Nancy Hoyt, now Mrs. Edward Curtis, pageantry, dances, character skits and the like were presented, and with much success, and while those in charge of the affair this season will not attempt to produce an elaborate show, they will present several skits informally, as a pleasant break to an evening of dancing.

The House of Mercy will have a bazaar and tea today at the home on Rosemont avenue at Klingle road. The president of the board, Mrs. Henry C. Morris, Deaconess Yeo, and members of the board will receive those interested in the work of the association and will show them through the new nursery wing which has recently been completed.

Mrs. J. H. Howard, Mrs. William F. Sowers, Mrs. William Cabell Moore and Miss Trace Burton will be in charge of the bazaar, which opens at 10 o'clock.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

EUGENE ORMANDY, noted radio conductor, will take Arturo Toscanini's place as director of the Philadelphia Orchestra during the last week in October and the first week in November.

The noted Italian leader will not be able to return to America in time to lead the great Philadelphia Orchestra as planned, and the directors of that great organization have turned to Mr. Ormandy to take his place. This great honor which comes to Ormandy is also a great honor for radio, because it is the first time since broadcasting flashed across the musical firmament that it has happened.

Ormandy is no newcomer to the audiences of the Philadelphia Orchestra. He has conducted their summer concerts with sensational success for two seasons, but this is the first time he has been invited to wield the conductor's baton in the classic winter series. His appearances will be mainly in Philadelphia, and probably will include one concert in Washington.

Eugene Ormandy from the beginning of his experience in radio—he is now in his third season—has been recognized as one of the brilliant musicians among the conductors. His gifts in interpretation are amazingly broad; he leads the classics and the popular with equal warmth and understanding.

He made his debut in radio with the Jack Frost Melody Moments on September 5, 1929. Previous to that he had been director of the Capitol Theater in New York. He came to America from Budapest ten years ago, bent upon continuing his career as a violinist. He was then only 20 years old and for years had been a sensation in European countries, starting as a boy prodigy. The management failed him in America. He could not afford to return to Europe, and he took a position as an inconspicuous violinist at the Capitol Theater. Within a week he was concert master and within a month he was a conductor.

THOMAS A. EDISON'S last wish in music will be realized in a Nation-wide radio requiem for the great inventor. His favorite symphony, the "Eroica" by Beethoven, will comprise a memorial concert by the Boston Symphony Orchestra to be heard over WRC this afternoon at 4 o'clock.

A short time before his death Edison informed the Etude magazine: "If I had but 24 hours to live, and could hear great music, I would choose Beethoven's 'Eroica.'" His answer was in response to a questionnaire sent to several distinguished Americans.

The memorial program will be broadcast direct from Symphony Hall in Boston, under the direction of Sergei Koussevitsky.

Addresses by William N. Doak, Secretary of Labor, and Representative Fred Britten, of Illinois, will be heard when proceedings of the American Coalition of Patriotic Societies meeting are broadcast today (WRC, 12:30 p. m.).

As the first speaker on its series of programs entitled "Satisfying Mrs. Shopper," the United States Chamber of Commerce will present Alice L. Edwards, executive secretary of the American Home Economics Association, at 11 o'clock this morning over WMAL.

THE Shoreham Concert Orchestra will broadcast Tschaikowsky's Andante Cantabile, one of the numbers announced on the opening Sunday afternoon concert of the National Symphony Orchestra November 15, as part of its regular offering from WJSV at 8 o'clock tonight.

A miniature symphonic program by children will be offered by Frances Gutelius in the Washington National Symphony Children's Hour tomorrow (WMAL, 10:45 a. m.). These children, Charlton Meyer, 6; Karlian Meyer, 11, and Walter Drummond Swank, 12 years old, are young pianists whose talents and training are bringing them to the forefront. They are appearing in the interest of the series of eight children's concerts which Hans Kindler will conduct from Central High School, beginning Thursday, November 12.

Another of the "Blue Moonlight" broadcasts will be heard tomorrow morning at 11:15 o'clock over WMAL. Ida Bailey Allen will be the hostess and the entire musical portion of the program will be made up of moon songs.

THE arrival of Pierre Laval, Premier of France, in New York will be described over WRC and WMAL this morning at 9 a. m. The reception by members of the State Department and Mayor Walker's reception committee to Premier Laval and his party will be described by George Hicks and John S. Young.

This is the earliest opportunity for comment on the excellent job done by the NBC on the Yorktown sesquicentennial broadcasts. Their handling of this difficult task was all that could be desired. The announcers, Heriuf Provensen and Bill Abernathy, were not in the least tiresome on the pageant broadcast on Monday afternoon, while A. E. Johnson, division engineer, deserves particular credit for his department's efficient set-ups.

More than 10,000 G. E. refrigerator salesmen will hear T. K. Quinn, vice president of General Electric, when he speaks during the home circle program over a national network tomorrow (WRC, 12 noon).

"Two perfect heels," otherwise Pratt and Sherman, will be heard during the Florsheim Frolic tomorrow night (WRC, 10 o'clock), when they offer nonsense as "masters of unceremony." Ferdie Grofe's orchestra and Jane Froman, blues singer, will be featured.

WHILE en route to a recent football game, Bill Munday, the Georgia drawl, and Arthur McNulty, another football commentator, picked fourteen winners out of a possible fifteen. The only game they failed to predict correctly was the contest they announced that afternoon.

Ethel Barrymore's Son Signs for Role in Films

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Samuel Barrymore Colt, 21, son of Ethel Barrymore, today signed a moving picture contract by which he will undertake to follow in the footsteps of his illustrious uncles, John and Lionel Barrymore.

His first role, under a Paramount Studio contract, is that of a fast living young New Yorker.

Jane Interprets the Mode

A smart black crepe de chine frock, several years old, makes over cleverly as shown in the small illustration. (A Dah-ray design).

New York, Oct. 21.

"DEAR MOTHER," a smart young college girl wrote to a friend of mine, "can you possibly stretch the old allowance to include some new undies for me now that cold weather's here? I know mine are perfectly good, and I have lots of them, but the other girls have the keenest new lingerie that's warm!"

Mercy—warm underwear! Do they plan to return to red flannel or something, these bright young things? It isn't quite so bad as all that, really, but there is a decided turning toward warmer and more comfortable underwear, especially pajamas and nighties. These new and warmer things are just as chic as summery lace ones, though—I really think a girl in college would freeze rather than admit to her wardrobe a single thing not smart or attractive.

For warmer pajamas, tailored Russian ones, with high collars and fringed sash girdles and only moderately wide trousers, colored terry cloth is the latest discovery. Terry cloth robes were so nice and comfy on the beach this summer that it's no wonder the girls remembered it and tried it out as pajama material. Pajamas in two shades of brown, green, blue, rose, purple and black with white, are made of terry cloth and are reversible! No wonder they have made a hit.

And for the warmer nighties, challis and albatross fine woolen materials, the albatross always in plain colors and the challis gay with quaint, multicolored bouquets are used, made in comfortable, modern lines and trimmed with hand fagotting or feather-stitching just as Grannie's used to be!

It is, undeniably, economy to buy a frock of conservative style, smart and becomingly cut, and very good material, no matter how much it costs originally. For instance, the frock illustrated today is a couturier model, and one that I paid, o-o-o-h plenty of money for in the first place. It's of heavy black flat crepe, made to wear with a vestee, and incrusted to fit snugly over the hips. And it is a frock I have worn for several years—which couldn't be done now could it, with a frock of inferior material?

* * * *

But this season I decided I wanted this frock to look a bit smarter, so-o-o-o-o, I had it made over. As a matter of fact, I wanted the new, wider shoulder effect, and as the plain long sleeves did pull the seams in the back, I had them changed to the short, cape-effect sleeve that you see in my smaller illustration. 'N' I'm glad I did it, for it makes the frock something else again, but something that's just as chic as the first version.

* * * *

For a couple of dollars, plus what you already have in the house, and your stamped, self-addressed envelope sent to the Dare department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet, you can make any number of smart and original Halloween costumes for sister and brother to wear out to the festivities. Honestly now—for just a few cents you can buy enough black oilcloth to make pirate boot tops to slip on over brother's every-day shoes! 'N' it costs very little to gild an old pair of sister's sandals, for her Peter Pan costume, and to dye an old frock, which you don't mind cutting up, green! And these are only a few of this leaflet's original, economical and easy-to-accomplish suggestions!

Au revoir!

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

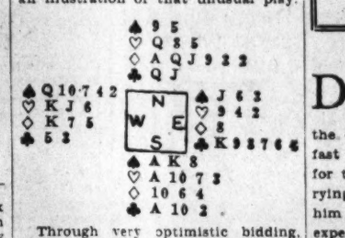
A LEGACY OF WHIST.

ONE of the most beautiful and unusual plays in Bridge owes its name to the parent game of Whist. This play is called the Vienna Coup and consists in establishing a winning card in the hands of one opponent only to dash the cup of hope from his lips by forcing him later to discard it or unguard another suit.

The name was given this play, according to Whist history, because one of the most celebrated Whist players in Vienna, while playing a game of Double Dummy Whist, had a most unusual hand dealt to him, and upon scanning the cards he declared he could take all the tricks. His opponent, almost equally expert, differed with him and a wager was made. Thereupon the player proceeded to win his wager by means of the play which has been known ever since as the Vienna Coup. Today's hand is an illustration of that unusual play.

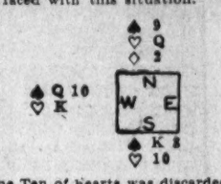


Through very optimistic bidding, North and South had arrived at a contract of seven notrump. The fact that to make this declaration it was necessary to make two successful finesses and then establish a squeeze situation by means of the Vienna Coup, illustrates that their bidding was not entirely sound. However, it is one of the virtues of a great player that he can sometimes redeem the faults in the bidding by accurate play.

West selected for his Opening lead his fourth best spade and this the Declarer won with the Ace. A diamond was led to the second round and the Knave finessed in Dummy. Now the Queen of clubs was led and this finesse also held. The Knave of clubs was next led and East refused to cover. Actually, his play here is immaterial.

It was upon the fifth lead that South made the Vienna Coup. Leading the 5 of hearts from the North hand, he made no attempt to finesse, but took the trick with the Ace in the closed hand and then laid down the Ace of clubs, upon which West was forced to discard and chose the 2 of spades. A diamond was then led and the finesse taken the second time. East failed to follow, but this made no difference, and the Ace of diamonds picked up West's King.

The two high diamonds now accounted for the ninth and tenth tricks, and on the eleventh trick West was faced with this situation.



The Ten of hearts was discarded by South, but West was helpless. To discard the King of hearts would establish the Queen in the Dummy; to discard a spade would establish both spades in the closed hand.

The fortunate Declarer had corrected his over-optimistic bidding by an unusual and beautiful play.

TODAY'S POINTER.

A deck of cards with its four suits is built upon two principles:

1—The principle of rank (quality), according to which each card of the suit is either higher or lower than the next. From this source are drawn all the honor values where a trick is won simply because a card is the highest of the suit led. The second source of tricks is the length principle (quantity), according to which thirteen cards of a suit break up around the table into smaller suits of various lengths. All low-card tricks arise from differences in lengths (mass). This remarkable structure of cards is similar to the basic structure of an army with its "leadership" and "mass" factors and reflects the remote origin of cards in ancient games imitating war.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

OVERWORKED WIVES.

DEAR Frances McDonald:

Well, if that girl "Modern" starts in rushing home from the office to attack a pan of breakfast dishes and prepare a heavy meal for the "fastidious eater" she is marrying, she is some silly sap. Picture him telling her in advance that he expects home-cooked eats and a "working wife."

It strikes me there are an awful lot of girls just crazy to get a man. And they will agree to almost anything to nail one. In the office where I worked before I married the girls about fell over trying to land the most unpromising sort of fellows. It was not surprising that the men used to brag that they could make their own terms. I was engaged at the time, and the things they used to tell me made me ashamed of my fellow workers. Recently I returned on business to that office. Only one of the original girls remained, and she had only the worst tales of woe to report of the rest.

One girl had married one of the salesmen, only to find that his divorce was not legal. She had not even known he was married. He has never even bothered to take the necessary legal steps to insure her status—and she meekly goes along in such humiliation—because she "loves" him. Mind you, she has never quit work for a day! Another does house-to-house canvassing because she lost her job and can get nothing else. She does not feel she can, even for a time, ask support from the man for whom she used to dash home to cook! It was because of her overwork that she lost out at the office at that. Do these girls call themselves wives? I call them something else.

I was engaged six years. Every time he suggested hurrying the marriage I stood my ground. Not until he had enough to insure the decencies of living would I marry him. I let him know that the matter of support was exclusively his business and I intended to have nothing to do with it. The result is that he would not dream of expecting me to hustle out and pay my way. We now have three children, but even when we had none I did no dashing to and fro, wild-eyed, earning the meal and cooking it, too.

If "Modern" is wise she will heed and follow your advice. The days of slavery are passed—except for man-crazy women. A KEPT WIFE.

And "Secretary," too, has a bit to offer.

May I warn your correspondent, "Modern," in regard to the man who demands home cooking and a self-supporting wife? I annexed one of these gigolos. He pays $3 for a tie and borrows car fare from me. In the morning he has nothing to think of but being immaculately groomed—to give the girls at the office a thrill. I have the breakfast to get and he wants his full-course breakfast, fruit, cereal and bacon and eggs with toast and coffee. A look of bored patience if toast is scorched while I try to get dressed for my day's work.

Evenings it is one mad dash. And aching bones by the time the house is to rights and the dishes away. Never enough pep to go anywhere. But he is out every night in the world. A selfish, conceited spendthrift: After five years of marriage he has not one cent and resents the fact that I have even a little out of my earnings. For months now he has just been beating his way, giving nothing at all toward the house I am saving for the price of a trip and a divorce. All because I married a man who was looking for someone to reduce his expenses. So, "Modern," beware.

What Today Means to You

"LIBRA."

If October 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:45 a. m. to 11:55 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m., and from 5:30 p. m. to 8:10 p. m.

October 22, speaking astrologically, will be the most propitious day of all in the week. More by good luck than by management or foresight, business will prosper. The home will be free from contentions and misunderstandings. Marriages on this date will turn out extraordinarily well. Love affairs will go smoothly ahead.

A child born on this October 22 will be winsome, kind-hearted and affectionate—but secretive. It will be a loyal friend. Its intelligence will be marked, and its life will be a success, unmarred by jealously or malice. It will possess a charming personality and always be on the level.

You, if born on October 22, have a very versatile nature. You are interested in many things and capable of doing several things well. You do not believe in putting all your eggs in one basket. You have clear judgment and careful discrimination. You take a real joy in life, and are not content to merely exist. You are a fighter, and if things do not come your way, you, by your will power and indefatigable energy, make them do so. Your mind is a keen one and you are a great reader—and a quick one.

In your horoscope, extensive travel is denoted, and it will only be later in life that you will prize the comforts and tranquillity of home life. You are fond of luxury, but can do without it, and never miss it when the occasion arises. Your emotions are very strong, and you give free expression to them, regardless of convention and in spite of appearances.

You are a hard worker and possess exceptional concentrative powers. You can switch your concentration, however, from one subject to another with great facility. The one weakness in your make-up is your trustfulness. You should learn to love all, while trusting a few.

Successful people born on October 22:

1—Mitzi Green, juvenile film star.
4—James A. Gary, merchant.
5—James Manning, clergyman and educator.
6—Shobal V. Clevenger, sculptor.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

HOW MUCH SLEEP.

THAT old men require a full eight hours of sleep is one of the conclusions that Dr. W. A. Laird draws from replies received from several thousand brain workers. The elderly male has his rest broken by physiological demands once or oftener during the night, but if he is wise he returns to bed after each interruption, relaxes himself mentally and physically, and resumes sleeping where he left off. The age at which men seem to require most sleep is 35 to 45 years. Men in that period should see to it that nothing interferes with eight quiet hours of slumber.

This study of sleep requirements shows eight hours to be about right for an adult. Of those 25 years old who were investigated, one-fourth got more than eight hours; at age 35 the proportion was 45 per cent. It remained at this level, or thereabouts, until age 45. By age 70 its had dropped to 35 per cent, after which it rose until it reached 60 per cent at age 85. Plainly, this aggregation of old men got plenty of sleep, on the average.

The proportion of men who got less than six hours of sleep nightly followed a changing curve. At age 25, one-quarter of them got less than six hours' sleep. At age 45 16 per cent were in that class; at age 70, 27 per cent; at age 85, 12 per cent.

Sixty per cent of the group of several hundred reported that they suffered ill effects following a night of poor sleep. Those noted were: "Less mentally active," "feeling of drowsiness," "lack of pep," "sleepy in late afternoon," "energy impaired," "lacking in initiative," "lack of strength," "shaky," "tired" "drowsy early in evening," "creative ability on the wane," "loss of keenness," "lessening of spontaneity," "not as clear-headed as usual," "a little languor," "eye trouble," "irritable," Some had headaches, backaches, or vague aches in the legs.

The age at which loss of sleep was most likely to cause symptoms was 35. The men in that group were 50 per cent more liable to be made inefficient and uncomfortable than was the case with men of 85.

The railroad people will do well to study that part of the report that has to do with sleeping on the train. The proportions of the different groups that did not recuperate satisfactorily by a night's sleep on the train were always high. More than one-half of all the correspondents who were between 28 and 48 years of age reported that sleeping on a train was not restful. The young and the very old got the best rest. Some reported that they went to bed on the train very early, and made up for quality of sleep by quantity. Some reported that they dozed during the day and took an afternoon nap, in this way they compensated for restless nights. A few reported that the rhythmic noises and movements of a train were conducive to sleep.

SHOES AND CORNS.

R. H. writes: Is there something which will cure corns? Having them cut seems to make them grow more.

REPLY.

The corn remedies sold in drug stores, if properly used, will cure corns in the sense that they remove the mass. However, corns always return after removal, if the cause continues to operate. The only cure, in the proper sense, is to change shoes. Shoes that do not rub do not cause corns.

POISON BY MISTAKE.

C. A. M. writes: If a person takes one or two bichloride of mercury tablets by mistake, and did not discover the mistake, what would be the result and what effect would it have on the person?

REPLY.

It might cause death. The first effect is a violent gastritis. After that danger has passed there comes the danger of acute hemorrhagic nephritis with suppression of urine. A persisting form of Bright's disease may follow later.

FLEEING FROM THE EROSIAN MOB, OUR SPEED WAS SO GREAT THAT IT NEUTRALIZED THE SPIN OF THE GIGANTIC CYLINDER, AND WE SHOT UP INTO THE AIR - BUT AS FRICTION CHECKED OUR SPEED, CENTRIFUGAL FORCE REASSERTED ITSELF - AND WE WERE FALLING, FASTER AND FASTER, TOWARD THE "GROUND" OR INSIDE HULL OF EROS.

IT WON'T JAR MUCH - NOT LIKE IT WOULD ON EARTH!
— BUT JUST UNDERNEATH THE SOIL THE METAL OF THE INNER HULL HAD RUSTED, AND — HI! AFTER THEM! SOCK THEM!
GOOD NIGHT! WE'RE GOING RIGHT THROUGH THE GROUND.

Free Samples At Druggists Of Two New Vick Products

Every User of Vicks VapoRub Entitled to a Free Trial of Its New Allies—Vicks Nose & Throat Drops and Vicks Medicated Cough Drops.

INTRODUCES NEW IDEA

Discovery Makes Possible New Vick Plan of Better Home-Control of Colds.

TO REDUCE "COLDS-TAX"

Following years of research on the problem of colds and their increasing cost, Vick Chemists announce a new discovery—Vicks Nose and Throat Drops. Based on a new idea in preventing colds, it is a perfect ally to Vicks VapoRub, the modern and better method of treating colds. Together they make possible the new Vick Plan of better Control of Colds in the home—and further reduction of the family "Colds-Tax" of time, money and discomfort.

1.—Before a Cold Starts.

On exposure to colds or any of the causes that ordinarily lead to colds—(crowded indoor places—stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms—sudden temperature changes—wet and cold)—that slow down the normal functioning of the nose, Nature's marvelous "first line of defense against colds"—use Vicks Drops promptly. Or, if a cold actually threatens—when you feel that first stuffy, sneezy irritation of the nasal passages—a few drops up each nostril, and many annoying colds will be avoided.

2.—When a Cold Strikes.

Use the convenient Vicks Drops during the day—any time, any place—as often as needed for comfort and relief. At bedtime, rub Vicks VapoRub well over throat and chest and cover with warm flannel. Leave bedclothing loose around the neck so the medicated vapors can be inhaled all night long. This Vick Plan gives you a full 24-hour treatment. (If there is a cough, you will like another new Vick product—Vicks Cough Drops—actually medicated with ingredients of Vicks VapoRub.)

Trial Packages Free.

In order that every user of Vicks VapoRub may try the two new Vick products now being introduced, a supply of free trial packages of each has been sent to every druggist in the United States. Go to your druggist today and ask for yours. If, by any chance his supply is exhausted, send us the top of a Vicks VapoRub carton—or coupon from the VapoRub directions folder—and we will mail free samples direct to you, together with a folder on the new Vick Plan for Control of Colds in the home. 4 SUPPORT WOMAN IN ERLANGER SUIT

Testify They Considered Pair as Husband and Wife; Lawyers Clash.

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Three women and a man went to the witness stand today in an attempt to back up the contention of Charlotte Fixel, former chorus girl, that she was the common law wife of the late Abraham L. Erlanger, theater producer, and should receive a third of his $75,000,000 estate.

They said they considered the pair husband and wife because "they behaved like it," because Miss Fixel wore two wedding rings, because she introduced the producer as her husband, because she called him "Bunny," and because they lived together.

"During my visits to Mrs. Erlanger, she always called Mr. Erlanger 'Dear' and 'Bunny' on the telephone and in person," Mrs. Elizabeth Conger, of Atlantic City, testified, after relating she had known the plaintiff for 25 years.

"Before you were married did you ever address any man as 'Dear' or 'Bunny?'" the witness was asked by Isidor J. Kresel, counsel for the Erlanger estate.

"Well," Mrs. Conger replied hesitatingly, "Maybe as 'Dear,' but never as 'Bunny.' I consider that nickname very intimate."

There were repeated objections to the use of the words "Mrs. Erlanger" when witnesses referred to the plaintiff, but the court ruled the term was permisable.

Samuel Untermeyer, of defense counsel, engaged in a lengthy clash with Max D. Steuer, Miss Fixel's attorney, when the latter accused him of asking witnesses to repeat "favorable answers."

"That's a most outrageous statement," Untermeyer said, and explained he had asked that certain answers be repeated because he had not heard them.

J. C. HOWELL

Richmond, Va.—"I was weak, nervous, lost weight and had pains all through my body. I took two bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and can say it surely did help me. I hadn't finished the first bottle when I began to feel more like myself again. I soon took on weight and my normal strength returned," said J. C. Howell of 632 Louisiana St. "I think Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a wonderful tonic for a weak, nervous, run-down condition and believe more people should know what it is doing every day for people who have lost their health."

STOMACH TROUBLES

How frequently we hear people complain of "indigestion." And how seldom there is actually anything wrong with the digestive organs!

What most people call indigestion is usually excess acid in the stomach. The food has soured. The instant remedy is an alkali to neutralize the acids. But don't use any crude helps. Use what most doctors would advise; use what your own doctor prescribes in his daily practice for just that condition.

The very best help is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. You will find nothing else so quick in effect, so harmless, so efficient. One tasteless spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in acid. Results are immediate, with no harmful after effects to follow your relief.

This pleasant way to alkalinize your system is so much better—so much quicker—than attempting to accomplish the same thing by a diet! But you cannot do this with any form of magnesia. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is the formula; it is the one preparation that gives you magnesia in perfect suspension. It is alkaline, its action is thorough, and there is nothing more soothing to an ailing stomach or more helpful to sluggish bowels. Druggists have Phillips' Milk of Magnesia in 25c and 50c bottles.

The best way to whiten teeth is with Phillips' Dental Magnesia—the ideal dentifrice. Try it and see for yourself how white your teeth become. At drug stores everywhere.

THE "HIDDEN QUART"

That Stays up in the Motor and Never Drains Away

—is Worth its Weight in Gold to Any Motorist!

It's not the mileage your speedometer shows that makes your car wear out quickly, lose power and need costly repairs. It's motor wear, caused by friction, that does it! And almost half of all this motor wear occurs while you're starting. Cut down starting wear and you'll give your motor longer life.

That's just what the "hidden quart" of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil does! It stays up in your motor and never drains away and thus cuts down starting wear! Ordinary oils drain away, leaving working parts unprotected until oil is pumped from the crankcase through the motor, which takes several minutes. Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil penetrates and combines with metal surfaces of working parts, stays there and never drains away. The "hidden quart" safely lubricates every cylinder, piston and bearing the instant you touch the starter.

The "hidden quart" is worth its weight in gold to you! From the first fill with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, you'll have this "hidden quart" up in your motor, giving safe lubrication at all times, lengthening your motor's life. Drain your crankcase now . . fill with Germ Processed Oil at any station displaying the Conoco Red Triangle.

145 GET DIPLOMAS AT G. W. UNIVERSITY

Seven Members Graduated With Honors at Fall Convocation.

Presentation of degrees to 145 students from the District of Columbia, 28 States and three foreign nations featured the annual fall convocation of George Washington University yesterday morning.

Seven members of the class were graduated with honors. Junior certificates with honors were received by Beatrice K. Miller, of this city, and Verna C. Mohagen, of North Dakota. In Columbia College, Inda Payne Clarke and Jack Permut, both of Washington, received degrees of bachelor of arts with distinction.

Bachelor of Laws.

In the school of law, Dwight D. Taylor, of Washington State, received the degree of bachelor of laws with distinction. In the school of education Mildred Huth Anderson and Imogene Ickis Ruediger, dean of the William Carl Ruediger, dean of the school, received degrees of bachelor of arts in education with distinction.

Among the graduates were the daughter of a United States senator, the son of a State governor, and the daughter of the governor of a Chinese province.

Edith Brookhart, daughter of Senator Smith W. Brookhart, of Iowa, received a certificate from the junior college. Miss Brookhart is the third member of her family to be graduated from the university, her sister and brother having previously received degrees.

Charles P. Pollard, son of the Governor of Virginia, received the degree of bachelor of laws. Pollard is the sixth member of his family to be graduated from the George Washington University and represents the fourth generation of Pollards at the institution. His father, Gov. Pollard; his grandfather, and his great-grandfather all were graduated from the university.

School of Government.

Ming Hwa Nyeu, of Shanghai, China, daughter of the governor of a Chinese province, was the only graduate to receive a degree from the university's school of govrnment at this convocation. Miss Nyeu has been active politically in her own country and it was because of the ability she displayed that she was sent to the United States to study government at the George Washington University.

The degree of bachelor of laws was conferred posthumously upon Thomas Stephens, son of the corporation counsel of the District of Columbia. In recommending that the degree be conferred Dean William Cabell Van Vleck, of the law school, explained that the young man's untimely death occurred just one week before the examinations in which he would have qualified, and that the law faculty, in recognition of his work as a student and as a token of sympathy to his parents, had voted to confer the degree and to send his diploma to his father, who also is a George Washington graduate. The degree was thereupon conferred.

Following the conferring of degrees President Cloyd Heck Marvin addressed the graduates, urging them to make use of the educational advantags they had received by working harder and to greater social purpose than otherwise they could have done.

The complete list of graduates follows:

Boy Is Awarded $900 For Automobile Hurts

A jury in the District Supreme Court yesterday awarded John Francis Blodgett, Berwyn, Md., school boy, $900 for the injuries he suffered January 19, 1929, when an automobile belonging to Henry J. Wheeler struck him on F street here.

Attorney George C. Shinn appeared for the boy, who was in the hospital for several weeks. The suit asked for $10,000.

17 Bids Are Opened On Supreme Court

Fuller Company Is Lowest in Price for Building; $8,383,000 Named.

The magnificent $10,000,000 new home of the United States Supreme Court was brought a step nearer reality yesterday when David A. Lynn, architect of the Capitol, opened bids for construction of the marble superstructure of the new court building.

There were seventeen bidders, and, because of the crowd of persons interested in the subject, bids were opened in the caucus room of the House Office Building, on order that bidders and other interested persons might be accommodated comfortably during the process of opening and announcing the sealed bids submitted.

George A. Fuller & Co., of Washington, submitted the lowest principal bid, amounting to $8,383,000. Bids ranged up to $9,339,000, submitted by P. J. Carlin Construction Co., of New York, but the three lowest bidders were within the balance remaining available out of the $9,740,000 authorized by Congress for construction of the new Supreme Court Building.

Tree Spray Is Held Cause of 2 Deaths

Children's Vital Organs Are to Be Examined for Arsenic.

Vital organis of two children were sent to the District chemist for examination yesterday in belief they might contain arsenic. The two children, both colored, brother and sister, died within a day of each other at Gallinger Hospital of "unknown causes."

The case was turned over to the homicide squad and Sergt. Floyd Truscott, who is investigating it, expressed opinion the children had eaten locust seeds which had been sprayed with arsenic solution by the District recently.

Lois Colbert, 7, and Charles Colbert 5, of 312 E street southwest, were taken to Gallinger by their father when they became ill mysteriously a short time ago. A third member of the family, Gwendolyn, 21 months old, is seriously ill. Sergt. Truscott was informed by the father, Raymond Colbert, that the children had eaten locust seeds. Sergt Truscott sent samples of the seeds to the District chemist's office to see whether they contained arsenic.

Machine Gun Bank Bandits Are Found

Kidnaped Boy Was Slain in Reprisal for Shooting of One of Robbers.

Menomonie, Wis., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Sheriff Ike Marmon said the machine gun bandits who got $30,000 in the Kraft State Bank robbery which resulted in the deaths of two persons, today had been located at Web Lake, near Webster, Wis., 100 miles north of here.

Sheriff Harmon said indications were that a second bandit was killed or injured seriously during the escape at Menomonie.

James Kraft, 19, kidnaped by the robbers, was killed in reprisal for the shooting of one of their number, identified as Frank Webber, alais Frank Smith, captured in a Salt Lake City bank robbery in 1919. Both bodies were dumped from the bandit car as it outdistanced pursuers.

England Explains Holding Gandhi Aid

Detention of Envoy to U. S. Said to Have Been Only Temporary.

Southampton, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Mrs. Sailendra Nath Ghose and her two children who are bearing a message to Mahatma Gandhi from the United States were detained yesterday by immigration authorities when the Europa docked at Southampton—but only for three hours.

When she arrived at Southampton, Mrs. Ghose, wife of the president of the India National Congress of America, told authorities she was practically penniless as she had spent more than she expected on the voyage.

Mrs. Ghose explained she had arranged to sail from New York in another ship and had cabled to London for money to be placed at her disposal at Southampton. At the last moment, however, she decided to sail on the Europa and her financial arrangements went askew.

Both Are in Undetermined Condition; Driver of Other Auto Held.

A mother and her 5-year-old child suffered undetermined injuries last night when the automobile in which they were riding was in collision with another at Johnson's Hill and Columbia pike. The driver of the other car is being held pending the outcome of their injuries.

The injured are Mrs. Catherine Conchie, 34 years old, of 524 Tenth street southwest, and her daughter Nellie. Arlington County authorities said both cars were headed toward Washington, crashed at the intersection of the two roads and overturned.

Mrs. Conchie and the child were taken to Emergency Hospital. The driver of the other car, Edward A. McLeese, colored, of 1155 Twentieth street northwest, will be held pending outcome of their injuries, authorities said.

Dr. Barrett Talks On Russian Issues

Royal Geographic Leader Speaks at Capital Hebrew Meeting.

Dr. Robert S. Barrett, of the Royal Geographic Society of London, and president of the Florence Crittenden Homes, was the principal speaker last night at a meeting of the Brotherhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation, in the vestry room of the Eighth Street Temple.

In his talk, Dr. Barrett discussed past and present conditions in Russia. He contrasted the different forms of government that at one time prevailed in the country, with the Communistic element that now controls the people.

Dr. Barrett's speech was interrupted at 10 o'clock, while the meeting stood in silence for one minute, as the lights were extinguished in honor of the memory of Thomas A. Edison. An entertainment and refreshments concluded the program.

Coal Leaders Fail Reaching Accord

Body to Reconcile Score of Plans Named; Decision Due in 3 Months.

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—A committee to reconcile a score of proposals for replacing King Coal securely on his throne was appointed today at the close of a meeting of 70 mine operators.

None of the plans advanced was made public. C. B. Huntress, of Washington, D. C., executive secretary, said, because no agreement on any of them had been reached. A final decision is expected in Washington in about three months.

"The conference went on record in a resolution addressed to Walter S. Gifford, director of the President's organization on unemployment relief, that the operators pledge themselves to continue their present efforts to provide working time for their employes," said a statement.

ARLINGTON REPORTS 2 PARALYSIS CASES

Dr. P. M. Chichester Reports No Cause for Alarm Over Malady.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Nothing remains but the signing of one or two deeds to property for rights of way before the county will start the construction of the Washington street project which will give the residents of the county a direct approach to the new Arlington Memorial Bridge, according to County Engineer C. L. Kinnier.

The deeds for conveying the property to the county have been prepared and it is expected that it is but a matter of a few days when they will have been signed.

County Engineer C. L. Kinnier says that a steam shovel will be put on the project and the grading and necessary fills rushed before winter weather sets in.

Dr. P. M. Chichester, Arlington County health officer, declared yesterday that there is no cause for general alarm as a result of two recent cases of infantile paralysis in the county. There is no epidemic in the county, nor is there likely to be, he said.

Frederick P. M. Siddons, secretary American Security & Trust Co., of Washington, is announced as the principal speaker at the meeting of the Arlington Rotary Club today, to be held at the Washington Golf and County Club. Mr. Siddons will take as his subject, "The Significence of Money Standards."

The monthly meeting of the executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation scheduled for this evening has been postponed for one week. The meeting will be held at the home of C. K. Lewis at Lyon Park.

Fellds - Club - for - Sheriff was organized in Cherrydale last night with the election of the following officers: Frank T. Williams, president; C. E. Vermillion, sr., vice president; Oscar Doyle, secretary, and Reese O'Neil, treasurer.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting today at Windsor Arms, Glebe road. The meeting will be at 12 o'clock.

Men Sleeping in Bank Fined in Hyattsville

Twelve men, said by Prince Georges County police to be race-track followers, were fined $5 each yesterday for sleeping in the vacant building of the Patuxent Bank in Laurel. The men, who were formally charged with disorderly conduct, said the janitor had given them permission to live in the structure. Judge J. Chew Sheriff pronounced sentence in Hyattsville Police Court.

F. W. Bickerton was fined $200 with an alternative of six months in jail when he was convicted of transportation and possession while a similar fine was given Charles A. Diggs, of Fairmont Heights, on a charge of possession. Diggs was arrested when police raided his home.

Board Acts Today On Hodges Lane

Takoma Park Problem Involves Dead-End Street.

The Montgomery County commissioners today will act on a proposal by the town of Takoma Park, Md., which is expected to settle amicably the troublesome Hodges Lane situation in Takoma Park. The proposal was evolved at a meeting of the town council and interested property owners Tuesday night and prepared in form for presentation to the commissioners yesterday by Mayor Ben G. Davis.

The town proposes that Hodges Lane be left a dead-end street as at present and that the lane and Holly street be graded and paved so as to provide a connection by way of Holly street with Philadelphia avenue, instead of going into the expensive proposition of grading the end of Hodges lane to connect with Saratoga avenue as had been proposed. The town would pay one-third of the cost and the county the other two-thirds.

Bids for the construction of a reinforced concrete bridge over Piney Branch with necessary grading and drainage provisions and for the construction of almost a mile of highway between Glen and Travilah.

County School Board Refuses New Bus Line

Agitation by Bowie residents having resulted in the maintenance of a high school at Bowie, the Prince Georges County school board yesterday refused to establish a bus line for Bowie children who want to go to school at Laurel.

Before the opening of the school year, it was decided to abolish the last two years of the Bowie High School and send the students by bus to Laurel. A protest was registered and the whole four years of high school was retained. Some of the Bowie school patrons preferred the bus line, and established one to be paid for from their own pockets. Yesterday they appeared to ask the help of the board in paying for the line.

3 INJURED BY AUTOS IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Conference Will Consider Parking at Entrance to Mount Vernon Today.

Three persons were seriously injured in Fairfax County, Va., within the past 24 hours by automobiles. John Cameron, 19, of Ingleside, Va., was found lying unconscious on the side of the Washington-Richmond highway at Hybla Valley, by Horace and Thomas Martin, of Alexandria, early yesterday morning.

Cameron was rushed to the Alexandria Hospital, where it was found that he was suffering from a fractured skull, a possible fracture of the leg and numerous cuts and bruises. He was unable to tell how he sustained his injuries, but Capt. Haywood J. Durrer, of the Fairfax County police, found that he had been hit by a north-bound automobile. The name of the driver of the car has been withheld by the police.

Clarence Smith, 9-year-old son of Berkley Smith, of Vienna, Va., was hit by a car driven by W. H. Gardner, of Harrisburg, Pa., yesterday afternoon, on the Chain Bridge road, west of Vienna. According to witnesses the boy, who was riding on a truck, jumped from the truck and ran into the path of Gardner's car, who tried to avert the accident by running into the ditch, wrecking his car in the attempt.

The boy was rushed to the Georgetown Hospital by a passing motorist, where it was stated that he had sustained a broken leg and possible fracture of the skull. Gardner was taken before Justice of the Peace A. C. Ritchie, at Fairfax, and ordered held under a $500 bond pending the outcome of the boy's injuries.

Mrs. Lizzie Gilmore, 61, of 309 F street northeast, Washington, had her spine injured and sustained possible fracture of the leg as a result of an automobile accident on the Washington-Richmond highway, about 5 miles south of Alexandria, Va., Tuesday night.

A conference between Col. U. S. Grant 3d, chairman of the National Park and Planning Commission, and the special committee of the Fairfax County Chamber of Commerce—Herbert O. Blunt, Edmund H. Allen and J. Sidney Wiley—will be held this afternoon at the entrance of the Mount Vernon estate in regard to the present automobile parking facilities at the Mount Vernon terminus of the Mount Vernon boulevard.

The county trade body contend that the facilities are inadequate.

Five Criminal Cases Tried; Two Are Given Suspended Sentences.

Five criminal cases were tried in Prince Georges County Circuit Court, resulting in two verdicts of not guilty and three convictions. In addition to this number of trials, which is unusually large for this court, another person, who had pleaded guilty, was given a suspended sentence.

A jury decided that Wilfred Wheeler was guilty of not supporting his wife and children, while Abraham King, who elected to be tried by the court, was found guilty of stealing a cap and shoes from Jesse Thomas, of Laurel.

Jury trials were asked by both James M. Gunn, charged with non-support, and Edward Grove, charged with larceny of a camera from Rose Magruder, and both men were freed. Gunn's young son was not present in court to testify against him, and his wife admitted that she took sufficient groceries from his store in Bladensburg to feed the family. Grove admitted that the camera was in his possession when he was arrested, but said he bought it from a boarder in the Magruder home.

James Lyles, 14-year-old colored boy, was given an indeterminate sentence to the House of Reformation after pleading guilty to breaking into George W. Gray's store, but the sentence was suspended during good behavior.

A suspended sentence of 18 months in the House of Correction was given to Benjamin Brooks, who was convicted by the court of the larceny of one turkey hen worth $5 from John F. Ferguson. Brooks told the court he found the fowl "half-dead" in the road, and that it apparently had been attacked by a dog or struck by an auto. He added that he killed it to put it out of its misery, and ate it because he was hungry.

First Lady Plants Park Tree Today

Mrs. Hoover Will Be the Third President's Wife to Officiate.

For the fourth time the wife of a President will plant a tree on playgrounds of the District of Columbia. Mrs. Herbert Hoover will officiate at ceremonies this afternoon when a willow oak tree is planted on the Mitchell Park Playground, Twenty-third and S streets northwest. The exercises, under the auspices of the Women's City Club, will begin at 3 o'clock.

The program will include a concert by the United States Marine Band and folk songs and dances by children of three schools. Commissioner Luther H. Reichelderfer will accept the tree on behalf of the District, while the District Playground Department will be represented by Miss Sibyl Baker, supervisor.

Washington Boy Scouts will act as a guard of honor for Mrs. Hoover. The reception committee of the Woman's City Club will include Mrs. William Lee Corbin, president; Mrs. Lyman B. Swormstedt, Dr. Edith C. Cole, Miss Julia A. Connor, Dean Grace Hayes Riley, and Mrs. Merritt O. Chance.

Dr. Titsworth Portrays Model Rotary Club

Functions of the model Rotary Club in serving its members and the community at large were discussed by Dr. Paul E. Titsworth, governor of the Thirty-fourth District of Rotary International and president of Washington College, Chestertown, Md., at the regular weekly meeting of the Washington Rotary Club yesterday at the Willard.

Dr. Titsworth said that only through faithful adherence to the ideal of closer and sounder relationships between individuals, groups and races can many of the economic and political problems facing the world today be straightened out. Senor Lans Sarrate, of the Rotary Club of Barcelona, and a member of the new Parliament of Spain, was also a guest of honor.

ALEXANDRIA SESSION WEIGHS CHILD WORK

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Eleventh annual convention of the Virginia Congress of Parents and Teachers was opened in Alexandria yesterday morning at Trinity Methodist Church. Mrs. D. W. Persinger, of Roanoke, presided. Meetings will continue today and tomorrow.

One hundred delegates were registered yesterday. Feature of the meeting was an address by Dr. Mary Dabney Davis on the "Children's Charter," while Miss Mary Lenroot, assistant to Miss Grace Abbott of the Children's Bureau, Washington, explained the work of that bureau.

The meeting pledged itself to carry out, as far as possible, ideals expressed at President Hoover's White House conference on child health and protection.

Business sessions and round table conferences filled the day, while principal social feature was a banquet last night in the George Mason Hotel, attended by approximately 250 delegates, members of the local organization, city officials and heads of other civic organizations.

Mrs. Persinger, as presiding officer, announced the program. Invocation was by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. Dinner music was by Fritz Hauer, violinist, and Mrs. D. C. Book, pianist. R. C. Bowton, superintendent of Alexandria schools, gave the address of welcome. Two vocal selections were given by Miss Margaret Abramson.

The president presented Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, of Washington, who was leading spirit in establishing a parent-teacher association in Alexandria, and in her short talk she paid tribute to the late Capt. William H. Sweeney, who was then superintendent of schools, and the late Dr. Kate Waller Barrett, one of the pioneer members.

Miss Frances S. Hays, secretary of research and information of the national association of parents and teachers, gave a short talk, and all State officers were introduced.

A violin solo was played by Fritz Hauer, accompanied by Mrs. D. C. Book, and selections were given by a quartet, members of which were Mrs. Stephen H. Field, Mrs. George Hoefft, Clarence W. Wells and Stephen H. Field.

Principal address on community responsibility was by George Hastings, member President Hoover's secretariat.

Membership cup for the last year was presented to the Oakland, Va., Parent-Teacher unit by Mrs. Allan P. Johnson, third vice president for the State, and accepted by Mrs. T. H. Crowley, president of the Oakland unit. Award for the summer round-up was given Miss L. M. Steuart, seventh vice president of the State body.

Business sessions will be held today and will adjourn at 2 p. m. for a sightseeing tour, with tea served at 5 o'clock at the Old Dominion Boat Clubhouse. Tonight at 7 o'clock a founders' day pageant will be presented in Maury School auditorium by the local organization.

Alexandria Masons Hosts to Cornwallis

Visit Honors Washington With Mount Vernon on Tour Program.

Lord Cornwallis, returning from Yorktown yesterday, was guest of Alexandria-Washington lodge of Masons. He is deputy grand master of Masons in England, a post which is ordinarily held by the Prince of Wales as an hereditary right, and came to Alexandria to pay tribute to Gen. George Washington.

Lord Cornwallis has been, the last ten days, guest of the Grand Lodge of Masons of Pennsylvania, which granted a charter to Alexandria lodge, of which Washington was the first worshipful master. He was accompanied to Alexandria by Sir Colville Smith, secretary, and Sir George Boughey, director of ceremonies of the Grand Lodge of England, and by the officers of the Grand Lodge of Pennsylvania.

The party was met at Four Mile Run by an escort of Alexandria motorcycle police, by Charles H. Callahan, past grand master of Masons in Virginia, and Dr. Robert S. Barrett, senior warden of Alexandria-Washington lodge. After a visit to Mount Vernon they visited Alexandria-Washington lodge and the George Washington Masonic National Memorial Temple.

Countercharges Are Filed in Row

Rental Employe Accuses Policeman, Whose Wife Blames Him.

The Sheedys and the Hallidges will fight it out in court.

Alfred Hallidge, 50 years old, of Wardman Park Hotel, rental agent for the trustees in the Swartzell, Rheem & Hensey Co., yesterday appeared before Michael Keogh, assistant United States attorney at Police Court, and swore out a warrant for the arrest of Policeman John Sheedy, jr., of the Park Police, on a charge of assault.

Later, Mrs. Sheedy appeared to swear out a warrant for Mr. Hallidge, charging disorderly conduct.

Hallidge told the prosecutor that he went to Sheedy's apartment, 705 Fourth street northwest, to inform Sheedy's wife that her position as manager of the apartment house where they lived would be abolished. The complaint then recited that Hallidge was met by Sheedy, his father-in-law, stepson, and another man, and that he was severely beaten.

Some one jumped on his stomach, he said, and several ribs were broken. He managed to free himself and in a taxicab went to his home, where he collapsed. Later on he was taken to Garfield Hospital. The hearing on the charges will be scheduled for later in the week.

RAIL STOCKS SLUMP ON RATES DECISION

Other Issues Fail to Join Heavy Losses; Turnover 2,248,640 Shares.

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Although the action of railroad securities today could only be construed as an expression of disappointment over the freight-rate decision, other sections of the financial market appeared more confident.

All stocks were off in the early dealings when rail shares tumbled 2 to 8 points, but utilities rallied vigorously in the afternoon and industrials reduced or eliminated their losses. Except for the rails, which closed some 2 to 5 off, final prices represented largely fractional changes in leading issues. The turnover was 2,248,640 shares.

The market was in no hurry about selling the railroad stocks, for the early dealings in them were slow, although prices weakened decisively. Some issues failed to trade until the session was nearly half an hour old and then the blocks were of moderate size. Wall street, acting on a wrong steer, had bought the carriers yesterday. Declines elsewhere fitted into a 1 to 3 point range.

Stronger Roads Lose.

Equities of the stronger roads, which would be asked to pool the income from higher freight rates for the benefit of the weaker, showed the widest losses. Union Pacific and New York Central were down more than 4 net, Atchison 5¼, Norfolk & Western, Baltimore & Ohio, and Pennsylvania, 3 or more, and Delaware & Hudson 6½. In many instances final prices were a point or so above the bottom.

The net advance in utilities was fractional on the average, while industrials finished irregularly lower. International Telephone and American & Foreign Power stood out as strong spots; Consolidated Gas, American Telephone and North American were others, although they did not hold up so well. U. S. Steel, off 3 points at the worst, cut its loss to 1¾. Bethlehem and American Can finished a point lower. General Motors, Westinghouse, Chrysler, Case, Radio, Anaconda, and Kennecott were down slightly. Montgomery Ward, Sears Roebuck, National Biscuit, Allied Chemical, and Auburn firmed.

Considerable divergence of opinion was expressed in financial circles on the rate matter. The point was stressed that although the commission had not granted the increase requested, it had, nevertheless, recognized an unfavorable situation and had offered help. The chief question at issue, it appeared, was to be the pooling question, and on that matter Wall Street was inclined to withhold judgment until the road executives had expressed themselves. If the commission's proposals are turned down, much more will doubtless be heard concerning wage cuts.

Statistics Aid Is Slight.

Weekly trade statistics offered little that was new. Iron Age thought the higher freight rates proposed would, if accepted, stimulate business to some extent. Currently, the steel industry gives evidence of scattered gains which, however, are insufficient to offset the light demand in other directions, so that this week's production ratio is off a point to 28 per cent. Electric power production is running along at about the same percentage of decline from a year ago.

Further withdrawals of gold for export, together with an $8,500,000 increase in earmarkings, brought out some gossip about the rediscount rate and whether it was soon to be raised. However, the dollar strengthened against the franc and with money rates holding firm here there was no inclination to predict another boost at this time.

The rise in wheat was resumed, with net gains of ½ to ⅞ of a cent, based on a good export demand, supposedly from Great Britain. Corn closed unchanged to ¾ cent higher on the strength of a Government weather report and unfavorable rains in the Southwest. Light offerings and trade inquiry strengthened cotton, which was up 75 to 90 cents a bale net.

Sterling rallied, holding half a cent of an extreme advance of 1½ cents. The final rate for cables was $3.95¾. Canadian dollars firmed. Except for a sag in the French franc there were few other changes in foreign currencies.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Broadening of North American wheat export demand, together with rallying power shown by the stock market, led to lively late upturns in grain values today. It was estimated that 1,000,000 bushels of United States hard winter wheat had been purchased today for overseas. A shortage of 100,000,000 bushels in 1931 northern Hemisphere wheat production as compared with 1930, exclusive of Russia and China, was indicated by official reports, the Russian crop also smaller despite increased acreage.

Wheat closed unsettled, ½ to ¾ cent up, corn unchanged to ¾ higher, oats unchanged to ¼ advance, and provisions varying from 5 cents setback to a rise of 12 cents.

Wheat developed notable activity and strength in the final hour, contrasting with earlier downturns that were associated with temporary weakness of securities and with moisture relief in dry areas of domestic winter crop territory Southwest. It was deemed significant also that resistance to effects of transient bearish action of stocks was shown at the outset by the wheat market here. This resistance appeared to be based on the circumstance that Liverpool wheat quotations were higher than expected, and on reports that Great Britain was continuing to accumulate wheat and corn in preparation for a protective tariff.

In the last 30 minutes of trading, wheat mounted to the highest point yet on the present movement of prices, 1¼ cents above today's early low, and 6¼ cents over any recent bottom level. Commission house were the principal buyers of future deliveries, and found offerings relatively scarce on the way up. The market closed at almost the day's top figures, notwithstanding bearish advices that Russia had entered the wheat market in China with six ship loads which had been diverted of ex-orbitant lower than grain from Australia, Canada or the United States.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat. New corn is beginning to reach the market, and an early movement is looked for.

RAIL BONDS DECLINE TO APE SHARE DROPS

Some Issues Close Higher, Despite News on Rates; Treasuries Gain.

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The bond market today staged a somewhat uncertain performance with the rails more than holding their own, notwithstanding expressions of dissatisfaction which followed the decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission on increased freight rates.

Bonds of some of the carriers, even, went against the pessimistic conclusions of stockholders and closed fractionally to three points higher. Foreign issues, especially those of Germany, displayed decided buoyancy, most of the issues being from 3 to 8 points on the uprise.

United States Government bonds, leaders in yesterday's activity, relapsed into irregularity with the Liberties showing minus signs of around half a point, while the Treasuries seemed to be somewhat in favor, closing with fractional gains.

That the bond buyers and holders were not inclined to be too downhearted is shown by the average prices, 20 industrials closing unchanged, 20 railways up three-tenths of a point, 20 utilities up three-tenths and the total average up two-tenths. The total bond sales of only $13,049,000 apparently indicated investors temporarily were sitting on the fence.

Interest in German bonds attracted some attention. There was a heavy turnover in the 5½s, which showed a net gain of two points. Japanese government issues continued their climb of yesterday, although in a more moderate manner. The 6½s and the 5½s both advanced 1¼ points on fairly good trading.

The rather lacadaisical action of the rail bonds was attributed to the fact that most of the dealers were undecided as to just how the Interstate Commerce Commission decision would affect these securities. There was a noticeable divergence of opinion which was believed to have accounted for the lack of uniformity in trading.

The narrowness of the rail market was shown by the fact that Atchison general 4s were slightly up most of the day and closed down only half a point.

4 MAJOR INTERSECTIONAL FRAYS LISTED SATURDAY

Harvard Host To Texas U. Eleven

Pitt Invades Notre Dame; Wisconsin at Penn.

Carnegie Tech Plays Purdue; Elis Prime for Army Game.

By L. S. CAMERON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Intersectional football competition will reach one of its high spots Saturday with four fine features of this kind enlivening a long roster of important games.

Harvard vs. Texas University is featured. Crowding that game for high ranking are Notre Dame-Pitt, Penn-Wisconsin and Carnegie Tech-Purdue.

From the spectator's viewpoint, the Texas-Harvard contest could easily be one of the best of the entire year. Part of the interest is based on Harvard's noble showing in defeating an overrated Army eleven. Texas also has a real team and will be seconded at the game by a group of supporters who will be wearing unusually large hats and cheering oddly the while.

Harvard happens to boast one of the best players of the season, Barry Wood, and any Harvard game from here out is going to attract plenty of notice.

Pitt Will Test Notre Dame.

A Pittsburgh team which has been able to win with ease over everything it has met thus far, but which has met no serious opposition, will be in South Bend meeting the latest of the Notre Dame wonder teams.

Wisconsin, undefeated and boasting a surprising victory over Purdue, is coming to Philadelphia to play Pennsylvania. Penn also has a perfect record, but made it against weaker foes.

Purdue will attempt to regain some lost prestige by playing Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. Tech came back after losing to W. and J. through a well-earned victory over Georgia Tech.

Among the other intersectionals of the day are the following:

Michigan State vs. Georgetown, at East Lansing, Mich.

Fordham vs. Drake, at New York.

Boston College vs. Marquette, at Boston.

Center vs. Washington University, at St. Louis.

Army Drills Defense For Yale Game.

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Defensive work featured Army's work for the Yale game today. Although puzzled for awhile, the Cadet regulars, toward the end of the workout, managed to solve the Yale plays as executed by the scrubs. Army will take a light workout tomorrow, at the conclusion of which the squad will leave for New Haven.

Rutgers Preparing For Holy Cross.

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 21 (U. P.).—The Rutgers Varsity went through a practice game against the Freshmen today in its first workout this week in preparation for the Holy Cross game Saturday. Nick Prisco, Varsity half back, grabbed the opening kickoff and ran 80 yards for a touchdown.

Pepper in Back Field For Fordham.

New York, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—As a reward for his splendid work against Holy Cross last week, Jerry Pepper, Sophomore half back, will be in the starting line-up for Fordham against Drake Saturday. Pepper's promotion was decided on after he performed so well in a long scrimmage with the scrubs today.

Yale Holds Secret Session.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 21 (U.P.). Better execution of plays on the offense and work on defense against Army plays, marked the practice of the Yale football team today. It was a secret practice, opened by nearly an hour's work in fundamentals and a dummy scrimmage in which the first squad ran through signals against a gray line. A practice in punting was done by Parker, Lassiter, Sullivan, Crowley, Taylor and other backs. Yale is well fortified in this department this season and should hold her own in the kicking duel with Army's booters.

Little Drills Columbia In Defensive Play.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Lou Little gave his Columbia varsity squad a long drill in defensive tactics against the freshman team using Williams' plays at Baker Field today. With Hewitt and Montgomery throwing passes to all receivers, the aerial game was stressed more than any other offensive weapon and was successful against the cubs.

Harvard's Line Renovated.

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Head Coach Eddie Casey worked diligently today to present a renovated Harvard line against Texas Saturday. The Crimson line, weakened by injuries, is causing Casey grave concern. It is hoped that Roger Hallowell will be able to return to his center position this week.

Cannell Encouraged At Dartmouth.

Hanover, N. H., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Head Coach Jackson Cannell, of Dartmouth, who has been registering pessimism about the work of his football charges, today appeared satisfied with the team's execution of plays for the first time this season.

GORILLA K.O.'S ROBERTS.

CHARITY GRID GAMES ARE PLANNED

G.W., G.U. and C.U. to Play; Wrestling Show Assured.

THE world of local sports continued to rally to the cause of charity yesterday when it was definitely established that Georgetown, George Washington and Catholic University would play in post-season grid games, and that a wrestling show would be staged in the Washington Auditorium, all in the name of the District of Columbia committee on unemployment.

Stepping in line behind Georgetown and Catholic University, George Washington University yesterday assured George J. Adams, chairman of the committee, that it was anxious to do its bit toward furthering the work of the unemployment committee in the field of job-finding and food conservation. The Colonials, like Georgetown and Catholic University, doubtless will engage a worthy out-of-town team.

The definite entrance of George Washington into the field of charity playing teams makes a new date for postseason tussles necessary. Georgetown has a lien on Griffith Stadium for December 12, and Catholic University has proffered its stadium for December 5, on which date the crack Cardinals are slated to appear, in the preliminary plans of the committee in charge.

Adams' group is now working on a date for George Washington's game, since both December 5 and 12 have been tacitly given to Catholic U. and Georgetown. The Pixlee-coached machine, which last week drew a multitude of 15,000 in its game with Tulsa, is in communication with several large colleges with a view to signing a noteworthy opponent.

Joe Turner, local wrestling impresario, when asked to aid the cause yesterday, immediately arranged for an all-star charity mat program, to be held next Thursday night at the auditorium. Turner has been guaranteed $3,500 expense money to procure the finest card he can assemble and provide the auditorium and the manifold incidentals for the night.

This is $1,500 less than Turner was given last spring, when he staged a charity wrestling bill at the ball park, which netted the local committee a fund of $6,000, making it possible for the organization to continue its work during the summer months.

If the auditorium is filled, and there is little doubt of that in as live a wrestling city as Washington, the committee will net around $4,000 for its coffers.

Tech-Central Proceeds May Go to Charity

Insistent reports that Tech and Central would meet in a charity game for the needy of the District quickened yesterday when Frank Daniel and Harvey A. Smith, principals of the schools concerned, informed The Post that they would countenance such a game if it met with the approval of the Board of High School Principals.

The Tech-Central series game is scheduled for October 30.

Coaches "Hap" Hardell, of Tech, and Bert Coggins, of Central, are willing to play for charity, but final consent must be issued from the board room of the principals.

Tech and Eastern, upon the recommendation of Charles Hart, principal of the latter school, met for charity last year in a game which netted $1,500 for the Central Union Mission and the Salvation Army.

Tilden Defeats French Pro in Straight Set

Paris, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Big Bill Tilden, world's professional tennis champion, easily defeated Martin Plaa, French professional, in an exhibition match today. Tilden won in straight sets, 6—1, 6—4, 6—3.

Frank Hunter, formerly United States No. 2 ranking amateur player, lost to Karl Kozeluh in two straight sets, the Czechoslovakian winning 6—2, 7—5.

In a doubles match, Tilden and Hunter defeated Kozeluh and Albert Burke, 6—3, 6—4.

FROSH SCORE ON RAMBLER VARSITY

Notre Dame Worked Until Dark, After Touchdown.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—A freshman team using Pittsburgh formations scored with a long forward pass on Notre Dame's varsity today, and Coach Hunk Anderson immediately started the hardest workout the Irish have had this season.

The freshmen threw more passes and the regulars ran themselves ragged knocking them down. The line also failed to operate to Anderson's satisfaction and he kept the forwards at work until dark.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—The University of Pittsburgh's first three football teams leave tomorrow night for South Bend, Ind., where Notre Dame will be encountered on Saturday. The squad, which is in good shape for the annual fray with the Irish, will practice in the Notre Dame Stadium on Friday.

Evanston, Ill.—Al Moore, substitute half back for Northwestern for the past two seasons, probably will be at full back when the Wildcats meet Ohio State at Columbus, Ohio, Saturday. Ollie Olson, regular full back, and the best kicker on the squad, has not recovered from a leg infection and will not be able to play more than a part of the contest. Ken Meenan, sophomore half back, is expected to be in shape to start. Coach Dick Hanley today concentrated on his reserve linemen, in anticipation of needing plenty of replacements Saturday.

Champaign, Ill.—Coach Bob Zuppke today finished the strenuous part of preparing Illinois for Michigan Saturday, without being certain of who would start. Art Schultz, veteran full back, will not play again this season because of injuries, and Snavely is not expected to be available. Glick, a sophomore line regular, also will not be in action again, because of a chipped shoulder blade. Murray and Schalk, sophomores, will alternate at full back against the Wolverines.

Madison, Wis.—In the first hard scrimmage of the week, Wisconsin's football squad today polished off its offense and took a lengthy drill in preparation for running and passing attacks expected from Pennsylvania this week-end. Ken Kundert emerged as a potential back field ace as he made several spectacular plays against the Frosh. Coach Thistlethwaite said he would take 13 backs on the squad of 33 who will make the trip to Philadelphia. The Badgers will be given a light signal drill tomorrow before departure.

LUCAS GETS NOD.

Baltimore, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Johnny Lucas, 133½, of Camden, N. J., tonight received a judge's decision at the end of his ten-round feature bout here with Sid Lampe, 129½, formerly of Baltimore, but now from Paterson, N. J.

G. U. LEAVES TODAY FOR MICHIGAN

Mills Relies on Air Attack to Defeat Michigan State.

THE Georgetown University football squad concluded its prepping for the Michigan State game yesterday afternoon with a long and rough scrimmage against the second and third teams, equipped with Michigan plays. No appreciable improvement was seen in the Hoya squad, and Russ Danieu, whose play has been desultory all year because of an injured knee, finished his season for good when he twisted the ailing member once more.

The team will leave at 4:30 o'clock today without Danieu and Gellis, ace backs at the start of the season, arriving at East Lansing Friday morning. A limbering-up drill is carded for Friday afternoon, but it will not be strenuous enough to imperil any of the Georgetown regulars, since Coach Mills is frankly pessimistic over the reserve strength. Thirty-two will make the trip. They will return immediately after the game.

During the warming-up period for the Michigan fray, Mills has concentrated on running plays and forward-passing attack. King, Costello and Leoni have been passing well all week.

Mills sees no hope that any of his backs can puncture the Michigan line. He has supplanted Danieu with Carpenter, who shows promise and has weight to back it up, but the Hilltoppers recall that Army was able to score only two first downs against Michigan. And Georgetown, this year, is no Army.

On the eve of his departure with the team Mills had nothing to say about the decision of Maryland not to appear in a postseason charity game. He stated he had no feeling either way, but predicted that the game would have filled Griffith Stadium.

Woods Is Lost To Maryland Backfield

Regular Quarter Back, Hurt, Will Not Play Against V. M. I.

May Will See Action; Byrd to Continue Light Drills.

IT now is a certainty that Maryland's Football Team will go into the game with Virginia Military Institute in Richmond on Saturday minus the services of Al Woods, clever all-around half back, and Ted Keenan, sturdy tackle.

Charlie May will take Woods' place at quarter back while George Cole will be in Keenan's place at tackle. Both are former Washington high school boys, May from Business and Cole from Tech. May and Woods tote about the same poundage, but Cole, a 167-pounder, is 20 pounds lighter than Keenan.

Both Woods and Keenan may accompany the Maryland squad to Richmond. Keenan could play in a pinch, as he has a special headgear with a nose guard attached, but Woods hardly will be ready for duty no matter what situation may arise.

Krjcovic, Ailing, Will Play.

Jess Krajcovic, Maryland's great guard, also has been on the ailing list and out of practice for most of the week, but he will be ready to face the Cadets.

Having had much taken out of them in the strenuous Navy and Kentucky games, the Old Liners have been going light all week in practice and scrimmage has been taboo. In fact, Coach Curley Byrd's task has been to keep the boys on edge and to ward off the possibility of them going stale.

Contrary to a lot of impressions and statements to the contrary, Maryland is not a heavy team, but is rangy and well balanced. The actual scale weights show that with Carliss, the heaviest at 194, and May the lightest, at 160, the team will go into the contest with V. M. I. averaging slightly less than 176 pounds to the man.

Oregon Team Trains For 2 Eastern Games

Eugene, Oreg., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Bound eastward for two intersectional games on successive Saturdays, the Oregon footbal squad entrained today for Grand Forks, N. Dak., to meet the University of North Dakota eleven. From Grand Forks, the Webfoots will go to New York for a game with New York University, October 31.

Coach Spears will be without the services of Lawrence Winter, regular end, about whom he planned to build a new attack. Winter suffered a knee fracture in last week's game with Southern California.

Chisox Official Denies Relapse of Comiskey

Eagle River, Wis., Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Charles A. Comiskey, owner of the Chicago White Sox, who has been ill for several months, was reported improved today.

He has been under a physician's care for months. He keeps in close contact with the White Sox, and recently appointed Lewis Fonseca manager of the team to succeed Donie Bush, who resigned.

Chicago, Oct. 21 (U.P.).—Secretary Harry Grabiner of the White Sox today denied that Charles A. Comiskey had suffered a relapse as reported. Grabiner said he had been in communication with Comiskey at his Eagle River home and that the "Old Roman" felt better than in some weeks.

Michigan Coach Makes No Changes in Line-Up

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Indications are that Coach Harry Kipke intends to stand pat on his starting lineup when University of Michigan meets Illinois Saturday at Champaign. Hewitt was at full back today as the varsity took another look at Illinois plays as demonstrated by the frosh, but it is a Michigan tradition that the captain start each major game.

The backs, Newman, Jack Heston, Stan Fay and Hewitt, were unimpressive in blocking practice today and the frosh showed singular adeptness in pushing them on their faces.

TURFMAN DIES

JAMES ROWE, JR.

ROWE NAME IS LOST TO RACING

Passing of Greentree Trainer Last of Famous Group.

By ORLO ROBERTSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—James Rowe, who died suddenly in Baltimore today, had visions of being a great engineer. He became famous as the trainer of Twenty Grand, champion 3-year-old equine racing machine and leading money winner of the year.

The 42-year-old trainer of Mrs. Payne Whitney's Greentree Stable suffered an attack of acute indigestion Tuesday morning and apparently had recovered, but was stricken with a heart attack early today.

Rowe's death marks the passing of the last of a family of great horsemen. His father, a famous trainer, died more than two years ago and a brother, Belmont, died in 1926.

Although reared in the atmosphere of race horses, Rowe graduated from Fordham and Cornell Universities with intentions of becoming a mechanical engineer. He received his degree from Cornell about 20 years ago, but the call of the "blue bloods" was too great. The ink was hardly dry on his sheepskin when he was back in the stable helping to engineer track victories for the Whitneys.

Assistant Trainer For Whitney.

He became assistant trainer for the late Harry Payne Whitney in 1913. It was not until the death of James Rowe, sr., however, that the conditioner of Twenty Grand stepped into the turf's limelight. Taking over the Whitney runners, he won the $50,000 Hopeful with Boojum and then saddled Whichone for his victory in the world's richest race—the $130,000 Belmont Futurity of 1929.

A year ago Rowe signed to train the horses of the Greentree Stable, with a collection of stars under his handling. Twenty Grand won ten stakes, including the Kentuky Derby and the Saratoga Cup, in which he defeated the mighty Sun Beau, leading money winner of all time. Twenty Grand earned $218,545 during his campaign as a 3-year-old, and his total earnings were $259,925.

Kid Chocolate Winner Over Goldberg by K. O.

Jersey City, N. J., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Kid Chocolate, the dusky Cuban who holds the junior lightweight championship, had an easy time tonight scoring a three-round technical knockout over Al ("Rube") Goldberg, New York veteran, in their ten-rounder at the Hollywood Arena.

The Cuban sparred through the first two rounds, then opened up in the third and knocked his opponent down four times before Referee Jack Masterly stopped the slaughter two seconds before the end of the round. Chocolate weighed 131 pounds; Goldberg, 136.

Don George Wins Bout As Edison Is Honored

New York, Oct. 21 (A.P.).—In a wrestling match which was interrupted by a minute's silence at 10 o'clock in honor of Thomas A. Edison, Ed (Don) George, heavyweight grappler from North Java, N. Y., threw Dr. Fred Meyers, of Chicago, at St. Nicholas Arena tonight. George used an airplane spin and body slam to end the "finish" match in 37 minutes 31 seconds. George weighed 220 pounds, Meyers 211.

Other results: Jack Sherry, 208, Omaha, and Charles Strack, 221, Oklahoma, drew in a 30-minute time limit bout, and Harry Cornsweet, 202, Ohio, threw Jack Reynolds, 200, St. Louis in 12 minutes 20 seconds.

Williams, Track Star, In Serious Condition

Hollywood, Calif., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Suffering from peritonitis which followed the rupture of his appendix, Victor Williams, one of the United States outstanding candidates for the 1932 Olympic games, was in a serious condition here today. He passed "a fairly comfortable night," the hospital reported.

Williams, a student at the University of Southern California won the I. C. A. A. A. A. championship in Philadelphia last May in 47.4 seconds for the quarter-mile event, equaling Ted Meredith's world record established sixteen years ago. Later he won the national intercollegiate meet at Chicago and then successfully defended his A. A. U. title at Lincoln, Nebr., last July.

Williams recently returned from South Africa where he toured with a party of American athletes.

19-Hole Clash Won by Mrs. Meckley

Medalist to Oppose Mrs. Haynes in Mid-Atlantic.

Mrs. Nicholson and Mrs. Morrow in Other Battle.

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

A BATTLE of champions against champions will feature the semifinal round of the women's Middle Atlantic Golf Association tournament to be played this morning on the course of the Indian Spring Club. The second round of match play yesterday brought into the competition four women players who have titles enough to string in headlike fashion around their respective necks.

In the upper bracket, Mrs. Betty P. Meckley, Indian Spring, who has won the District amateur women's championship for two years in succession, will play against Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Columbia, who is a former District amateur champion, and who recently won the Columbia Club women's championship for the third time. In the District women's amateur championship played on the course of the Chevy Chase Club last spring Mrs. Haynes was runner-up to Mrs. Meckley, but in the play-off for the medal, both having tied at 88, Mrs. Haynes won in 89 to Mrs. Meckley's 93. Today's contest between the two players will be real golf.

Mrs. Nicholson Survives.

In the lower half of the semifinal bracket an equally interesting situation is presented. Mrs. Dorothy White Nicolson, Washington, who has been many times champion of the District, is paired against Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, Elkridge, who has twice won the Middle Atlantic championship and who was runner-up last year. In other words, this semifinal round seems to be a survival of the fittest and if it should happen that Mrs Morrow is defeated, the championship title will come to the District section.

Another feature of the second round of match-play yesterday was the fact that at least two of the defeated contestants were actually reveling in joy. Mrs. J. O. Rhyne of the Congressional Club, who was defeated by Mrs. Meckley on the nineteenth hole, entered upon her match with the firm conviction that she would not last beyond the tenth or the eleventh hole. At the eighth tee, however, she was 3 up, and was still 1 up when the playing of the second nine began. Mrs. Meckley won the next two holes in succession to square the match and was 1 up at the twelfth.

Match Halved On 18th.

Mrs. Meckley was still 1 up on the eighteenth tee but Mrs. Rhyne ran down a long putt to halve the match on the eighteenth green and only lost on the nineteenth when she took four putts, although three putts would have given her a half. It must be admitted, however, that the strain of carrying the District champion to the nineteenth green is something in any woman golfer's experience to make putting a difficult task.

Miss Susan Hacker, of the Chevy Chase Club, was also happy when she carried Mrs. Nicolson, many times champion, to the seventeenth green. She was 1 down on the seventeenth tee and lost the decisive hole when she missed her tee shot. However, her medal score of 89 was only 2 strokes higher than the card of her opponent.

There were an unusual number of extended matches. Mrs. Morrow and Mrs. W. B. Hurst, Elkridge, were all even at the turn and Mrs. Morrow, after losing the sixteenth and the seventeenth, ran down a 25-foot putt on the final green to keep the match alive. She won on the nineteenth hole when Mrs. Hurst, after a drive

McGrew and Peter In Liberty Cup Final

The final round in the Liberty Cup competition at the Chevy Chase Club will be played today between D. D. (Dangerous Dan) McGrew and Walter G. Peter. In the semifinal round, played yesterday, McGrew defeated D. B. Drake by the score of 7 and 6.

Nine Florida Tracks Prepare for Season

Miami, Fla., Oct. 21 (A.P.).—Proprietors of nine Florida race tracks spurred construction and improvement work at their plants today following yesterday's county referendum elections, in which the tracks were authorized to operate under Florida's 1931 law legalizing racing and parimutuels wagering systems.

Six of the tracks are in Dade County and in the Miami area. Of these the Hialeah horse track, operated by Joseph E. Widener, has been in existence for several years. Another horse track proposed by Frank J. Bruen, former managing director of the Hialeah track, will be built in Coral Gables for a 1931-32 meeting.

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

The repercussions of the Maryland-Georgetown incident are interesting. Maryland's refusal to meet the Hilltoppers in a game for the relief of the District unemployed has inspired several communications to this column.

Mr. Charles C. Christopher, of Kensington, Md., who states that he is not a Georgetown alumnus —in fact, he has a vote in the State of Maryland—and has personally written Senator Tydings just what he thinks of Maryland's refusal to play, ascends the rostrum:

"Mr. Shirley L. Povich,
"Sports Editor,
"The Washington Post.
"Dear Mr. Povich:

"This is in reference to the articles you have had in your column in The Post the past few mornings about the charity game that the University of Maryland has refused to play with Georgetown University. Your straight-from-the-shoulder remarks concerning the reason H. C. Byrd and his outfit have refused this golden opportunity to perform a magnificent and practical gesture to starving humanity, hit the nail on the head, except that we do not agree with any theory which says that Maryland has anything to lose by playing Georgetown; in fact, Maryland has everything to gain by so doing, as the Hilltoppers are the big-shot nationally while the Old Liners' reputation does not extend very far outside of this locality.

"Briefly, Mr. Povich, what we mean is this: Maryland, because of being a member of the Southern Conference (which to all intents and purposes is just about dead from internal dissensions) can get the games, but it can not draw the crowds that these games warrant in Washington. Whether it is a lack of color, tradition or some other element that produces a "crowd pleaser' is not known but the fact is hat they lack power at the gate, a good example of which might be the comparatively poor crowds that formerly attended Maryland games with Yale at New Haven.

"Take last Saturday as another instance. Less than 7,000 paid the tariff out at College Park to see Maryland tangle with a sterling Southern eleven like Kentucky. We will lay you two to one that Georgetown playing Kentucky on the same day at Griffith Stadium would have drawn a mob of 20,000.

"Then take the financial flop the Navy-Maryland contest was, which game did not draw 15,000 paid admissions at the gate, and we will grant you that the high admission price had some bearing on the matter, but on the other hand can you not visualize Griffith Stadium groaning and besieged with a capacity crowd of 30,000 or 35,000 addicts of the fall frenzy if the Blue and Gray of old Georgetown had been the Navy opponent instead of the Terrapins? Thus the facts plainly show that Maryland could annually play such good Southern clubs as Vanderbilt, Kentucky or Georgia here and if a crowd of only 10,000 responded to any one of these contests such a crowd would be a high-water mark for Maryland as a drawing card at the gate.

"Five or six years or so ago, when the Maryland-Virginia series of games was inaugurated, there was much fanfare and ballyhoo to the effect that this was to be the choice tid-bit of local gridiron fare, the long-needed 'natural' that would break the District of Columbia's apathy toward Maryland football, and in other words, take up where those glorious battles of yore between Georgetown and Virginia left off. What has resulted in this annual meeting between the two State institutions? Only small crowds of 5,000 or 6,000 as an average have turned out for this so-called great 'natural.'

And when there is any competition such as when Georgetown was playing Western Maryland at Griffith Stadium several weeks ago on the Saturday that Virginia met the Old Liners this competition has kept the interest and crowds even smaller in the affair at College Park. The figures speak for themselves. Maryland on this date had about 4,000 or 5,000, excluding the student body, watching the contest with Virginia, while the Hoyas and Terrors drew 12,000 at Griffith Stadium.

"Another pertinent fact to be remembered, Mr. Povich, is that G. U. was a university with many years of traditions and prestige behind her when Maryland was nothing but a small agricultural school with a football schedule which contained the high schools on it and one does not have to go back so many years, either, to unearth these facts.

"To sum it all up, I wish to state that I am not a Georgetown alumnus, in fact I have a vote in the State of Maryland and, incidentally, have personally written Senator Tydings of that grand State, just what I think about our university sidestepping this opportunity to do a great humanitarian deed because of the fear of getting beaten in a football game.

"Personally I think if Maryland ever had a chance to whip the Blue and Gray this is the year. The Maryland alumni by a large majority would favor this charity of the President's commission on unemployment. In fact most of them favor annual relationship in sports with the Hilltop. And of course the student bodies of both institutions would favor the game and always have taken that attitude. Maybe one of these days those in the saddle at Maryland will see daylight and Washington will have its natural gridiron spectacle which would rival any in the land for interest and color.

"Meanwhile many of us think that George Washington has a fine chance to collect the glory that Maryland passed up, by asking the President's commission to take them as the most suitable opponent for G. U in this game to gather food for the thousands of unemployed and starving. Maryland will probably donate part of the proceeds of its game with the terribly weak Washington and Lee team and few will attend. Sincerely yours,

CHARLES C. CHRISTOPHER.

Prosperity Now With Us, Not Around the Corner, Grid Trappings Indicate

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.
Special to The Washington Post.

NEW YORK, Oct. 21.—On the evidence observed in two Saturday afternoon football journeys, I am inclined to suspect that quite a number of our citizens have been doing some serious spending for new automobiles, new furs, new hats and coats of both genders, and even for liquor, also, presumably, fresh-new.

The Yale-Georgia game at New Haven was my first of the season, and the Yale-Georgia game was remembered of old as one of those early games which people turned to only for lack of something better to do. It is a dollar football game, and last year the Yale Athletic Association threw open the gates, or portals, as they call them, admitting free of charge all the New Haven townies under 12 years of age who wished to come. Several thousand responded, attracted principally, no doubt, by Albie Booth, himself a New Haven townie who went to Yale and made the team. But, even with the free list, the crowd did not appear to fill more than half the Bowl. This would have been, roughly, 40,000 head.

A week ago Saturday the volume and speed of the traffic on the Boston post road as early as 11 a. m. were equal to that of a turnout bound for a Yale-Harvard game, and by game time there were about 60,000 people inside. The attendance continued to swell during the first quarter. Possibly some of last year's patrons had figured there would be little traffic and a small crowd and therefore had started late. By the end of the first quarter the two ends of the Bowl were almost full, and the attendance finally was estimated at 80,000 long.

Being by nature not very optimistic, I had anticipated a crowd smaller than last year's and had expected to see most of those patrons clattering along in dingy repaints on tires bound with courtplaster and string. They would be a threadbare lot, the girls in vintage hats and the gents all more or less obviously darned and seedy, and their laughter would come

FORTUNATE YOUTH WINS LAUREL SPRINT IN FAST TIME

Choices Take First Five Events

Labrot Colt Outruns Sea Fox by Length in Feature.

Steeplechase Won by Redbridge; Pintail Scores in Sixth.

Special to The Washington Post.

Laurel, Md., Oct. 21.—Many happy ticket holders left Laurel today rewarded handsomely for backing Rundale, A. L. Aste's 3-year-old, who showed good heart in standing off Main Sheet in the stretch to pay $13.50 for $2 mutuels in the seventh race. Good prices prevailed through place and show, Main Sheet earning $10.10 and Colonel Crump $8.40 for third.

Rundale reserved off the pace and was taken out into the firmer part of the track when approaching the leaders. It assumed command in the final furlong and had to be whipped to outstay Main Sheet, which, slow to settle in her stride, circled her field to close with a rush. Col. Crump started well and dominated the earlier section of the trip. He had enough left to stand off the rest of the field.

Horses were running to form here today, and favorites won the first five races. The fifth race, the feature on the flat, was an easy victory for Fortunate Youth, and his winning marked the second of the day for S. W. Labrot, the Maryland breeder, and also a double for Mack Garner, rider of the two Labrot horses.

Fortunate Youth led all the way, after passing Sea Fox, and had a margin of one length. The Glen Riddle Farm's Sea Fox held on for place and Golden Prince was third.

Caruso was attempting a comeback, but could not make the grade, trailing the leaders. The race was a fast one, six furlongs in 1:11 3-5. The winner paid $5.70.

Conditions for racing continued perfect, and the attendance was large as usual.

John R. Macomber's Redbridge won the Meadows Steeplechase, after following the pace set by Tequila closely. Tequila held the place safely from Chenango, Thomas Hitchcock's entry, which challenged the leaders, but could never reach them. Redbridge, ridden by W. Hunt, paid $4.70.

Chenango ran disappointingly and jumped poorly. He was ridden by G. H. Bostwick, leading amateur jockey, and Rigan McKinney had the mount on Sea Story, the A. C. Bostwick entry. Five started, Gracie and Drapeau having been withdrawn late. Originally eleven were to start. Tequila was the surprise of the race, holding on in front to the twelfth fence.

Log Cabin Stable's Zosara won the fourth race by three lengths, continuing the parade of favorites here today. Hagerstown placed by a neck from Brandon Rose. W. Nertney, who is leading the jockeys at this meeting, had the mount, and as usual his ride was a competent one. Rocktor had the early foot, with Hagerstown next, but Zosara, off the early pace, glided past the field of 2-year-olds and ran the mile in 1:41 1-5. Little time was lost at the starting gate, and the juveniles got away in perfect alignment. The winner paid $6.30.

E. J. Booth's Stepping Sister, the favorite, did some fast stepping in the third race for 2-year-olds to win by a head in 1:41. Triple Threat was second and Beauty Bride third. Tough Girl and Beauty Bride led the field of twelve to the stretch, when Stepping Sister took the lead after a hard stretch run. The winner paid $3.80. J. Paradise fell off of Thunder Speed. The lad was taken to the track hospital. His skull cap prevented concussion of the brain, the physician said.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BOSCOBEL, $4.60, $2.70, $2.30; BIG AMERICA, $3.30, $2.70; DONNELLA, $3.30.

BOSCOBEL, placed into a forward position directly following the break, responded with good speed when straightened into the home stretch, wore the leaders down and was moving clear under urging. BIG AMERICA raced MOVE ALONG into submission, but could not resist the winner's effort in the final drive. DONELLA, outpaced for the first half mile, improved her position on the outside thereafter. JAFFA raced evenly throughout. MOVE ALONG weakened after a fast half mile. TULACH ARD lacked early speed. HAPPEN was never a factor.

SECOND RACE—About two miles. Purse, $2,000. The Meadows Steeplechase Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:15. Off at 2:18. Winner, J. R. Macomber's b. g. (6), by Wrack—Margaret L. Trained by W. Booch. Value to winner, $1,400, second, $400; third, $200. Time, 3:57 1-5 (14 jumps).

REDBRIDGE, reserved under strong restraint for a mile and one-half, fenced boldly when moving to the pacemaker, assumed command going to the thirteenth fence and drew out rapidly thereafter. TEQUILA took the lead under strong restraint after the fourth fence, was steadied in front while displaying good ability and continued courageously after being overtaken. CHENANGO handled his weight well. He blundered on landing at several of his fences, recovered quickly and finished with good courage. SEA STORY made several efforts while saving ground in the late stages, but was not good enough. MAYOR WALKER was outrun throughout.

STEPPING SISTER, rated along in a forward position, improved her position on the outside in the closing half mile, withstood a strong drive gamely and was up in the final strides. TRIPLE THREAT, well up from the start, and saving ground, took command and came to the fore a furlong from home and finished with good courage, BEAUTY BRIDE worked steadily during the final three furlongs. LOUIS MERRYMAN hung badly after making a strong effort midway of the last turn. TOUGH GIRL was unable to withstand late challenges. CHOSEN PAL went well. THUNDERSPEED lost her rider at the first turn.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 2-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:20. Off at 3:21. Winner, Log Cabin Stud's b. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZOSARA, $6.30, $4.10, $2.90; HAGERSTOWN, $4.90, $3.10; BRANDON ROSE, $2.70.

ZOSARA worked her way up on the inside to reach a forward position when settled on the back stretch, met with some interference, recovered gamely and, coming to the outside, came away under a drive. HAGERSTOWN, early leader, finally after eliminating HIGHEST POINT. Latter, forwardly placed, sprinted into a good lead rounding the far turn, but hung when challenged. BRANDON ROSE gained steadily on the outside and finished gamely. HIGHEST POINT met with repeated interference. ROCKTOR and VAGARIES were used up setting the pace. PLAYING was outrun. DONNA DEAN, MAGIC DREAMER and PLAYING were in a bad jam going to the first turn. GONFLYINON ran out the entire trip.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:55. Off at 3:56½. Winner, S. W. Latbrot's b. c. FORTUNATE YOUTH, forcing a stiff early pace, responded with excellent speed when shaken up approaching the home stretch, wore SEA FOX down and finished under strong pressure. SEA FOX displayed high early speed, saved ground and held on well when put to punishment. GOLDEN PRINCE, kept close up, saved ground entering the home stretch and closed fast. AVALON weakened after racing prominently for five furlongs. CARUSO could not menace the leaders. The others were outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Choptank. For all ages. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:31. Off at 4:40. Winner, C. V. Whitney's b. f. PINTAIL, slow to get going and badly outpaced for the first six furlongs, reached her field midway of the far turn, swung to the outside when closing fast and assumed command in the final sixteenth mile. MAD WIND, rated close up, saved ground in the early racing, responded to punishment, but could not stave off the winner after taking the lead. DAISABURO worked his way up steadily and outfinished DANCING MACK. Latter forced a good pace until reaching the home stretch, when he weakened. THE CRANE raced well. PLAYPOLE tired after six furlongs. WAR PLANE quit badly after getting to the pacemakers.

RUNDALE, reserved off the pace, was taken out into the firmer part of the track when approaching the leaders, assumed command in the final furlong and had to be hard ridden to outstay MAIN SHEET. Latter, slow to settle in her stride, circled her field to close with a rush. COLONEL CRUMP, a main factor the entire trip, held on well after racing OLD TIMES and CAPORAL II into defeat. DOUBLE O was in tight quarters during final furlong. WAYFARER finished gamely. GUN MAN weakened. OLD TIMES and CAPORAL II stopped.

—Laurel Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS.

LAUREL, MD., Oct. 21.—The Tuscarora Handicap for all-aged horses at 6 furlongs is Laurel's best race tomorrow, and brings out the speediest sprinters among older horses, but no juvenile has been entered for the dash. The Sagamore Stable holds the strong hand with BALKO and FOLLOW ON as its representatives. BALKO carries 126 pounds, which is light weight for this speed king, and while the horse has not been up to his standard of last year, recent racing and works have shown he was rounding into winning form. FOLLOW ON will play an important part as usual in this race, and the two will make it difficult for CON AMORE, the probable favorite, to withstand a double challenge. REPENTANCE has won two races for Mrs. Herbert Pulitzer here, and should be in the money. The Coe entry of Masked Ball and Black Majesty, first and second Tuesday, are the other starters.

STUART is selected in the first race for 2-year-olds. The race is for maiden colts and geldings, and on the record, STUART is entitled to the call. MOGUL has had little speed, but showed speed in his last effort. DUSTEMOFF, a Whitney castoff, has done more running and burned up more money than any maiden at the track. He has been in the money frequently but seems to lag just enough in the stretch to throw away victory. He should be third.

ROAN ANTELOPE has speed at times, and won sensationally last year, and there is just a chance that he is all primed for another victory in the second number here. This is the cheapest field he has ever run against, and is picked for a comeback. BUBOLA, twice a winner at this meeting, probably will be favorite, and should place. She knocked down a horse Tuesday and won, but is having too much racing.

SHAN TUNG is well placed in the third. He can beat better horses. BARITONE has had a conditioning race and will improve. He is rated the contender. ABETH has worked fast, and may be third. Two horses on the eligible list have a chance if they should get in—VIMONT and SKIRT.

The Lothair is a handicap for 2-year-olds. PAIR BY PAIR is the top weight and will start in the $10,000 Jennings next week. He should breeze in this race. FREDRICK looks like the contender. He has much early speed and is of stake quality.

SOLACE, the Seagram horse which had his first race at the meeting Tuesday, but which has won races in Maryland in previous years, is well placed in the Trappe Claiming Handicap of the sixth race. He will have QUARTERDECK to beat. The latter has won his two last races, and on last Saturday ran a fast mile and 70 yards, which race would have won the Laurel Handicap.

JOHN MACKLER will be a long price in the seventh race, but is selected to win. He ran a good third recently, and is the best of the field on workouts. PUTTER, a consistent mare, looks best of the others.

WESTERN TO TEST 1931 TECH ELEVEN IN SERIES TOMORROW

Hardell Plans Scrimmage For Today

Both Teams Have 1 Regular on List of Injured.

Ahern's Club Showed Power in Business Contest.

FOR the first time in recent years, Tech will scrimmage today on the eve of a high school series game, its first of the series. Western High's big team, which has produced the best football of the High School League to date, will be encountered by Hardell's defending champions tomorrow afternoon at Central Stadium.

Tech has a world of material this yaer, but has had difficulty molding into the coordination which has marked Tech teams of the past. The squad is in perfect condition, physically, excepting Wohlfarth, all-high end, who probably will not start tomorrow's game.

Tech's first team is made up of McKinney and Meikeljohn, ends; Howser and Bell, tackles; Gremlack and Rhodes, guards; Baxter, center; Edwards, quarter back; Sachs and Hatos, halfs, and Gormley, full back. They will encounter two teams today in an extensive drill, in an effort to gain unity of action, so necessary in Tech's complex form of attack.

Western Has Good, Big Team.

Western has a good outfit this year, bigger than any team in the league except Central, but has shown more skill than the Blue and White Team. Clayton Reynolds, whose line-battering tendencies were noticeable against Business, is ailing of a leg injury, but will get in the game. Jackie Lynham, Western's elusive half back, is in particularly good shape, as is the rest of the squad.

The Western High Stadium will be completed within ten days. The field is already half sodded and will be suitable to play on as soon as it has settled, probably in two weeks. Coach Dan Ahern stated last night that he was angling for a game for Thanksgiving to dedicate the new field.

Hap Hardell, coach at Tech, yesterday stated that a high school charity game doubtless would be played this year. If the high school authorities see fit to nominate Tech as one of the parties, Hardell would offer the team.

in brave, determined blurts, for they would be conscious of their fall from opulence and not really happy, but merely game.

It was astonishing, then, and one was bucked no end, to observe big new barouches as long as street cars tearing along with more bright work than an admiral's launch, on tires which whined as only new tires can, and full of people being very gay and luxurious as before. I do not mean to suggest that they were maintaining a constant cackle of airy laughter, as the football customers are very up to date and have read or heard most of the jokes and laugh only on due provocation. But they were quite as merry and bright and all that sort of thing as ever they were in 1928, when even newspaper office boys whom I knew of were spending too much of their time in the 'phone booths talking with their brokers instead of running copy to the desk.

Costumes New, Indeed, And Expensive.

No authority on style or the newness of furs, myself, I had no mean authority on such matters to inquire of, and she advised me most of these were indeed new hats and costumes and undoubtedly expensive, and assured me that many of the furs were recent and expensive, too. In regard to the automobiles I needed less assistance. I know which cars cost $535, $1,165, $1,475, $2,250 and $3,680, f. o. b., extras extra, and I will report that there were as many of the thirty-six-eighties as ever before, with customary extras, many of them with hired skippers and some with crews of two.

They wheeled into the parking lots, gradually spreading over the acreage in prosperous array, their nickel gleaming like all the silver cornet bands in the U. S. A., and the Yale boys working on the parking detail were constantly yelling back and forth, "Oh, Eddie; have you got change for a big, brutal bill?"

The traffic to West Point, where Barry Wood, of Harvard, played his amazing game to beat the Army, was not as heavy as the Yale-Georgia traffic, of course. Michie Stadium holds only 27,000; it is a long climb afoot from the automobile limit, and the people are not accustomed to the Military Academy, which the majority of civilians regard as closed premises, where one is likely to be pricked with a bayonet for stepping on a colonel's private onion bed. Still, they filled Michie Stadium, and the general appearance of the crowd and the cars they came in was the same wealthy, unworried appearance worn by the crowd at Yale. But, of course, they were not the same crowd. They were Harvard's and the Army's New York following.

Cost Is $10 a Head, Besides Tickets.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, who has tried to survey the length, depth and general bulk of the sport industry, has pointed out that the price of admission to the Saturday games in the autumn is only an index to the total expenditure for football by the patrons. They buy chrysanthemums, pennants, feathers and gasoline or railroad tickets; they lunch and they dine on the way, they pay parking fees and bridge and ferry tolls and, to some extent which science has no way to determine exactly, the girls insist upon and get a gradual but constant supply of replacements in the matter of things that are fit to wear, possibly the most important item of all.

I believe the doctor, by his patient inquiries, has decided the average cost of going to a football game, counting the hotel bills which many patrons incur comes to at least $10 a head beyond the cost of the tickets. It may cost less to tool over from St. Swithins to Siwash A. and M. in adjoining townships, but it will cost much more to tool from New York up to Harvard, including stopover, stimulants and necessary sedatives, for a Yale game or down from Harvard to New Haven.

Up to now I see no diminution, but on the contrary, a great increase in the traffic and, judging by the obvious expenditure on things fit to wear and ride in and things fit to eat and drink, my message to America would be that it is all right now to come out of the storm cellar.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

CHARLES LINDBERGH'S first award for his New York-to-Paris nonstop flight was the Orteig prize of $25,000. Since then Lindy has received medals and awards from all sides, until now he has more to his credit than any other private citizen in all history. Among the medals he has received are the Congressional Medal of Honor, Distinguished Flying Cross, Woodrow Wilson Medal, Langley Medal from the Smithsonian Institution, and the Hubbard Medal from the National Geographic Society. He has been presented with more than 20 specially made watches.

A bone can be easily bent into any shape after soaking it for two or three days in a weak acid. Bones are composed of about two-thirds mineral matter, chiefly calcium phosphate, and one-third animal matter, mostly a form of gelatin. Soaking a bone in acid dissolves the mineral matter, and the remaining animal matter can be bent into any shape.

DUSEK FACES GARDINI ON MAT

Rough Tactics Motif on Auditorium Bill Tonight.

RUDY DUSEK, who made Washington what it is today as a wrestling center, returns to the scene of his old crimes tonight when he, toughest of all the rassle hombres, takes on Renato Gardini in the feature bout on a card of five matches at the Washington Auditorium. The first affair starts at 8:30 o'clock. Ladies will be admitted free, if accompanied by escorts.

The nearest approach to Dusek as a bruiser is also on the card, Dick Daviscourt, the Californian, who depends largely on his thor hammer, a blow with the side of the arm, to level his opponents. Daviscourt is down on the book to meet George Hill.

Two of the strongest boys in the business, Tiny Roebuck, the former All-American tackle, and Matros Kirilenko, a leonine Russian, mix matters in one of the preliminaries. It will be Kirilenko's first appearance here since early last winter, when in a match with Dick Shikat, he dived through the ropes in an attempted flying tackle and fell into the concrete orchestra pit, rendering him hors de combat.

Another Giant For Pojello.

Carl Pojello, best of the 190-pound wrestlers, takes on another big boy in Benny Ginsberg, the Swedish toe dancer. Pojello is as fast as Londos and a hoary veteran at the game of gristle grinding. He has not been defeated in a year, but has not met Londos. The other bout brings together Paul Jones, the leg scissors expert, and Pat O'Shocker, one of the few Irishmen in the race for rassle rewards.

Gardini, Dusek's opponent, is typical of the flotsam and jetsam of this strange craft. Full of wheezes, gnarled and bellicose, Gardini is wont to deliver orations over the prostrate forms of his victims. He doubtless will have to stay his speech tonight, for Dusek should knock him loose from his moorings in less than union time.

150-Pound Clubs in Feature Capital City League Game

Centennials and Northern Preps Clash; Promising Football Battles in All Three Divisions.

A PROGRAM of eleven games, featuring the Centennial Northern Preps' clash in the 150-pound division, will be offered sandlot football fans by the Post's Capital City League Sunday. While the Centennial-Northern game heads the bill, it is by no means the only good game on the schedule, as the leaders in the unlimited and 135 pound divisions will be fighting for the leadership of their respective sections.

In the latter group the Apache Preps will defend their one-point lead against the assaults of the fighting Northeast Trojans, who only last week piled up a 46-0 score, the largest recorded in league play to date. St. Stephen's tackles the Northeast Motors team with a chance to tie with the Trojans for the leadership should the latter trip the Apaches.

In the unlimited division, the Dixie Pigs play host to St. Stephens while the Marions, who are tied with the Dixies for the lead, engage the Griffith-Blue Coals. It is plainly evident that the Pigs have the worst of the bargain, for the "Saints" turned in a victory over the Seamen Gunners and then bowed to the Marions. The Griffs have been beaten in their two league starts, losing to the Fraters and Seamen Gunners.

The complete schedule follows:

Unlimited division—Seaman Gunners vs. Brookland A. C., Gonzaga field, 1 p. m.; Mercury vs. Del Ray, Gonzaga field, 3 p. m.; Dixie Pigs vs. St. Stephen's, Seat Pleasant, 3 p. m.; Marions vs. Griff-Blue Coals, Silver Spring, 3 p. m.

150-pound division—Columbia vs. Brookland, Brookland, 3 p. m.; Stantons vs. Meridians, West Potomac No. 1, 3 p. m.; Petworth vs. Brentwood, Mount Rainier, 3 p. m.; Northern Preps vs. Centennials, Silver Spring, 3 p. m.

135-pound division—Northeast Motors vs. St. Stephen's Preps, Seat Pleasant, 1 p. m.; Notre Dame Preps vs. Federals, West Potomac No. 3, 3 p. m.; Apache Preps vs. Trojans, West Potomac No. 3, 1 p. m.

C. U. GRIDMEN DRILL UNDER LIGHTS

Squad Leaves Today for Night Game With N. C. State.

FOLLOWING a session under the arc lights at Griffith Stadium last night Catholic University's football team this morning was to entrain for Raleigh, N. C., at 9:05 o'clock.

Tomorrow night under the floodlights in the North Carolina city "Clipper" Smith's husky Wolfpack is to be met. Prior to the game itself a final night practice will be staged in Raleigh Stadium tonight.

Last night's workout found fundamentals and special formations stressed. General satisfaction at the form shown by athletes in a night setting was expressed by Bergman and his staff.

White Will Replace Ambrose at Center.

Due to a jammed left shoulder suffered by "Whitey" Ambrose in the Gallaudet game two weeks ago, a last-minute shift in the starting lineup has been effected. Edgar White, enterprising sophomore center, is to be substituted.

Carolina State, as a unit, will decisively outweigh C. U. This advantage will be particularly noticeable in the back field where the Wolfpack, averaging 185 pounds, will boast over a 20-pound edge.

That punting may prove the undoing of the Cardinals was a warning yesterday voiced by George Vik, Catholic end coach who recently scouted the Wolfpack. In "Dink" Dellinger and Sam Curneau, he claims, State possesses two of the best kickers in that vicinity.

G. W. ELEVEN JUGGLED BY PIXLEE

A REVAMPED varsity team will take the field tomorrow night when the George Washington Colonials meet their freshman team at Griffith Stadium. There will be changes in both the line and back field of the varsity.

Dissatisfied with the way his men played against Tulsa, Coach Pixlee told his varsity candidates that those who showed the best spirit, most hustle and fight would find themselves on the first string. As a consequence several players have come forward with convincing demonstrations and are to get the call against the Baby Colonials.

Kermit Stewart, heretofore a back field substitute, has so impressed the coaches with his spirit that he is being tried at running guard. Though the position is new to him, he is filling the assignments well and it would be no surprise if he earned the job regularly.

Two other guards heretofore also regarded as replacements are waging a hard scrap for the other guard post. The pair are John Lannan and Boyd Hickman, both of whom have plenty of hustle and scrap.

The balance of the forward wall likely will remain intact with Blackistone at center, Mulvey and Chambers, ends, and Slaird and Nielsen, tackles.

In the back field, John "Tilly" Matia, pint-size player, appears to have earned a regular position as quarter back. His play in the Tulsa game was impressive. Roy Hoffman is another chap who is likely to get a chance. He has lots of drive and is being tried out at half back. Johnny Fenlon also likely will be tried at half back, while Finis Parrish is pretty sure to remain at full back.

Apaches Drill Tonight Under Stadium Lights

The Apaches, who are preparing a few surprises for the Mohawks a week from Sunday, will practice again tonight at Griffith Stadium under the lights, starting at 7:30 o'clock. Manager Hall has signed several new players.

Don McCann Is Signed By Northern Celtics

Don McCann, one of the key players in the Apaches' back field last season, has been signed by the Northern Celtics, Manager Buck Grier announced last night. The Celts are scheduled to drill tonight at Seventeenth and B streets northwest.

Mathews Loft Winner In 250-Mile Race

The eighth and last young bird race of the National Capitol Concourse Association was flown from Pulaski, Va., a distance of 250 miles, and was won by a bird from the Mathews Loft. The E. C. Raulin Loft won the percentage diploma with 89 per cent returns the same day.

H. C. Hile was awarded the best eight races, his birds having average average speed diploma over the entire 1,299.10 per minute. D. R. Mathews was second, with 1,297.96 and W. E. Ferguson, third, with 1,291.42.

Following is the speed in yards per minute of the race:

ARMY-NAVY CLUB OPENS COURTS

50 Players Take Part in Dedication of New Surfaces.

TENNIS in adjacent Washington took a notable step forward yesterday when the Army and Navy Country Club opened its three new championship courts before a large gathering of net fans. More than 50 players helped to initiate the new courts, including Commander C. C. Gill, Lieut. Gerald Smith and Majs. Newgarden and Dorst, four of the best players in the service.

The three new courts, made of a green composition which dries off in a half hour after a heavy downpour, are the first of a chain of fourteen courts the club is about to build. Work will start immediately on a large tennis house, made up of reception rooms, locker and shower quarters and a tennis shop.

Tourneys Planned For 1932.

Situated as it is this side of Alexandria, and but 15 minutes from the center of things of Washington, the club next year is expected to take rank as a tennis center with the older institutions of the sort on Connecticut avenue extended. On the 1932 program at the Army-Navy Club is a club championship, exhibition matches, formation of a combined Army and Navy Team, a possible tournament and the annual Leech Cup matches. The club will become a member of the U. S. L. T. A.

The new quick-drying courts give an exceptionally true bound. The balls do not wear out as quickly as on clay, and remain white instead of absorbing the color of the court. The green shade is easy on the eyes of the

Fraters Play Oakwood In Richmond Sunday

Manager Ralph Scrivener will take his Fraters to Richmond, Va., Sunday for a game with the highly touted Oakwood A. C. of that city. The latter eleven has not been defeated in three years of competition with the best unlimited clubs. Several former college and prep school stars will play with the Oakwoods.

Under the able guidance of Doc Driefus, who is coaching them, the Fraters have rapidly developed into one of the foremost unlimited teams in northern Virginia. The team boasts victories over the Northerns, Wolverines and Reina Mercedes, and has scored 86 points to its opponents' 6. The team is also a heavy favorite to capture the championship of the Capital City League, in which it is entered.

NEW POLICE PROBE OF MONEY LENDING ORDERED BY PRATT

EXTRA ATTENTION LAID TO BORROWING ON CARS

Bride to Begin Prosecution at Once Against Those Without Licenses.

An echo of the investigation of loan-shark activities in the District conducted by The Post a year ago was heard yesterday when Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, ordered all precinct commanders to investigate the money-lending situation in their jurisdictions.

A thorough survey was ordered, with reports to be submitted to Maj. Pratt by the precinct captains not later than Tuesday, for transmission to the District Commissioners.

Particular attention is being paid to lenders who use the borrowers' automobiles as security, and the basis upon which it is planned to take action is found under the licensing laws of the District which require such lenders to pay a tax of $100 per year.

Yearly Tax of $100.

The law, it is pointed out, is that "note brokers shall pay a tax of $100 per annum. Every person, firm, company or association not incorporated (except private banks and bankers) that loans money on promissory notes without real estate or collateral security or advances money on personal property as security without possession of said personal property shall be deemed a note broker: Provided, that exception shall be made of cooperative associations whose business is restricted to the members of such associations."

It is, as was pointed out by The Post in its expose last year, the practice of the District's loan sharks to lend money on automobiles while the borrower retains possession of his car—until he falls behind in its payments, when the lender seizes the car, and the owner must pay, in addition to exorbitant rates of interest, further charges in the form of what the lenders refer to as a "snatch fee," as well as storage charges.

Generally $20 to $25.

The "snatch fee" may be from $15 up, and generally is about $20 or $25, while storage charges at the rate of 50 cents per day are exacted for every day from the time the car is "snatched" until it is redeemed.

In his orders to the precinct commanders, Maj. Pratt calls specific attention to information presented by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride that "a number of persons engage in the business of loaning money and using the borrowers' automobiles as collateral security for the loan, notably on New York avenue northwest between Ninth and Tenth streets."

The order directs "a canvass of all persons operating loan companies in the District of Columbia to determine whether they have secured the necessary license to operate as note brokers."

Prosecution will be instituted by Mr. Bride immediately in all cases where the police probe shows that note brokers are operating without licenses.

Jury Exonerates Haury.

After listening to testimony in the case of Charles E. Haury, an official of the International Union of Operating Engineers, the grand jury yesterday refused to indict him on a charge of simple assault.

D. A. R. TABLET HONORS HERO OF REVOLUTION

Local officers of the Daughters of the American Revolution yesterday unveiled a tablet to Stephen Bloomer Balch, contemporary of George Washington. TAXI-RATE HEARING MAY FINISH TODAY

Accountant of Commission Today to Testify on Cost of Zone System.

The taxicab hearing, which has been dragging along for three days, probably will be concluded this afternoon. Meanwhile, it is costing the Public Utilities Commission about $40 a day, as the taxicab industry is not organized sufficiently to be charged the expenses as in other utility hearings.

B. M. Bachman, chief accountant of the commission, today will testify on cost operation of cabs under the zone system, as indicated by monthly reports of companies and independent operators.

Officials of the City Cab and the Broadmoor Cab companies yesterday testified that their organizations are making money under the present arrangement, but admitted that a slight raise in fares might be advisable. They said their drivers are clearing approximately $5 a day on the 20-40-60-cent scale.

Complaints that the low-rate taxicabs are undermining the street car and bus patronage were voiced by William F. Ham, president of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., and E. D. Merrill, president of the Washington Rapid Transit Co.

S. Russell Bowen, chief counsel of the Washington Railway & Electric Co., presented a brief in which he argued that the commission has the power to end a taxicab rate war in the interests of both the utilities and the public.

Mr. Ham pointed out that the street cars are subject to restrictive regulation, while the taxicab industry has been permitted to operate almost at will. He also recalled that the street car companies in 1919 sought to install the zone system, but that their request was denied by the utilities body.

Lions' Club Jobless Aid Recognized Nationally

Washington Lions Club has been praised strongly for initiation of a program of unemployment relief and other Lions clubs throughout the country have been advised of the local chapter's work and urged that consideration be given it in their cities, according to a letter received from national headquarters of the organization.

The program, which has been adopted by many other clubs and groups throughout the city, calls for extra employment of a person two days of each week and purchase of at least two articles which are useful but not indispensable.

Charles Casterlin Dies After Bowling

Heart Attack Is Fatal to Charles Gallery Treasurer.

Taken suddenly ill last night while in the Arcade Bowling Alleys at Fourteenth street and Park road northwest, Charles L. Casterlin, 40 years old, vice president and treasurer of the Charles Gallery, interior decorators, at 1029 Connecticut avenue northwest, was pronounced dead by a doctor from Emergency Hospital. Death was attributed to a heart attack.

Mr. Casterlin, who lives at 3009 Albermale street northwest, had just finished a bowling game and seated himself in a chair, when he slumped unconscious to the floor. Dr. G. W. Leadbetter, of 910 Sixteenth street northwest, who happened to be nearby, rendered first aid, but the man was later pronounced dead.

Surviving Mr. Casterlin are his wife, Mrs. Ann Casterlin; a sister, Mrs. Charles I. Corby; a daughter, Joan, and twin sons, Charles and Harry, 2 years old.

Truck of Eggs Scrambled by Auto Collision

"It's an ill wind that blows nobody good," runs the old saw, and an automobile accident last night which caused the injury of one man at least provided scrambled eggs this morning for several families.

An automobile truck loaded with 14,400 eggs, several cases of chickens and driven by Warren G. Davis, 33 years old, of Monrovia, Md., was en route to Mr. Davis' stall at the Northeast Market last night when it was struck at the intersection of Twenty-second and N streets northwest by another machine driven by Mrs. Augusta Daisley, 23 years old, of 2440 Sixteenth street northwest.

The truck overturned, pinning Harold Lyles, 40 years old, colored, an employe of Mr. Davis, under it. Lyles suffered a broken leg and three chickens were killed instantly. Others of the fowls suffered broken legs also. Eggs scattered over the street.

Almost before the noise of the crash had died away, children with paper bags and baskets were on the scene gathering up the scattered eggs, which were not too badly damaged to make omelettes this morning.

Pageantry Is Colorful as Communities Present Theatrical Scenes.

The prize-winning group, led by James Mallos, divided its presentation in two parts, a Greek folk dance and religious rites in honor of the protective Goddess of Athens. From the applause, it appeared the popular choice.

Songs by Kurt Ritter, Clara Schinskaya, and Miss Carmel Ragusa, in native German, Ukranian and Italian, respectively, aided in bringing Americanization School Association the loving cup in music to the The association's act, was entitled, "Songs of Many Lands."

Strings holding the cover over the plaque were drawn by Miss Marianne MacGowan, lineal descendant of Dr. Balch, and Miss Helen Montgomery, daughter of the present owner of the house. MRS. BARNEY WILLS SETTLEMENT HOME AS GIFT TO CAPITAL

City Has 6 Months in Which to Accept Donation of Neighborhood House.

TESTAMENT SIGNED ONLY FEW DAYS BEFORE DEATH

Second Husband Is Omitted in Bequests; Former Aid Given $200.

Under terms of a will made only four days before she died of a heart attack, Mrs. Alice Pike Barney, wealthy Washington and Los Angeles philanthropist, gives the Neighborhood House, social and industrial settlement of the Capital City, outright to the community.

This was revealed yesterday in Los Angeles with filing of the document for probate. Mrs. Barney asks that the name be changed to the Barney Neighborhood House and Social and Industrial Settlement.

It is provided that it first be loaned to the city for five years, provided the city pays all expenses and taxes in this period and operates it as it has been run the last 30 years.

Six Months for Acceptance.

If Washington does not accept this offer within six months, the will authorizes the trustees, Mrs. Barney's daughter, Laura A. Dreyfus-Barney, now in Paris, and the American Security & Trust Co., to give it to any charity they deem advisable.

Mrs. Barney, playwright and art patron, inherited $5,000,000 from her late husband, Albert Clifford Barney, Ohio banker, in 1914.

Then she moved here and several years ago startled society by marrying Christian Hemick, 26-year-old actor, half her age.

Second Husband Gets Nothing.

Hemick later divorced her in Chicago and is specifically omited from the will. Mrs. Barney left her former secretary, William Huntington, of this city, $200.

A like amount is given to Mr. and Mrs. John H. Neligh, of the Neighborhood House. Her Washington home at 2306 Massachusetts avenue northwest, is left to two daughters, Mrs. Dreyfus-Barney and Natalie C. Barney.

The only estimate of the estate in the probate petition is that it will exceed $50,000. Mrs. Barney died in Los Angeles, October 12, age 68, as she was about to attend a musicale.

LaForce was charged by two brother officers, H. G. Wannamaker and Joseph A. Wheeler, with having made out a note for $300 which they had signed in blank, after he had allegedly told them he would make the note for $50. The action of the grand jury exonerates LaForce of the accusation.

FUND LACK THREAT TO HOSPITAL PLANS

Municipal Architect to Ask Congress for Money to Complete Work.

Unless Congress authorizes an additional $40,000 for the municipal architect's office, preparation of design for District building projects, among them the proposed Children's Tuberculosis Sanitarium, is likely to be halted at the end of this calendar year, Maj. H. L. Robb, Assistant Engineer Commissioner, revealed yesterday.

Forty per cent of the employes of the office have already been discharged because of money shortage, together with a decrease in work, and many others will have to be dropped unless funds are forthcoming before the first of next year, it was said.

S. B. Walsh, assistant municipal architect, was instructed by Maj. Robb yesterday to push forward drafting of plans and specifications for the Tuberculosis Sanitarium, followng announcement that all members of the special committee named by the District Commissioners had agreed on the design.

Present plan calls for a four-story building with accommodations for 130 beds. Approximate cost will be $340,000. Estimated cost of the nurses' home is $65,000. Remainder of the $550,000 available will be applied to construction and equipment of a central heating plant, drilling of wells to provide a water supply, provision of sewage facilities and other improvements.

The special committee report was signed by Dr. J. Winthrop Peabody, superintendent of the District Tuberculosis Hospital; Dr. William C. Fowler, health officer; Dr. Joseph A. Murphy, chief of the medical staff of District schools; Dr. F. C. Smith, Veterans' Administration physician; Dr. W. A. Risk, tuberculosis specialist; Mrs. Ernest R. Grant, of the Tuberculosis Association, and George S. Wilson, director of public welfare.

Site for the hospital was purchased a year ago on Defense highway about 14 miles from the heart of the Capital. A controversy arose over the design and the committee was named to iron out differences of opinion.

BOARD OF EDUCATION HONORS DR. LEARNED AT TIME OF FUNERAL

Adjourns Out of Respect to Its Former President; Report Approved.

SPECIAL KENILWORTH APPROPRIATION FAVORED

Committee Urges Adequate Facilities for Cripples at Two Schools.

Dispensing with reading of the minutes and quickly disposing of a few reports, the Board of Education yesterday adjourned out of respect to Dr. H. B. Learned, the last president of the board, who died last week in California.

Mrs. Philip Sydney Smith, acting chairman of the board, reminded the members that the funeral of Dr. Learned was taking place in South Manchester, Conn., concurrently with the meeting. She then asked the members to stand for a moment in silent prayer. The meeting was then adjourned.

Prior to adjournment the board approved a report of the finance committee recommending that the Bureau of the Budget be asked to include an emergency appropriation in the school estimates for a new Kenilworth school. This building was recently abandoned, after cracks were found in the walls. On recommendation of the Engineer Commissioner's office the old building will be abandoned.

Asks New Stadium.

The board received a petition from the Parent-Teacher Association of Business High School asking that congressional action be sought for a stadium at the new Roosevelt High School, which will replace Business. The petition was submitted by Edward R. Williams, president of the Business P.-T. A.

Enrollment in the white night schools is 7,054 and in the colored 3,596, it was revealed in a report from the superintendent. The total night school enrollment is 10,650.

The board received a report from the committee on physically handicapped children. Some of the recommendations of the committee are:

That the present accommodations for crippled children in the Weightman and Magruder schools be replaced as soon as possible by adequate modern facilities in buildings construction in appropriate locations.

Aid for Crippies.

That adequate provision be made for these children through proper equipment for the several kinds of therapy now in general use for the physical rehabilitation and educational adjustment of young growing children of this type.

That the board of education continue the operation of the two schools for crippled children managed under funds appropriated by Congress until such time as new schools are completed and an ultimate agreement is reached as to their management. The committee recommends the establishment of two schools for crippled children in the neighborhood of, or adjacent to hospitals.

That the board of education should have no responsibility except for the classroom instruction under regularly appointed public school teachers whose work will be under the direction of the school authorities.

That the children's sanatorium be completed at the earliest possible date.

The general aspects and scope of consumer credit was discussed by Dr. Clyde W. Phelps, head of the department of economics and commerce at the University of Chattanooga. Milan V. Ayers, analyst for the National Association of Finance Companies, spoke on the problems and methods of installment buying, while Dr. Frank M. THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

BEFORE EDISON.

(The scene is the typical American home. It is a little after dark).

MOTHER—Lem, you'll have to go down cellar 'n' get another hod of coal. There ain't enough here to keep the stove goin' while I cook the supper.

Father—Sakes alive! By the heat o' this room I'd think the fire was roarin'.

Mother (mopping her brow with her apron)—If you had to stand over this stove the way I do I guess you'd think it hot. Go get me a hod o' coal; we're havin' baked pertaters and they take time.

Father (coming up from the cellar with a hod of coal after a few minutes)—Phew! There it is, Emma, but I darned near killed myself down there.

Mother—Cut your head agin, I s'pose?

Father—I couldn't find the candle, and tripped over a big basket o' washing. I wish they'd leave them candles where I put 'em.

• • • •

FATHER (irritably)—What's the matter with this lamp?

Mother—Oh, it's been sputterin' like that lately.

Father (trying to turn it up)—It's the wick needs trimmin'.

Mother—Don't go turnin' it way up like that or you'll smoke up the globe so we won't be able to see a thing. I trimmed the wicks on every lamp in the house yestiddy.

Father—Just as I thought—there's no kerosene in it. Where's the kerosene can?

Mother—Out there under the sink where it always is, Lem, but I'm afraid it's empty. I meant to order kerosene this morning but forgot it. You can run down to Lutz's and get it filled now.

Father—There's a law against sellin' kerosene after dark.

Mother—Yes, but Mr. Lutz will let you have some if you tell him we want to sit up tonight and read the papers.

• • • •

AFTER SUPPER.

LITTLE WILLIE—Ma, can I go over to Eddie Mullett's? He's gonna show me his magic lantern. Gee, it shows colored pitchers of boats 'n' everything.

Mother—I don't think you'd better go way over to the Mullett's house. It's on such a dark street; I don't like to have you going through it at night

Willie—Gee, can't a feller have a little fun, maw?

Mother—You ask Eddie over here and you can show him that book with all the Civil War pictures in it.

Sister Sally (piping up)—Gosh, we never go anywhere.

Father—Now, children. Don't start that again. Didn't you all go to the circus last June?. You just have patience. In two or three weeks ma and I will take you over to Blodgett's Mills to see "Uncle Tom's Cabin." They've got two Topsies this year. Be quiet now and play your music box. It'll be bedtime pretty soon, anyhow. It's nearly half-past seven.

• • • •

MOTHER (quite worried)—I wish there was some way we could get a doctor.

Father—How about Dr. Chetney?

Mother—He lives all of two miles from here. I don't see how we can reach him before morning.

Father—I guess I'd better dress and walk over. I can make it in an hour or so if I can find it.

Mother (concernedly)—Well, maybe you'd better, Lem.

Father (as he dresses and departs)—I'll go to the woodshed and get the barn lantern. It's black as pitch where that doctor lives. Just keep the boy comfortable till I fetch him.

Thief Who Sought "Man" In Holton Arms Gets $65

A burglar who was "looking for a man" in the maleless confines of a fashionable girls' school last night escaped without finding him, but richer by $65.

Miss Mary C. Lockwood, a chaperon at the Holton Arms School, 2138 Bancroft place northwest, entered the school last night about 7 o'clock to find a stranger on the steps. All of the young women were out of the building at supper at the time.

Miss Lockwood was rather startled to find a male there, but asked him what he wanted.

"I'm looking for a man," he replied, and then suddenly decided to do his looking some other place. He brushed past Miss Lockwood and hurried out the door. Police were called, but they failed to find a trace of the burglar.

Examination revealed that $65 in cash was missing from the rooms of four students at the school.

Ban Is Placed on Rowdyism In Halloween Celebration

Doorbell ringing, flour throwing, "tic-tacs," other such devices and "rowdyism in its various forms" were indicated to the Metropolitan Police Department yesterday by Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent, as on the taboo list for Halloween frolickers October 31.

"Innocent pranks will be permitted," the superintendent's instructions to officers for the evening said, adding that children of tender years who appeared to be too enthusiastic in their prankishness should be taken to their parents for judgment, while those Halloweeners of maturer years are directed to be arrested and charged with whatever offense they may commit under the regulations.

Commanding officers of precincts were ordered to take the necessary steps to police their vicinities.

Directions were also given out for handling the parade to be sponsored by civic organizations on Pennsylvania avenue. Constitution avenue, between Fourteenth and Seventeenth streets northwest, was ordered closed during and after the parade for a period of dancing.
